REED'S VICTORY CALLED REBUFF TO NEW DEALERS

G. O. P. Hails Result in Pennsylvania.

In results of Tuesday's primary Senator David A. Reed was leading Gov. Pinchot 576,926 to 467,104, a majority of 109,822 votes in 7,407 out of 7,936 precincts for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator in Pennsylvania. In New Jersey Judge Hamilton F. Kean was renominated for the senate and will face Gov. A. Harry Moore as his Democratic opponent in the election.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Pennsylvania's repudiation of the New Deal, as registered in yesterday's primary in that state, was hailed jubilantly today by Republicans in Washington. The New Dealers received the news with long faces and sought to deny its significance.

Senator David A. Reed, whose voice has been one of the stanchest in the senate raised against the schemes of the New Deal, was renominated by a big majority over Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Republican apostle of the New Deal.

Mr. Pinchot went over the state with his wife making speeches in support of the Roosevelt policies. He pleaded directly that Pennsylvania send a Republican senator to Washington who would be in sympathy with the New Deal.

New Deal Made Issue.

Mr. Pinchot and his wife have been guests at the White House several times, including one occasion only two weeks ago. It was plain to all Pennsylvania that Mr. Pinchot had the blessing of Roosevelt.

Mr. Reed campaigned with great vigor on one issue. He vehemently denounced the New Deal and called for a return to the ideals of the old political and economic systems which had served the nation from its birth.

So the issue was cameo clear, and Washington generally, on both sides of the fence, accepted the vote in yesterday's primary, before it was cast, as a fair test of the popularity of the New Deal.

But today Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, who had not hesitated to label the results of the Illinois primary as a New Deal victory, hedged away from a similar rating of the results in Pennsylvania.

"I do not regard the defeat of Gov Pinchot as a New Deal test," Mr. Farley said.

Roosevelt Refuses Comment.

President Roosevelt was asked at today's press conference to comment on the Reed victory, but he refused. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader, agreed with the Farley view.

The Republicans were not so reticent. Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, issued a pronouncement that the Pennsylvania primary result was "a great victory for the American citizen who wants a square deal and not a new deal."

There is no doubt that many Republicans in both houses of congress who had been very uneasy in their seats took vast encouragement from the Reed victory. Many of them had been apprehensive of taking definite stands against the administration, fearful that the voters would rise up against them for obstructing the President's wishes.

Reed Not Hesitant.

Senator Reed was not one of these. He blasted the schemes and legislative measures of the brain trust when they were under consideration, opposed them strenuously. He stuck boldly to his ultra-conservatism. He never sought to avoid the label of "old guard." He is a rich man, a blue stocking.

All this made him the senate's clearest exponent against the New Deal, and with the radical Pinchot as his opponent, parading Rooseveltian ideas, the choice of the voters impinged on the New Deal issue.

It was pointed out by the Democrats that Pennsylvania has always been an overwhelmingly Republican state, and that it was one of the six states carried by Mr. Hoover in the 1932 election.

Nevertheless, the Democratic leaders have been sounding off with frequent claims that the President's popularity, and the public support of his New Deal policies, is increasing. The primary in Pennsylvania does not seem to bear this out.

The Democratic candidate for senator in Pennsylvania, Joe Guffey, the national committeeman for his state,

ROOSEVELT AND SENATORS PAVE WAY FOR ACTION

Remonetization May Take Place Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.] — President Roosevelt today reached an agreement with the silver bloc in the senate, paving the way for legislation remonetizing silver at this session of congress.

A silver bill bearing the White House's approval and a message from the President are expected to go to congress within the next few days. A preliminary draft of the bill as drawn by the treasury department was discussed by the President, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., and the silver senators today.

In its final form the bill is expected to impose upon the President a mandatory policy of maintaining a silver reserve equal to at least 25 per cent of the gold reserve. This silver will be used as a basis for issuing paper money.

Grants Nationalization Power.

The bill will also grant to Mr. Roosevelt permissive power to nationalize all silver if he wishes. Such a step, which would be modeled on the recent nationalization of gold, would make illegal all private holdings of silver bullion.

After today's conference the White House issued a statement explaining that within a day or two the President will send a message to congress relating to the metallic bases behind the currency, both silver and gold. The message is expected to make specific recommendations as to the next steps which the President agrees to take on gold as well as silver.

The President feels, a White House spokesman said, that he has at last reached a general agreement on silver. Even radical members of the silver bloc, such as Senator William E. Borah [Radical, Idaho] and Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Radical, Mont.], both of whom had revolted against previous White House proposals, appeared to have joined in today's agreement.

Deny Any Disagreement.

Although the eight senators who attended the White House conference would not admit that a final settlement of the silver problem had been reached, they all denied that there was any longer ground for disagreement between themselves and the President.

One point to which some uncertainty still attached was whether the silver reserve would be set at 25 per cent of the gold reserve or higher. Senator Wheeler said the 75-25 ratio had not been agreed to absolutely yet. It was also uncertain as to whether the silver bloc would agree to give the President a free hand in buying up silver for the new reserve at any time and manner he saw fit.

All Senators Pleased.

In spite of these remaining questions, all the senators, including the recalcitrant Borah, who stalked out of the last silver meeting in disgust, were pleased over today's turn in events.

"More progress was made today than in all the other days together. We are getting along fine, but there is no final conclusion," Senator Borah said after the conference. Others attending the White House discussion were Senators William H. King [Dem., Utah], Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], Pat McCarran [Dem., Nev.], Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], Henrik Shipstead [Farmer-Labor, Minn.], Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.], and Senator Wheeler.

WEARY WILLIAM GETS HIS SLEEP AND A JAIL TERM

The complaining witness, Thomas Karshas, 3118 West 16th street, told Judge Howard Hayes yesterday that he found William Woods, a Negro, under a bed in his home with his shoes off.

"Yes, sir, judge," replied William, when asked if he had anything to say for himself, "I was under the bed, but I didn't mean any harm. This was the way it happened: I was on this man's back porch and I was terribly tired, so I leaned up against a window and it broke. Yes, sir, that window broke and I fell right inside the house."

"Well, can you beat that!" commented the judge.

"Yes, sir, judge," resumed William, "I was so tired that I hunted around for a place to sleep. I found the bed and crawled under it."

"And did you get your rest?" inquired Judge Hayes.

"No, sir, not right away," replied William. "You see, my feet hurt me so I couldn't sleep, so I pulled off my shoes."

William's story got him off with a thirty day sentence for malicious mischief. A burglary charge was dismissed.

All Time Dry Record in May; Injury Grows

BY PAUL POTTER.

A beating sun that continued to sear farm crops and damage gardens, lawns, trees, and shrubs brought new high temperatures yesterday. No indication of precipitation for the Chicago region today could be found by the federal weather bureau. Temperatures in the 80s were forecast for Chicago and suburbs today. Some local showers are in prospect for some of the central states.

To the damage caused by the drouth in Chicago and the nearby countryside has been added the serious injury inflicted on barley, rye, and oats by chinch bugs. Production of milk and truck crops in this region also is being curtailed daily by the drouth and high temperatures.

May Dry Record Set.

The first 16 days of May have been the driest on record here, setting a new drouth mark for 63 years. The former driest May in weather bureau records was reported in 1921, when only .80 of an inch fell during the entire month. To date the fall here has been .02 of an inch. The total precipitation since Jan. 1 stands at 3.91 inches, compared with the normal on this date of 11.23 inches. Chicago is nearly 10 inches behind the normal rainfall since last October.

The last appreciable rain fell here on April 11, but even then the fall was only .15 of an inch. On May 9 a shower brought .01 of an inch.

With the drouth reducing pasturage and depleting feed stores, the directors of the Pure Milk association at their meeting today are expected to draw a resolution favoring an increase in the base price of milk to be paid to farmers. This resolution will be sent to the Agricultural Adjustment administration at Washington.

The base price for milk has been $1.60 per hundred pounds. With a rise in this price the cost of milk in Chicago, which has been 8 cents a quart, will be raised, but it is not expected that the increase will be more than a cent a quart.

Nebraska Near a Crisis.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska telegraphed to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Relief Administrator Hopkins in Washington that the farm situation in his state was approaching a crisis as a result of the drouth. A. E. Anderson, Nebraska crop statistician, reported yesterday the drouth area covered 56 per cent of the state's cultivated area. Gov. Bryan emphasized the "immediate need for relief either from a generous rain or revision of the present crop contract rules" to save farmers from distress.

The weekly summary of weather and crop conditions issued by the federal weather bureau here pointed out that while more than half of the entire grain area of the nation has had moderate to heavy rains the drouth continues unbroken in many other sections.

BUYER FOR A. & P. FOUND GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Louis W. Gruber, 34 years old, former purchasing agent for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, was found guilty last night of embezzling $9,500 from the company by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge James F. Fardy. Hearing on a motion for a new trial was set for May 25. If this is denied Gruber will receive a sentence of one to five years in the penitentiary.

The state charged that Gruber obtained the money by buying merchandise and supplies through a dummy firm of his own and then reselling them to the company at increased prices. This was done through use of false bills, invoices and other documents to which Gruber obtained the signatures of other company employés, the state alleged.

Assistant State's Attorney James R. Brown, who prosecuted Gruber, said the company had lost $600,000 through Gruber's operations, although the indictment charged him with obtaining only $9,500.

STAND-IN FOR GARNER GOES TO SLEEP IN CHAIR

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(AP)—"Mr. President," Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] called in the senate today, seeking recognition.

"Mr. President," Vandenberg shouted more insistently.

Still no reply.

Senators began to grin.

Senator Erickson [Dem., Mont.], temporarily presiding, was sound asleep in Vice President Garner's chair.

John Crockett, senate clerk, turned and spoke to him.

LAKE FOREST'S WEALTHY FIRE FANS ARE CHIDED

Whenever there's a fire in Lake Forest automobiles of every description, from limousines of wealthy residents to grocery delivery cars, dash to the scene in the wake of the fire department. As a result, said Chief of Police Frank Tiffany yesterday, the fire fans and their automobiles clutter up the scene of the blaze and interfere with the fire fighters. This has got to stop, Chief Tiffany warned, and he hopes he will not have to speak about it again or he may be compelled to invoke a city ordinance which forbids the practice.

Negro Refuses to Risk Freedom on Own Dice

Jacksonville, Fla., May 16.—(AP)—A Negro accused of gambling brought his own dice into court today, but wouldn't risk his case on them. Told by the municipal judge he would be freed if he could "roll a seven" with the dice, the Negro refused. The dice were "loaded." He was sentenced to 30 days in jail for gambling.

Sleuth Tells of Girl's Life with Dillinger

St. Paul, Minn., May 16.—(AP)—The story of the ups and downs of life with the arch fugitive, John Dillinger, as related to him by Evelyn Frechette, was told in federal court today by H. H. Reinecke, federal agent from Chicago. Miss Frechette, sweetheart of Dillinger, is on trial for harboring a criminal.

EVELYN FRECHETTE.

Reinecke gave the story, which, he said, he received piecemeal from Miss Frechette on April 10. He was cross-examined by A. Jerome Hoffmann, chief defense attorney, who asked Reinecke if he was known as "the high powered griller of the department." This was denied by the federal man.

Tells Girl's Story.

Reinecke testified in part as follows: "I saw Miss Frechette April 10, 1934, in our offices in Chicago. I talked with her off and on during the day.

"She told me she met John Dillinger in the fall of 1933. She traveled with him to Florida, St. Louis and Tucson, Ariz.

"She visited him in the Crown Point, Ind., jail once and returned to Chicago. She said she read of his escape in the newspapers on March 4. She hadn't moved to an Addison street address, as she had told Dillinger she would, so she went there that night, thinking he would come there to get her.

"The next night John met her on the street and they drove to the Twin cities. She didn't know whether it was Minneapolis or St. Paul. They arrived about 5 a. m. on March 5. He left her downtown and picked her up later.

Returns with Money.

"When he left her he didn't have any money. When he returned he had money, she said, and she then rented an apartment in Minneapolis. They moved to the Lexington avenue apartment in St. Paul March 20 and lived there until March 31.

"John Hamilton, an associate of Dillinger's; Opal Long, and Pat Sharington, both girls, often spent the night there.

"She and John lived as Mr. and Mrs. Hellman. When the police came to the apartment March 31 she said they asked for Mr. Hellman. She told them he was not home and suggested they come back in the afternoon, as she was not dressed and couldn't let them in.

"When they insisted upon seeing her, she locked the door, went into the bedroom and dressed and awoke John. John said, 'Keep your shirt on,' because she was a little nervous. He dressed, tossed some money into a suitcase, shot through the door once with a burst from his machine gun, and sprayed the hallway with another burst.

"They went down the rear stairs. She backed the car out of the garage and they left immediately for Minneapolis and then went directly to Indianapolis."

Mrs. Anna C. Lancaster testified she rented an apartment to the woman she identified as Miss Frechette March "fourth or fifth."

Norwegian Parliament Rejects Plan to Quit League

OSLO, Norway, May 16.—(AP)—By a close vote of 59 to 55 the storting tonight rejected the labor proposal that Norway withdraw from the league of nations. Labor members of the parliament, supported by conservatives, argued that the league has failed to prevent an armaments race and that it endangers rather than protects small nations.

THREE CHICAGO JUDGES SCORED BY HOUSE GROUP

Impeachment Up to Full Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The house judiciary committee began consideration today of the records in bankruptcy and receivership cases of three Chicago federal judges.

The committee's deliberations are based upon a subcommittee report, making no recommendation for or against impeachment of the three jurists, Charles E. Woodward, James H. Wilkerson, and Walter C. Lindley.

The subcommittee's report was sharply critical of the records of the three judges. But the responsibility of recommending impeachment was placed squarely upon the full committee. Whether or not the facts unearthed by the subcommittee's year's inquiry are to be regarded as warranting an attempt to remove them from the bench will be decided by the end of the week.

Turns Over Final Report.

Chairman Tom McKeown [Dem., Okla.] of the subcommittee laid his final report before the full committee today—a document detailing the record made by each of the three judges, criticizing their allowances for attorney and receiver fees, but making no recommendations either for or against impeachment action.

With respect to Judge John P. Barnes, who has handled several receiverships and bankruptcies in the federal courts at Chicago since 1933, the McKeown subcommittee declared it had "no criticism as to his conduct in these matters."

"During his incumbency on the bench at various times, appointments were made by him of receivers in bankruptcy, and a review of the said appointments shows that receivers who are usually selected in this district were rotated generally and that no favoritism was shown," said the report.

"The records show also that Judge Barnes devotes the proper time to his court and is constantly present."

Details Records of 3.

Taking up in turn the records of Judge Woodward, Judge Wilkerson and Judge Lindley, the subcommittee report outlined the handling of each specific case, gave the amounts of fees allowed, and pointed out numerous other facts the investigators felt to be of importance.

It recited how Judge Woodward apparently made a practice of naming Loucks, Eckert & Peterson, the law firm which employed his son, to lucrative attorneyships in cases under his jurisdiction. It outlined the large fees allowed by Woodward in a number of the cases he handled, showing that in the H. O. Stone Investment company proceedings he allowed fees totaling $193,785. When they were paid, the report said, a balance on hand of only $4,000 was "all that remained of the estate."

Proceeding to a discussion of Judge Wilkerson's record, the report told of his allowing fees aggregating more than $2,400,000 in the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad case, of his appointment of Edward J. Brundage as receiver in several cases at a time when Mr. Brundage was receiving $12,000 a year from the sanitary district. Judge Wilkerson, the report pointed out, named officials of the Chicago Railways company as receivers in the traction cases and allowed them huge fees in addition to their regular salaries.

Hint Lindley-Insull Deal.

Judge Lindley, the report revealed, was virtually summoned to Chicago by Samuel Insull's personal attorney to handle the receivership of the Middle West Utilities and other Insull companies in 1932. As far as could be learned, the facts surrounding Judge Lindley's assumption of the bench at Chicago to administer the Insull cases had not hitherto been made public.

In the week of April 11, 1932, three judges were sitting in Chicago, the report stated. On Thursday, April 14, a complaint and a petition for a receiver for Middle West Utilities was filed and Judge Wilkerson entered an order continuing the petition until the following day. The next day and for several days after, the report said, Wilkerson was absent from court, although assigned at that time to the equity branch.

Meanwhile, telephone company records show, the report stated that on April 14, the day the Middle West complaint was filed, Samuel Insull's personal attorney phoned a lawyer named Lawrence Allen at Danville, Ill., where Judge Lindley was then sitting. Mr. Allen in turn phoned Judge Lindley, the report averred, asking him when he would be in Chicago.

"On April 15, 1932," the report

went on, "Judge Lindley sat in Judge Wilkerson's absence; the said Middle West petition for a receiver was presented to him, although two other regular district judges were holding court on the same floor."

In a hearing before Judge Evan A. Evans on objections to the fees allowed by Judge Lindley in the Insull Utilities Investments case, the report declared: "The various bankers, receivers and attorneys testified that various conferences were held by the bankers several days previous to the filing of the equity petitions for the various Insull receiverships; that at these conferences representatives of the Chicago banks were present; that the attorneys for the Insull companies, Insull's personal counsel, and Samuel Insull were all present; that a "slate" was arranged for the appointment of receivers and their attorneys agreeable to the banks and Insull; that the complaints filed in the Insull matters were prepared by Insull's attorneys and then given to various lawyers to file, after maneuvering to obtain suitable complainants called into the cases."

Lists the "Slate."

The "slate" for appointment of receivers and attorneys arranged at these conferences, the report said, was as follows:

Middle West Utilities company—Receivers: Samuel Insull Sr., Edward N. Hurley, and Charles McCulloch; attorneys for receiver: Schuyler, Dunbar and Weinfield; also Barry, Johnstone, Peters and Dixon; plaintif, Lincoln Printing company; attorney for plaintif: Essington and McKibben.

Insull Utility Investments, Inc.—Receivers: George A. Cooke and Calvin Fentress; attorney for receivers: Allen and Dalby; plaintiff: Howard Cherry; attorney for plaintiff: Miller, Gorham, Wales, and Adams.

Corporation Securities company of Chicago—Receivers: Patrick J. Lucey and Raymond McNalley; attorneys for receivers: Ashcraft and Ashcraft; attorney for plaintiff: Scott, McLeish and Falk.

The "slated" appointments were carried out by Judge Lindley, the report stated, and continued:

"Relative to fees in this case: Upon the resignation of Mr. Samuel Insull, Judge Lindley allowed him the sum of $8,000, after serving less than 60 days.

$162,000 Receivers' Fees.

"On August 6, 1932, on order of Judge Lindley, the monthly compensation of Receivers Hurley and McCulloch were fixed at $3,500 each, Receiver Hurley receiving prior to his death, the sum of $70,000 and, up to April of this year, Receiver McCulloch received $84,000, or a total of $162,000 receiver fees.

"On August 10, 1932, four months after their appointment, Judge Lindley allowed each law firm the sum of $14,000 and again on Nov. 3, 1932, the sum of $11,000 each. On Nov. 3, 1932, Judge Lindley entered an order fixing monthly fees for each law firm at $2,500, ancillary receiver and counsel fees of $20,000, or a total in excess of $300,000 for receivers and attorneys. On June 3, 1933, Judge Lindley entered an order that all future applications for allowance of fees be referred to a special master, Edgar Tolman."

Son's Firm Gets $293,889.

Judge Woodward's appointment of the law firm employing his son as attorneys in cases handled by him was discussed in the report as follows:

"Out of 27 equity receivership cases in which receivers were appointed by Judge Woodward the firm of Loucks, Eckert & Peterson, in whose firm the judge's son was an employé or member, were appointed in nine of these cases and as such attorneys received $233,489.89. Receivers received in the same cases $288,250.

"In the H. O. Stone case the receiver was paid $55,000, and the attorney for the receiver $60,000. There were 17 other equity cases handled by Judge Woodward. The total attorneys' fees amounted to $47,901.15, and the total receivers' fees $44,721.50. There were 13 bankruptcy cases in which the firm of Loucks, Eckert & Peterson were appointed attorneys for receivers by Judge Woodward, for which they received approximately $60,400 as attorneys' fees, making total fees paid this firm in 9 equity receivership cases and 13 bankruptcy cases the sum of $293,889.89.

"On the 10th day of October, 1930, the first day that Judge Woodward made an appointment in an equity receivership case, there was presented to him a petition for the appointment of receivers in the Prince and Whitely matter, a bankruptcy case, and there were suggested to Judge Woodward by Attorney Joseph Schwartz the names of three well known and reputable receivers who had been conducting federal bankruptcy receiverships in Chicago courts for a number of years. The judge, however, called into his chambers Mr. Eckert and stated that the names of receivers had been suggested to him, of whom he had information.

Appointed Them Himself.

"It later developed at the testimony that the names suggested to Judge Woodward had been appointed receivers in other cases by Judge Woodward himself within a few months prior to this time. It appears from the testimony that while Judge Woodward and Mr. Eckert were in the chambers the judge sent for Gen. Abel Davis of the Chicago Title and Trust company. The judge stated that he would appoint said trust company receiver and asked Mr. Davis to employ Mr. Eckert as attorney for the receiver. So, on the same day, Oct. 10, 1930, Judge Woodward appointed the Chicago Title and Trust company receiver and Mr. Eckert was appointed attorney for the receiver. Mr. Eckert was allowed the sum of $50,000 in fees as attorney in this matter.

"It appears from the uncontradicted testimony before the committee that Harold Woodward, son of Judge Woodward, entered the employ of the firm of Eckert and Peterson in the year 1926 after his admission to the bar, at a salary of $25 per week; then, in 1927, his salary was $1,800 per annum; in 1928 his salary was $2,100 per annum, and in 1929 it was $2,400 per annum. In the salary arrangement it was also agreed that Harold Woodward would receive 40 per cent of all business brought by him into the firm. In 1930 he received a salary of $3,000 plus $2,000, being 40 per cent of the business brought to the firm by him.

The St. Paul Railway Case.

"In December, 1930, his salary was increased from $3,000 to $13,000 and 40 per cent of business brought in. In 1931 he received a salary of $13,000 plus $5,200, being 40 per cent of the business brought in. In 1932 he received a salary of $13,000 plus $3,412 on the 40 per cent basis."

"The testimony developed that Harold Woodward, a son of Judge Woodward who was employed by the firm of Loucks, Eckert & Peterson and afterwards Eckert & Peterson, built a home in September and October, 1932, costing approximately $20,000."

Judge Wilkerson, the report related, fixed the fees for receivers and attorneys in the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad receivership in 1925 at an aggregate of $2,400,000. Much of the total was made up as follows:

H. E. Byram, receiver, $325,000; Mark W. Potter, receiver, $244,000; Edward J. Brundage, receiver, $244,000; H. H. Field, general counsel, $94,999; O. W. Dynes, general solicitor, $79,987; Winston, Strawn and Shaw, special counsel, $247,000; Hornblower, Miller and Garrison of New York City, $50,000; the firm of H. W. and W. K. Sparrow accountants, $55,000.

Details Trolley Awards.

The report outlined Judge Wilkerson's award of juicy fees to officials of the Chicago Railways company, although the officials drew double compensation at that time.

"It appears from the record that during all this time Blair and Hupp and Sheehan were being paid their regular salaries by the operating company, which was the same amount as they received prior to the appointment of the receiver. In other words, Blair was receiving from the operating company $5,000 per month, Hupp $500 per month, and Sheehan was receiving $2,000. Thus from the date of the appointment of receiver up to this time these three had been receiving double compensation," said the report.

"On Oct. 31, 1928, the city council of Chicago passed a resolution which was brought to the attention of Judge Wilkerson, calling attention to the fact that Blair as president of the Surface Lines was receiving a salary of $60,000; Hupp, secretary of the Surface Lines, $6,000, and Sheehan, counsel for the Surface Lines, $25,000 per year; Mr. Rawson, one of the receivers in the Mitchell estate, $50,000, and that the total amount of salaries to receivers, secretary and counsel up to Oct. 31, 1928, had totaled more than $400,000, and that this charge had been made to the joint account of the Chicago Railway company.

City Paid out of Profit.

"Now it appears that the interest of the city of Chicago arises from the fact that under the operating ordinance in the city of Chicago the city was to receive 55 per cent of the net profits of the Chicago Railway company, so that it was stated in the resolution that about $220,000 at that time had been charged to the city.

"It was further set forth that Mr. Blair was rendering the same services as president and that the same was true of Mr. Sheehan and Mr. Hupp, although they were receiving twice the amount of money that they had heretofore been paid as officers of the company. It is further set out in the resolution that Mr. Blair was receiving a salary of $45,000 in excess of the President of the United States."

JUDGE RULES NAVY WON THE WAR; WIFE SATISFIED BY VERDICT

New York, May 16.—(AP)—The navy won the war, Magistrate Casey ruled in his Queens court, thereby settling a 14 year argument between Clifford Brooker and his wife, Lillian.

Brooker served in company G, 106th infantry, in the world war, and his wife was a yeomanette attached to the Brooklyn navy yard.

Their long quarrel reached a climax Saturday night. Brooker presented the army's side of the question so forcibly that his wife had him arrested for disorderly conduct.

The case was called yesterday.

"If your husband tells you that the navy won the war will you be satisfied?" Magistrate Casey asked Mrs. Brooker.

She said she would.

Whereupon the court ruled:

"The judicial determination, so far as the happiness of the Brookers is concerned, is that the navy won the war. Is that right, Brooker?"

Brooker nodded and the judge suspended sentence.

SENATE DEBATES PLAN TO CHANGE NATIONAL VOTING

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(AP)—The senate today took up but laid aside until Monday the proposed Norris constitutional amendment to abolish the electoral college.

Most of the day was spent in debating whether the amendment would bring about a multiplicity of political parties that would be undesirable.

Much of the argument was flavored by the phrases of Senator Norris [Rep., Neb.]. He compared the electoral body to the fifth wheel of a wagon and said the ease with which independent candidates could run under his proposal would help to "purify" the two major parties.

Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], contended it would serve to bring to this country "the vice of continental European politics — government by blocs and minorities." He was seconded by Senator Fess [Rep., Ohio], who said it would increase the chances of presidential elections being thrown into the house of representatives for settlement.

The resolution would authorize direct election of the president and vice president, provide for election by 35 per cent of the votes cast instead of the present 50 per cent, and make it possible to nominate independent candidates for president.

N. U. Co-ed Fined $125 and Loses Auto License

Miss Margery Milam, 20 years old, a freshman in the Northwestern university school of music, had her automobile license taken away for three months and was fined $125 by Judge Harry H. Porter in the Evanston municipal court yesterday on charges growing out of an automobile accident May 8. On that day her car crashed into an Evanston-Niles Center bus at Greenwood street and Ridge avenue in Evanston. Judge Porter assessed the fine for reckless driving and driving without lights, and revoked the license when told that the young woman had twice been convicted for speeding. Miss Milam lives at 2608 Orrington avenue, Evanston.

BANDITS MENACE 100 IN OFFICE; FLEE WITH $1,500

Nearly 100 employés, half of whom were women, were menaced yesterday by four masked bandits who used an elevator operator as a shield while they robbed the offices of the Mills Novelty company, 4100 Fullerton avenue, manufacturers of slot machines, of $1,500.

Upon entering the lobby of the building the gunmen prodded Edward Arnold, elevator operator, with their pistols and forced him to lead them to the third floor offices. They made him march ahead of them into the office and kept him between them and their victims.

Three of the robbers lined up the office workers while the fourth man scooped up the money in the cashier's cage after threatening Miss Olive Abrahamson, a clerk, and Frank Schraeder, cashier. With the money in their possession, the four intruders backed out of the office, still forcing the elevator man to shield them.

TWO WINDOW WASHERS INJURED.

Eugene Englebert and Ernest Johnson, window washers, were seriously injured yesterday when a rope broke, letting down a scaffold on which they were cleaning fourth floor windows of a building at 2012 West Jackson boulevard.

JUNE ROBLES, 6, TELLS HER STORY OF DESERT CELL

Food Bad; Burns Herself Against Iron Box.

Tucson, Ariz., May 16.—(AP)—Little June Robles expressed hope today her kidnapers soon will be caught and have "some chains around them."

Visiting the sherif's office, the 6 year old girl viewed again the sheet iron box in which she spent 19 days chained underground in the desert. She eyed the box and the remains of the food found in it when she was rescued, and commented:

"I hope when they catch those kidnapers, they put some chains around them."

Ants Get Into Cookies.

Inspecting the left-over food critically and with apparent distaste, June said the bananas were "rotten."

"That is the box of cookies the ants got in," she said.

June was placed on the courthouse scales, and weighed 61½ pounds. Mrs. Helen Robles, her mother, said that was "about right."

Just before the visit to the sherif's office June gave her first extended interview, relating in detail her experience in the dark, insect-infested hole. Following is her story as copyrighted by the Tucson Daily Citizen:

"Three weeks ago this afternoon a man driving a black car stopped me on my way to Barney's house [Barney Kengla, cousin of June]. He told me daddy was fixing a radio and wanted me to come with him to where daddy was working. I thought it was all right and I got in the front seat with him.

Hat Hides Part of Face.

"I didn't know this man. He wore a hat and I couldn't see his face very well.

"We drove for a long time, and then we swerved off into the desert. When the car stopped I saw another man standing by a hole. The man I was with said, 'Well, here she is.'

"I was told to get out of the car. Then these two men opened the lid of a big box that looked like a trunk and told me to get into it. The box was buried in the ground. After I got in it they told me to keep quiet.

"There wasn't any floor in this room. There was some food. I had fruit and jam and cookies.

"The first day I was there I cried. I wanted my mama and my daddy. The men heard me and told me if I cried again they would whip me. I didn't cry any more. I didn't want them to hurt me.

Kidnapers Cover Box.

"When I was put in the box they covered it over with something. I think it was dirt and brush. I didn't have much light. There were some little holes in the lid. The lid was locked. I couldn't get out.

"It was very hot in the day. At night it was cold. They had a mattress on the ground.

"I slept on it. The next time they came there they took it away and gave me some gunny sacks. There were four sacks.

"I put one sack on the ground. I used one for a pillow. I put two of them over me for blankets.

"I got tired staying there. I didn't have any toys to play with. I missed my bunnies. I couldn't stand up. I had to walk like this [she crouched low].

Blisters on Her Forehead.

"The box got hot in the day. Sometimes I touched it and it burned me. See my forehead [it is a mass of burns which have started to heal]. Look at my legs [they appear scorched]. And look at this sore on my ankle. They tied me in the box with a chain. The chain was too tight and it hurt me. One afternoon one of the men fixed it so it didn't hurt so much.

"The men didn't come there very often. One week I didn't see them at all. I think they came there only three times. Maybe it was four.

"Two used to come together, and one day a third came along and brought me some sandwiches. There were two peanut butter, one egg, and one ham. They were good, too. The other times I had too many sweet things.

"You know I sure was lonesome. At night I couldn't sleep because I heard noises. I slept in the day sometimes. When it got too hot I couldn't sleep at all.

"I was there a long time. I thought it was Sunday when 'Uncle Lichi' [Carlos Robles] and Mr. Houston came for me. It was Monday they told me. I remembered the days pretty good, though.

"When 'Uncle Lichi' and Mr. Houston came for me I thought it was the men who took me away. Mr. Houston called to me and I said 'Oh, hello.' Then he asked me if I was all right, and I said 'yes.' He found the key and I opened the lock. Then he took me to Uncle Lichi. Uncle Lichi was far away on the desert.

Asks About Parents.

"I asked about my daddy and mama. They said they were going to take me to them. They told me I could see Barney again, too. We started away and then I remembered I forgot my report card. We went back and got it. I wanted my mama to see it. I had two grade one marks.

"We drove right home. My mama was there. She kissed me and hugged me. My daddy came home and kissed me. My grandfather and grandmother were there, too, and they kissed me. Sylvia [June's three year old sister] showed me some paper dolls she had cut out.

"I was glad to come home again. I want to play and go back to school. I want to see all my teachers, and the children."

BARRICADES SELF IN HOME, SHOOTS TWO DEPUTIES

Two deputy sherifs were shot yesterday when they tried to break the barricade which George Schultze, 69 years old, a retired railroad engineer, had set up in his home at 212 Maple street, Joliet. Schultze was wounded before he was captured.

The deputies are William Barrowman and William Barns. They went to Schultze's home after neighbors had complained that he had shut himself in a room and was firing shots out of the window. As Barrowman and Barns approached the house Schultze opened fire, wounding Barrowman in the hand and Barns in the right arm.

More than 20 Joliet and highway policemen then surrounded the house. After a half hour bombardment with pistols, rifles, and tear gas, Schultze surrendered when he was wounded in the hand and chin. He was taken to the county jail. The police were unable to learn the reason for his actions. Schultze has lived alone in the house since his wife died four years ago.

FOURTH SUSPECT IN KIDNAPING OF GETTLE SEIZED

Hope for Parole of Three Outlaws Fades.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—[Special.]—The hunt for the fourth man suspected of connection with the kidnaping of William F. Gettle, oil millionaire, ended late tonight.

The police took Clyde Stoddard, who has a police record, into custody and, after questioning, booked him on suspicion of kidnaping. He denied implication.

Just before they were put aboard the 6 o'clock train for San Quentin tonight, James Kirk, Larry Kerrigan, and Ray Williams, the convicted kidnapers, had their last hopes of an eventual parole from the life sentences meted last night blasted.

Indicted by U. S.

They were indicted at a rush meeting of the federal grand jury, as were June Ward and Loretta Woody, "molls," respectively, of Kirk and Williams, for conspiracy to use the mails for extortion.

The federal indictments admitted of a quick arraignment and Kirk, Kerrigan, Williams and the girls were led before Federal District Judge Paul McCormick where they worriedly pleaded not guilty. All five were ordered tried May 29 and Judge McCormick completed legal formalities by ordering them held in $50,000 bail each.

In the case of the three men it was grim joke. They will be in San Quentin penitentiary starting life sentences in the morning.

New Law Stops Parole.

Under the new California law on which the three were sentenced they cannot become eligible to parole — a hope Superior Judge Charles Fricke held out to them in sentencing them last night—because state penitentiary convicts are not paroled if another felony indictment is hanging over them.

The two girls tearfully declared they knew nothing of the Gettle kidnaping. Authorities who arrested them, however, say the girls voices were overheard on tapped telephone wires discussing the Gettle case with Kirk.

Their lawn trampled and their premises overrun by curiosity seekers, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Hull, owners of the cottage in which the kidnapers held the old man, today posted a new sign on the front lawn: "See the room where Gettle was held. Ten cents admission."

JURY DEBATES KIDNAP GUILT OF MRS. SANKEY

Pierre, S. D., May 16.—(AP)—A jury in federal court tonight deliberated the fate of Mrs. Fern Sankey and Mrs. Alvina Kohler, her sister-in-law, charged with conspiracy in the abduction of Charles Boettcher II. of Denver.

Judge Lee Lyman in his charge to the jurors instructed them to return separate verdicts for the two defendants.

The jury was locked up for the night at 10 o'clock tonight without having reached a verdict.

Gordon Alcorn, confessed member of the Sankey gang, turned government witness and implicated Mrs. Sankey and Mrs. Kohler in the Boettcher conspiracy.

BANGHART GETS 36 YEARS FOR MAIL ROBBERY

Asheville, N. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Basil Banghart and Ludwig Schmidt, Touhy gangsters, today were found guilty before Federal Judge E. Yates Webb of participating in the $105,000 mail truck robbery at Charlotte last November. Banghart was sentenced to 36 years imprisonment and Schmidt was sentenced to 32 years.

Banghart's sentence is to run concurrently with a 99 year term he must serve in Illinois for his part in the kidnaping of John Factor, wealthy speculator. He will be brought to the Joliet penitentiary. Schmidt is to be sent to a federal prison.

In passing sentence, Judge Webb described the men as desperate criminals, "murderers at heart," and expressed disappointment that the law did not permit death sentences in such cases. The trial began yesterday and the jury deliberated only 25 minutes after it retired this morning.

VILLA'S WIDOW SETTLES WITH FILM COMPANY

Hollywood, Cal., May 16.—[Special.]—Moving from obscurity into the limelight the first time in eleven years, Donna Luz Corral Vda de Villa, widow of Pancho Villa, tonight completed conferences regarding the motion picture "Viva Villa" here and prepared to return to Chihuahua with a settlement effected with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio. She had threatened to bring suit. A representative of the studio declined to name the cash amount of the settlement.

Señora Villa, who was accompanied by two young companions, Gloria Duval and Cleofas Terrazas, will return to a fifty room mansion in Chihuahua which Villa gave her. She declared she hopes to turn it into an orphanage for Mexican children. She said her only child by her marriage to Villa, which took place in 1911, had died in infancy, but said, "I have reared five other children of his by other mothers and I know of fifteen more.

"I do not claim to be the only woman he ever loved, but I am the only woman who held his heart. All his children have a perfect right to bear his name."

Industry as well as agriculture is beginning to feel the effects of the present record breaking drouth in the middle west. Officials of Inland Waterways corporation, operating federally owned barge lines, said yesterday they are already meeting difficulties in operating their barges on the upper Mississippi, and expect to encounter more if they open service on the upper Missouri, as they are scheduled to do on June 1.

Similar conditions would probably prevail on the Illinois waterway system, they added, were it not for the artificial feeding of the system by Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan. Until such time, at least, as that diversion is cut down under the mandate of the United States Supreme court, barges can operate in the Illinois waterway regardless of drouth, they said.

Approach All Time Lows.

Statistics furnished by C. A. Donnel, head of the Chicago weather bureau, showed that stages on the upper Mississippi river in particular and on other lanes of midwestern water transportation to a lesser degree, are approaching their all time lows—this at a season when there is normally plenty of water for navigation.

The Inland Waterways corporation operates two types of barges. The larger type carries 3,000 tons and draws from 10 to 12 feet when fully loaded. When it is loaded to 1,500 tons it draws 6½ feet. The smaller barges of a capacity of 500 tons, are usually loaded only to 350 or 400 tons, and then draw from 4½ to 5 feet of water.

On the upper Mississippi river the larger type barges are now only able to operate with the coöperation of army engineers, who remove sandbars in the main channel which because of the low water constitute a barrier.

At La Crosse, Wis., the Mississippi is only 3.3 feet above its all time low, set in September, 1931, at the end of a summer. The normal spring flood stage there is nearly 11 feet above the present level. At Davenport the Mississippi is 3.5 feet above the record low, a mark that was set in the month of December, 33 years ago, and was probably due to ice jams.

Low Water at St. Louis.

The St. Louis stage is 5 feet above the record low stage at that city, which again was set in the winter, during the abnormal cold of December, 1917.

On the Missouri river the stage at Kansas City is 9.1 feet above the record low, again set during a December, and at Bismarck, N. D., 7.4 above the record low. Even at these stages, however, the federal barge operators recently found it impossible to tow a wharf barge from St. Louis to their Kansas City barge terminal. This barge drew about 10 feet of water.

River stages on the Ohio have not fallen so low as on the western and northern parts of the Mississippi system. Barge operations on that river have not been hampered, partly because of more copious rainfall in that territory, but principally because the Ohio is now completely canalized from Pittsburgh to its mouth, utilizing locks and pools to make the most efficient use possible of the water available.

Keeping Channels Clear.

Navigation on the Mississippi below Cairo, where the Ohio joins it, is more a matter of keeping channels clear of sandbars than it is of water supply, but even the Father of Waters shows the effects of the drouth. At Memphis the present stage is 6.5 compared with an all time low of —2.7 feet set in 1895 and a flood stage of 34 feet.

The extent to which the Illinois waterway is dependent upon Chicago's water diversion to render it navigable is shown at Peoria where even with the drouth the stage is still 4.9 feet above record low water, and at Morris, in the canalized portion of the waterway where it is 6.1 feet above the record low.

Reduction of Chicago diversion to 1,500 cubic feet per second, as contemplated by the Supreme court mandate, will necessitate construction of two dams, one at Peoria and one on the lower river, as well as the dredging of numerous channels, to render the waterway navigable at all seasons, war department engineers said yesterday. This would in effect transform the whole Illinois river into a canal.

19 STATES AGREE TO ILLINOIS' RUM CONFERENCE PLAN

Nineteen states have thus far indicated they will be represented at the national liquor control conference to be held in Chicago in June, assuring the presence of sufficient delegates to warrant the meeting's being called, it was announced yesterday in Springfield by J. M. Braude, associate state director of finance. Gov. Horner will soon issue formal invitations to the governors of all the states to send representatives to the meeting at which an effort will be made to achieve uniformity in regulations. Discussions will also be held on various problems affecting the liquor industry.

Find Factories Misuse Water and Are Drying Up Fox River

An inspection committee decided yesterday that misuse of water by industrial concerns has caused the Fox river to run nearly dry between McHenry and Yorkville.

The committee, consisting of a hundred officials of towns and villages in the river valley, legislators and civic leaders, made the trip from Yorkville, in Kendall county, north through the towns of Kane county and into McHenry county, where the northernmost dam is located.

State Law Ignored.

Despite the state law prohibiting power users from diverting the water when it is standing six inches below the dam crest, places were found where water was being used while it was standing eight, ten and twelve inches below the crest.

As a result the river bed was found entirely dry in places between the dam and the outlet of the mill race, which might be anywhere from an eighth of a mile to a mile below the dam itself. The worst conditions were found at Batavia, Elgin, and Yorkville.

In Elgin, where the river runs through the center of the town, the inspection group saw a practically dry river bed, the water standing only in pools, making it almost possible to walk across the river without wetting one's feet.

How Water Is Used.

Walter M. Smith Jr., resident engineer of the state department of waterways, explained how the power users dry up the river bed. For example, he said, the water might be flowing an inch over the dam in the morning. Throughout the day, with the mill-race open, the pool above the dam is rapidly drained, until the water falls, say, six inches below the level of the dam crest.

At night the mill-race is closed. No water is flowing over the dam, and none through the mill race. Hence, until the pool above the dam can be slowly refilled by the normal flow of the river, there is no flow of water past the dam whatever, and the river bed remains dry.

State Senator Arnold Benson and Representative John F. Petit, members of the Fox chain of lakes and river commission, were of the opinion that the solution lay in a "100 per cent gentlemen's agreement" among the power users to keep strictly within the law in using the water.

Will Seek Coöperation.

"If the power concerns would only stop using the water for one week we would have a beautiful stream flowing through our valley," said Mayor Myron M. Lehman of Elgin.

Mr. Smith then delegated L. E. Alswede, investigator for the waterway department, to make a survey of all the dams in the valley and the use of the river supply for power purposes and to work out a plan to enlist the coöperation of the power users.

The suggestion was that they might use their auxiliary plants, taking power from the regular utilities companies, until the river's flow is restored.

BRITAIN TO PERMIT RODEOS BUT IT BARS ALL ROUGH STUFF

LONDON, May 16.—(AP)—It's all right to have a rodeo in Great Britain, but from now on the cowboys must be careful not to pull any rough stuff. New rules for ropers and riders were made official today by the house of lords, which passed the commons' rodeo bill just in time to make it apply to the show planned by Canadian and American cowboys at Wembley stadium.

The activities forbidden by the new law include:

"Throwing or casting, with ropes or other appliances, any unbroken horse, or untrained bull; wrestling, fighting or struggling with any untrained bull; riding, or attempting to ride, any horse or bull by the use of any appliance or treatment involving cruelty or any horse or bull which has been stimulated with the intention of making it buck during the performance."

MAYOR ORDERS HALT IN STRIFE OF COAL UNIONS

Confers with Delegation of Company Drivers.

Mayor Kelly last evening stepped between two rival coal unions whose members had clashed with increasing violence for three days and announced that police protection would be given "every honest workingman regardless of his union affiliations." He ordered an end of the strife which has centered at the yards of the Wilcox Coal company, 3700 Milwaukee avenue.

The mayor took action after more than 100 men employed at the Wilcox yards—all members of the Chicago Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Hikers' union, which has been declared an "outlaw" group by State's Attorney Courtney—appeared at the city hall.

Mayor Talks to Men.

Four representatives of the men conferred for an hour with Mayor Kelly and Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney. After the conference the mayor said the men had asked him to halt the violence which they declared had prevented them from working.

"There have my promise that there shall be protection granted to them and to employés of any coal company in the city," the mayor said. "This protection will prevent the disorder which has kept honest men from earning their livelihood. They appeared to be 'in the middle' on this union question, not really caring about one union or the other.

"I think they went away impressed by the fact that State's Attorney Courtney has no ax to grind, but is trying only to clean up the union situation and oust the hoodlums."

Picketing Starts Trouble.

The trouble at the Wilcox yards started Monday when James [Lefty] Lynch, president, and a score of members of the Coal Drivers and Handlers' union, local 704, picketed the premises. They announced that the Wilcox employés must join their organization, which is an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor and of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

The Wilcox employés refused and fist fights followed. Many of the Wilcox drivers charged they were beaten by the Lynch group. Yesterday the picketing continued and none of the company's delivery trucks was driven outside the yards. A squad of State's Attorney Courtney's police was on the scene, but Wilcox drivers charged the police made no effort to curb the pickets.

Report on Keenan Unfounded.

A report was published last night that Assistant United States Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan had flown to Chicago from Washington to investigate the coal union situation. Federal authorities said this report was entirely unfounded. It was discovered that the false report was due to the arrival here of Joseph J. Keenan of Seattle, Wash. His identity apparently was confused with that of the assistant attorney general, who was in Washington.

Bernard McDonnell, attorney for the Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Hikers' union, sent a telegram to President Roosevelt charging that members of the union were being coerced into joining another organization in violation of NRA codes. He asked that federal investigators be sent here.

20,000 Will Celebrate Norway Independence Day

More than 20,000 Chicagoans of Norwegian extraction are expected to participate today in the parade and celebration in Humboldt park of the anniversary of the declaration of independence of Norway in 1814. The parade will start at 1:30 from North avenue and Artesian avenue.

DIES UNDER TRAIN.

Escanaba, Mich., May 16.—[Special.]—George Olson was killed today when he fell under the wheels of a Chicago and North Western railway train as it was leaving the yards here. Olson was attempting to catch a ride.

STATE SALES TAX CALLED RETURN TO MEDIEVALISM

The state sales tax, first enacted for support of the idle and now used to eliminate the general property tax for state purposes, was characterized yesterday as a "return to the salt and match taxes of medieval Europe" by Dr. Herbert D. Simpson, professor of public finance at Northwestern university. He listed the points of progress and retrogression in municipal and state taxation and government in Illinois in the May issue of the Illinois Journal of Commerce.

Of the sales tax Dr. Simpson wrote: "As an emergency measure, when it becomes necessary to raise revenue regardless of principle or results, the sales tax serves a useful purpose; and it was enacted ostensibly for that purpose in Illinois."

"Its continuance as a permanent part of our taxation system will only add another antiquated element to an already antiquated tax system. From the standpoint of every sound principle in the distribution of tax burdens it is a vicious policy, imposing another obstacle in the way of business recovery at a time when the utmost leeway ought to be allowed to business enterprise, and levying an utterly disproportionate share of the costs of government upon the poorest classes of the community in their daily consumption.

"It is a return to the salt taxes and match taxes of medieval Europe, and is only another example of the striking reversion to medievalism which characterizes much of the popular political philosophy of the day."

ICKES ALLOCATES 37½ MILLION TO NEW YORK CITY

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Convinced by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia that the New York City budget was at last properly balanced, Secretary Ickes announced today the allocation of $37,558,500 from public works funds for completion of seven projects delayed for months because the city could not qualify for the huge loan and grant.

The major allocations included loan and grants, the government giving outright 30 per cent of the total for labor and materials on the construction projects. Several other awards were strictly loans, intended to complete the equipment of school buildings in the metropolitan area.

Among the chief items were: $23,160,000 for completion of the city subway system, 30 per cent being a grant and the remainder a loan; a loan of $2,268,500 for furnishing and equipping seventeen school buildings; $2,500,000, loan and grant, for the construction of a high school accommodating 3,700 pupils in Bayside, Queens; $3,850,000, loan and grant, for the construction of a new unit at Bellevue hospital, and a loan of $800,00 for improvements to the Queens General hospital, and $4,000,000, loan and grant, for the completion of three incinerators.

BROTHERS INSULL MEET IN COURT; CASES CONTINUED

Samuel's Time Is His Own Until Next Tuesday.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

Samuel Insull gained another respite from the law yesterday, after a brief meeting with his brother Martin in Judge James F. Fardy's Criminal court. Martin's case also was continued, but he must return today, while Samuel's time is his own until next Tuesday, when he must go to federal court.

Attorney Floyd E. Thompson presented a plea for Samuel, challenging the jurisdiction of the Criminal court, just as he had challenged federal jurisdiction last week, on the ground that Insull's extradition from Turkey was not legal. Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hora obtained a continuance until June 11 to give himself time to meet Insull's "shanghai" plea. The state at that time may take advantage of the government's evidence, which is scheduled for presentation before federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan on Tuesday.

Brothers Meet in Corridor.

Yesterday's meeting of the brothers Insull was their first appearance together before a bar of justice. Since their extradition from foreign lands—Samuel from Turkey and Martin from Canada—however, they had met in St. Luke's hospital, where Samuel is resting in a free room.

The brothers met in the corridor outside Judge Fardy's courtroom. They exchanged grave smiles and then shook hands in the elevated, crooked elbow manner of serious minded fraternity boys.

"Hello, Martin," and "Hello, Sam," they said, and then posed together for a battery of photographers.

After three of four petty burglary and stickup cases were out of the way Judge Fardy's clerk read the numbers of the three state indictments accusing the Insull brothers of embezzling half a million dollars from the Middle West Utilities company and the Mississippi Valley Utility Investments company.

Martin came forward, but Samuel did not. Then Martin's case was continued until 11 a. m. today for arguments on his plea in abatement, Attorney E. M. Aaron explaining that neither John E. Northup, chief of Martin's defense counsel, nor Judge John Prystalski, a defense witness, was available.

The defense will seek a jury hearing on the plea in abatement, which is based on allegations that the grand jury which indicted Insull was illegally constituted and that the Criminal court building is outside the territorial limits of the Cook county seat prescribed by the state constitution.

Judge Prystalski was chief justice of the Criminal court in October, 1932, when the indictments were voted, and he will testify to the manner of selecting the grand jury. The state Supreme court recently held that the method in vogue at that time was unconstitutional, but has granted a rehearing on this decision.

O'Hora to Fight Jury Hearing.

Prosecutor O'Hora said he would oppose the request for a jury hearing on the plea in abatement. Whatever a jury might decide as to the facts of selecting the grand jury, he said, would be of no consequence, because the judge would still have to apply the law. Mr. O'Hora did not seem concerned at all about the defense effort "to move the courthouse," this plea having been raised in vain in previous cases.

The principal case against Martin charges larceny and embezzlement of $344,720 from Middle West Utilities. In addition to this, the brothers were indicted jointly on charges of abstracting $66,000 from Middle West Utilities and $104,000 from Mississippi Valley Utility Investments. The Canadian court, however, struck out the $66,000 charge against Martin and reduced the other to $20,000, so that he can be tried only on the $20,000 count in the joint case.

Samuel Insull's federal case in which the jurisdiction of the court is being challenged accuses him and 17 others of perpetrating a mail fraud through selling stock in the Corporation Securities company.

USES PHONE OF JUDGE TO TRY TO FIX CASE; JAILED

Morris Lattin, 33 years old, of 508 Pine street, Waukegan, spent 45 minutes in the city jail there yesterday, musing on the inadvisability of using a judge's telephone in an effort to "fix" a trafic case.

Lattin had just been told by Police Magistrate Clarence Brown that he would have to pay $2 for double parking and blocking trafic on the downtown streets of Waukegan. He asked to borrow the judge's phone and called a friend, whom he asked to "fix" the case for him.

Judge Brown, angered, called Lattin before him again, and fined him an additional $10 for contempt of court. Not being able to pay, Lattin went to jail. He stayed there until his wife appeared before the magistrate and pleaded for his release.

Magistrate Brown finally relented vacated the $10 fine, and let Lattin go on payment of the $2.

Take Training for Stratosphere Flight

Prof. Jean Piccard and his wife, who went aloft in racing balloon yesterday at Detroit with pilot as training for projected stratosphere flight. They landed in Ontario.

[Acme Photo.]

PICCARD'S WIFE BRUISED ON FIRST TRIP IN BALLOON

THAMESVILLE, Ont., May 16.—(AP)—Enthusiastic over a "very lovely" trip, marred only by the loss of an angel food cake and a bruised arm on landing, Mrs. Jeanette Piccard, who hopes to pilot a balloon to the stratosphere this summer, completed her first balloon flight here today.

The eight hours and twenty minutes she spent in the air with her husband, Prof. Jean Piccard, noted stratosphere student, and E. J. Hil, gave her the first leg on her qualifications as the first licensed woman balloonist. They took off at Detroit early this morning. Piccard is a twin brother of Auguste Piccard, first man to fly to the stratosphere.

"We went northeast from Detroit," Mrs. Piccard said in relating her experience. "We had fine weather and the view was lovely. We made an intermediate landing around Wallaceburg for a while, where we tied up in a field."

The injury to her arm when the balloon bumped down in a field near here at 1:20 p. m., she passed off lightly.

"I've had worse bangs at home," she said.

GEN. MAC ARTHUR ASKS 1¾ MILLION IN SUIT FOR LIBEL DAMAGES

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staf of the army, filed suit in the District of Columbia Supreme court today for $1,750,000 in libel damages against the Washington Times company and Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, authors of a syndicated column appearing in the Washington Herald and other papers entitled "The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round."

Gen. MacArthur charges that articles printed gave the impression that he was guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer, contrary to army regulations, or held him up to ridicule and contempt.

According to the suit, the articles alleged that he was attempting to succeed himself as chief of staf, notwithstanding the rule for rotation of the office; that he had pulled wires, and that when on duty in the Philippines he had chafed at not being promoted fast enough. The articles, it was asserted, had questioned his eviction of the bonus army, accused him of leading a drive to oust Assistant Secretary of War Woodring, and stated that he had been dictatorial and guilty of insubordination.

U.S. AIRMEN PLAN RETURN FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC

Will Complete Journey to Rome First.

LAHINCH, Irish Free State, May 16.—(AP)—After missing death by a narrow margin on their eastward flight across the Atlantic Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli were impatient today to be in the air again and tempt fate by trying to fly back to New York.

Their new plans call for a visit to Rome, after which they will return to Ireland and attempt to fly back to New York, thus substituting a round trip flight for the honor they missed when they failed to reach Rome in a single hop.

Face Delay in Repairing Plane.

"I am determined to make every possible effort to get away quickly," declared Capt. Pond, who was plainly annoyed when he learned that several days would be required to repair the big monoplane which landed on a one acre field near here last night. Mechanics found that repairs cannot be made on the spot. The plane must be removed to Baldonnell airport, Dublin.

Sabelli revealed today that just before the Irish cottages below showed that the flyers were safe he had all but given up hope of a safe landing.

"Things seemed at their worst," he said, "and I thought of a religious token which a friend had given me just before we left New York. It was the first time I had thought of it on the trip.

Reënacts Heroic Rôle.

"I showed the token to George and said, 'I think we are done for.' Just as I said this we sighted the thatched roofs of cottages underneath and knew we were safe."

The flyers went out to the little field at Moy, two miles from here, today to look at their plane and there Sabelli reënacted the heroic rôle he originally played over the Atlantic of climbing out of the cockpit and working his way back to the rear gas tank to clear up a stopped gasoline line.

The monoplane was down to a speed of only 80 miles an hour and was only 80 feet over the water at the time. At that moment, the flyers said, "it appeared inevitable" that the plane would fall into the water and bits of clothing were stuffed around the tank to prevent its filling.

Quincy, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—Harry E. Kendell, 71, retired engineer for the Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City railway, was found dead this morning in his garage. He is believed to have been overcome by carbon monoxide gas.

LAWYERS' LOW ETHICS LAID TO BUROCRATS

Wires Control Bill Creates Batch of Them.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The bill to bring the telegraph and telephone systems, together with the radio, under the control of a political commission, which will be a large scale amplification of the present radio commission, has been passed by the senate and undoubtedly will be passed by the house.

If necessary, the bill will be jammed through the house under a gag rule, for the administration is determined to get control of every means of communication. It then will be in a position, employing the methods of the radio commission, to intimidate not only the wire service, as it has the radio broadcasters, but the news agencies and newspapers purveying telegraphic news and dependent for its transmission on the wire and wireless services which will be under the thumb of the party in power.

Explains Horde of Lobbyists.

Thus there will be added another commission to the multitude of supposedly quasi-judicial bodies that are constantly manipulated by political influence.

Thoughtful lawyers tell me that this hydra-headed burocracy is chiefly to blame for the notoriously low standard of ethics in the legal profession in the District of Columbia. It explains why the city is infested with lobbyists and political lawyers who hold themselves out as able to secure special favors from government department and bureaus.

Although the various commissioners and members of boards sit as judges on cases involving important rights of citizens, many of them talk freely in secret with lawyers, or lobbyists, or politicians representing one party to a case about the very case pending before them, which they are supposed to decide on the evidence heard in open hearing when opposing parties can be present. All the more freely will they talk about pending cases with White House secretaries, representing the President, who holds their jobs in his hand, or with senators who will some day have to approve their reappointments, or with senators and congressmen who have to do with their annual appropriations, or with party henchmen who may have influence over their retaining their jobs.

Regarded as Political Patronage.

As a result the decisions of some of these tribunals are regarded as a sort of political patronage, to be distributed where the pressure is greatest and not where justice requires. Mr. Average Citizen, who comes before such judges with an ethical lawyer who relies on the facts and the law, is helpless; if his opponent has political backing his case is lost before he starts.

The inevitable result is chaos in our legal system, with no one, not even lawyers, able to know what the rules are. Congress has delegated vast powers to the President, to the departments, and to the various boards and commissions to make rules and regulations having the force and effect of law. No one, so far as I know, has attempted to collect all the rules and regulations now in effect, but I am told they already amount to thousands of pages. Some of them are printed, some are issued in mimeographed form as press releases or otherwise, and some are largely in the heads of a privileged few who are familiar with a particular bureau.

There is no greater need in Washington than an official source of information to meet this condition. It would save the taxpayers of this country untold sums of money annually which they now spend on various "services" and lawyers simply to keep them informed as to what these bureaus have done in the way of legislation.

Prosecute, Then Act as Judges.

Frequently a board has the combined powers (1) to make rules and regulations; (2) to prosecute citizens for violations thereof, and then (3) to sit as judges to determine whether the accused are guilty or not guilty. This is true of the federal radio commission and a number of others. The result is that a board armed with this unholy combination of powers can indulge in a wide range of petty and major tyrannies, of arbitrary and capricious acts, and of political spoilsmanship, with virtually no control over it by any one.

So far as these administrative tribunals are concerned the Supreme court of the United States has virtually abandoned its historic rôle of guardian of constitutional liberties and has thrown overboard the precepts laid down by the great judges of the past, such as Chief Justice John Marshall. Only rarely will it go beyond the most superficial examination of the decisions of boards and commissions, and by a process of medieval reasoning it declares that it must be and remain blind to many obvious violations of the fundamental rights of citizens.

Perils Independent Judiciary.

If this trend continues our boasted independent judiciary is gone, a mere empty shell for the hearing of unimportant academic disputes. All the really important questions will be decided by the federal boards and commissions under the thumb of the political party that happens to be in power.

Lord Hewart of Bury, lord chief justice of England, in his book, "The New Despotism," published in 1929, describing similar tendencies in England, referred to the whole development as "administrative lawlessness." Critics of unquestioned eminence in this country have voiced warning after warning, such as was done by James M. Beck in his book, "The Wonderland of Burocracy," published in 1932.

The remedy, I am told by recognized students of this cancerous growth of administrative law, is simply to hark back to what was thought to be a fundamental principle of our government, written into our constitution intentionally by our forefathers and steadfastly preserved by the great judges of the earlier days of our Supreme court. It is called the doctrine of the separation of governmental powers into legislative, executive, and judicial.

The solution is a relatively simple one, I am told, and that is to segregate the judicial duties of these commissions from their legislative and executive duties. Routine executive functions should be transferred to a government department and placed in charge of a single executive, preferably an assistant cabinet officer.

Subject to Review by Courts.

The judicial powers of the commission, the power to hear and decide cases affecting the rights of individuals, should be lodged in a separate tribunal, which has no legislative or executive powers of any kind. Its members would simply act as judges and their decisions would be subject to review by the courts.

An excellent demonstration of the successful segregation of judicial functions is furnished by the board of tax appeals. This board is a court in everything except name. It has no power to make regulations except on purely procedural matters; otherwise the rules and regulations which govern its decisions are made by congress and by the treasury department. It has no power to initiate or prosecute the cases which come before it. These cases are disputes between the taxpayer and the commissioner of internal revenue, on which the board simply sits as judge. As a result, the board has been free of any breath of suspicion of political partisanship or unethical conduct. While its members are not appointed for life, they are appointed for relatively long terms.

Acquit Billy Sunday's Son of Drunken Driving Charge

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—(AP)—Paul Thompson Sunday, son of the evangelist Billy Sunday, stood acquitted today of a charge of being drunk in a motor car. He was freed last night after the jury had deliberated for six hours. Sunday was tried on the same charge last month, but the jury disagreed after standing 10 to 2 for conviction. Police officers testified Sunday was drunk and driving without lights in Hollywood April 16. Sunday accused the officers of abusing him and denied he was drunk.

Western Union Chiet Warns He Will Fight Code in Court

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The NRA's effort to impose a code on the telegraph companies against their will merely cloaks an effort by the government to take over eventually the entire national communications system, R. B. White, president of the Western Union, charged today.

Both Mr. White and Francis R. Stark, general counsel for Western Union, openly challenged the right of the NRA to impose a code. Mr. Stark warned that the company will fight a code through the courts and will question the basic legality of the NRA itself.

110 Will Testify.

Their defiance was voiced today at the first public hearing on a draft code which Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, proposes to impose upon the Western Union, Postal Telegraph, and American Telephone and Telegraph companies by presidential decree. Hearings will continue throughout the week, with 110 witnesses already scheduled to be heard.

Howard L. Kern, vice president of the Postal company, today testified that his company was ready to go along with the recovery administration under any code, regardless of whether it was decided upon by agreement or whether it was imposed by President Roosevelt.

Fears Loss of Business.

The proposed code drawn by the NRA itself would drive business away from telegraph companies, upset their rate schedules, and bring about chaos in the industry, Mr. White argued on behalf of the Western Union.

"That this is so," Mr. White continued, "cannot be doubted by any one familiar with this highly specialized business and any one in the industry advocating such proposals can only have in mind one purpose—to create chaos in the communication field, in the hope that by so doing they will produce a situation which will either force a consolidation of the telegraph companies now prohibited by federal law or force the government to take over the properties from their present owners at the expense of the taxpayers. The Western Union is not advocating and will not willingly subscribe to such a plan."

Ready to Contest It.

Mr. Stark was next on the platform. He argued that congress had no intention of bringing telegraph companies under the NRA and declared flatly that his company would put up a legal battle, if necessary, to keep from being placed under a code.

If a code should be imposed he declared there would be no alternative than for Western Union to wage a "legal contest along all fronts, necessarily challenging some of the fundamentals of the national recovery act," to which he added: "I do not believe that there is any fear, should this proposed code or anything like it be imposed, that it would be enforced by any court. I have too much respect for the fellows of my craft to suppose for a moment that your own legal advisers will give you any encouragement to believe that it would be upheld in a legal test. It does not seem conceivable to me that you would invoke the test."

3 FIRMS CHALLENGE NRA; SUE TO PREVENT EMPLOYES' ELECTION

The authority of the Chicago regional labor board to interfere in private business was attacked yesterday in a petition for an injunction filed in the Superior court in behalf of three lether goods companies, S. Dresner & Sons, Inc., the National Brief Case Manufacturing company, and the Gladstone Case Manufacturing company.

The injunction would restrain the labor board from holding an election among the employés of the companies to choose their representatives for collective bargaining, as provided under the NRA code.

Attorney David Silbert, representing the three companies, declared that after a walkout in September of 1933 an agreement had been made with the employés, and a form of company union had been organized to allow collective bargaining.

Agitation for the new election has been incited by a minority of workers who did not return after the 1933 trouble, Silbert said, and if it goes through it would simply mean more labor trouble and a cessation of business.

A hearing on the petition for injunction was set for tomorrow by Judge Denis E. Sullivan, and the labor board agreed to hold up the election, originally scheduled for yesterday.

U. S. TRADE GROUP TO GUARD RADIO ADS AFTER JULY 1

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The federal trade commission, commencing July 1, will extend to radio advertising the same principle that for many years has been applied to newspapers, periodical and other forms of advertising, it was announced today.

This action, the commission said, would be taken under section 5 of the federal trade commission act which gives it jurisdiction over unfair methods of competition in interstate commerce. The courts have uniformly held, the commission said, that this section embraces false and misleading advertising.

The decision was made, the commission said, in "response to a general demand" that such a policy be pursued.

LINER CAPTAIN BLAMES RADIO FOR COLLISION

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—The latest explanation is that an error in the supposedly infallible radio direction beam caused the ramming and sinking of the United States lightship Nantucket by the White Star liner Olympic with a loss of seven lives.

That theory was offered today by Capt. John W. Binks of the Olympic after his ship, with British and American flags at half-mast, came into port with four survivors and the bodies of three victims of the lightship disaster.

The survivors, headed by Capt. George Braithwaite of Cambridge, Mass., forbore to fix the blame for the ramming of their ship, the position of which is marked on all charts.

"Speed Not Responsible."

Capt. Binks consulted with Chauncey L. Clark, attorney for the White Star line, and its press agent, William Seabrook. He declared later that the liner's speed had nothing to do with causing the collision. He was vague as to what the speed was. He was to retire next December with an unblemished record of thirty-five years.

Capt. Binks variously said he was going at "reduced" speed, at "slow" speed, at "two or three knots," at "three or four knots," and at "ten knots."

Capt. Binks admitted that he was, at the time of the collision, five miles off his supposed course and that his radio signals, submarine signals and reckoning all misled him as to his real position at the time.

Dr. Frederick A. Kolstern, inventor of the radio compass, was incredulous of Capt. Binks' explanation of an error in the radio beam.

"The radio compass, if properly used, should be the very thing to prevent collisions," Dr. Kolstern told the inquirers.

"Habit with Olympic."

Boston, Mass., May 16.—(AP)—Capt. George Eaton, superintendent of the lightship service, tonight said the liner Olympic had a "habit" of passing close to the lightship Nantucket which yesterday was sent to the bottom with loss of seven lives when rammed in a fog by the White Star vessel.

Eaton said the Olympic was known to have passed within 500 feet of the lightship and he indicated that he believed this was unnecessary.

Cow Drags Illinois Farmer to His Death; Neck Broken

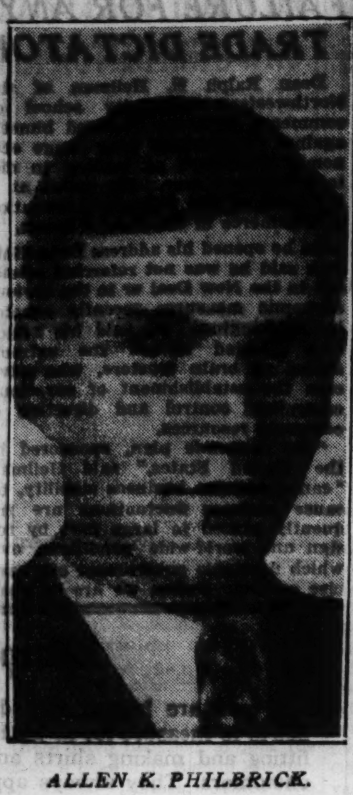
SEIZED AS "RED"



ALLEN K. PHILBRICK.

Boston, Mass., May 16.—[Special.]—Arrested after stuffing anti-Nazi literature down a ventilator of the German cruiser Karlsruhe, Allen K. Philbrick, 20, a Harvard junior, was questioned at police headquarters today and then released when United States Marshal John J. Murphy said that no charges would be pressed.

Philbrick refused, on advice of counsel, to answer any questions, so that when he walked out of headquarters all police knew was that he lived on Adams street, Cambridge. He even refused to admit that he was a student at Harvard and that he lived in Winnetka, Ill.

The release of Philbrick failed to put an end to plans for a mass protest against the presence of the Karlsruhe.

FOUND DROWNED DESPITE VOW NOT TO JUMP IN RIVER

A few hours after he had promised to refrain from diving into the Chicago river after bottles of whisky, the body of Tracy Holm, 35 years old, formerly of Cambridge, Wis., was taken from the river at Jackson boulevard yesterday. He was a salesman for the Schwartz Paper company, 1430 South Canal street.

Holm was released earlier in the day by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Desplaines street court when arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested Tuesday night after a passerby had kept him from leaping off the Madison street bridge. He told the court that he had decided to swear off liquor and threw his bottle in the river, and had then repented and wished to retrieve the bottle.

BEST PEACE PACT IS GOOD DEFENSE, WOMEN ARE TOLD

World Court and Kellogg Treaty Assailed.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The world court is a failure and the various peace pacts are ineffective, members of the legislation committee of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs were told yesterday at luncheon in the Hotel Sherman by Attorney Wilbur Matheny, executive secretary of the Illinois Council for National Defense.

The committee was one of several, composed of local chairmen throughout the state, which met at luncheons before the delegates to the federation's 39th annual convention visited the World's Fair grounds in the afternoon.

Points to War Preparations.

"There has been more preparation for war since the Kellogg pact than in any similar period in history," Matheny said. "The pact outlaws war except for war in self-defense, but no war ever was started except in self-defense. The only adequate insurance against war lies in defense. We need a strong potential force on land and a strong existing force at sea."

Declaring that a regular army of 160,000 men is needed in this country, he said the army now numbers 118,000. The National Guard should have a strength of 210,000, whereas it actually totals 179,000, he asserted. Reserve officers should number 120,000, instead of the present 87,000, he said.

Public health leaders of the club federation, meeting at another luncheon in the Sherman, heard Dr. Aaron Arkin, professor of medicine at Rush Medical college, urge a yearly physical examination for all women by their family physicians. This would be the best means of reducing the high mortality from organic heart disease, high blood pressure, and cancer, he said.

Mrs. Farrell Renominated.

Mrs. William Franklin Farrell of Chicago was renominated for president of the federation without opposition yesterday. The election will be today.

Mrs. Ralph W. Pringle of Normal was renominated for vice president from the central district, and Mrs. W. A. Ball of Carmi for vice president from the southern district. Mrs. Roy F. Hoadley of Yorkville was renominated for vice president from the northern district. Mrs. James E. Oliver of Oak Park was nominated for treasurer. Mrs. Mary A. Wall of Murphysboro was renominated for Illinois director in the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

More than 1,300 women attended last night's session in the grand ball room of the Sherman. The program was devoted to the more than 150 girls who are delegates from junior clubs in the federation. Mrs. Josephine Junkin Doggett of Washington, D. C., director of club service of the general federation, told of the work of the junior clubs throughout the country. Choruses of the junior members sang and danced.

DRUG BILL SPONSORED BY COPELAND GETS SETBACK IN SENATE

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The Copeland bill to expand and arm the food and drugs act with new regulatory powers virtually was stricken off the list of legislation to be seriously considered at this session of congress. It failed today to gain more than a bare majority on a test vote in the senate.

On the insistence of its senate sponsor, Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], the bill was put to a roll call vote on a motion that it be taken up for debate. Previously a viva voce vote and a division of the senate had shown a majority against the measure. On the roll call the motion was agreed to, 26 to 22. The rules of the senate require a quorum of 49 to be present at a record vote.

By a clerk's error the vote was announced as 26 to 24 and Senator Copeland was allowed to proceed with an explanation of the bill.

But the poor showing caused Democratic Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas later to announce that the measure would not be pushed.

British Clergy Disposes of Shares in Armament Firm

REOPEN HEARINGS ON TUGWELL BILL, PLEA OF EDITORS

Protest Voted by Inland Press Association.

Resolutions requesting that there be further committee hearings in Washington on the proposed food and drugs act, or Tugwell bill, were passed last night at the closing session of the annual spring meeting of the Inland Daily Press association, held in the Stevens hotel. After passing the resolutions the meeting was adjourned.

Specifically the association, which has a membership of 246 leading daily newspapers in the middle west, asked that the bill be returned to the committee for "further consideration of amendments proposed by the industries affected."

Points for Consideration.

The following points on which special consideration was requested are: The definition of advertising, the definition of false advertising, and the proposal that the President appoint an administration board of review to which an advertiser may appeal from a decision he has violated the act.

A copy of the resolution was sent to Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], one of the authors of the bill.

At an earlier session yesterday Roscoe Ellard, professor of journalism at the University of Misosuri, declared that newspaper editorials are no longer caviar for a small group of readers, but "butter and eggs for the masses."

Clear cut editorials interpreting developments of local or world-wide import, Dr. Ellard declared, have the power of steadying a shifting populace in desperate times, of holding an economic experiment against the background of experience and throwing upon it the light of new conditions.

"A tremendous lot of living since the stock market collapse in 1929," said Dr. Ellard, "has sent millions of readers to the editorial page with mingled indignation and despair. Particularly since the crisis last March and the drama of bewildering leadership at Washington, America has found it impossible to understand the front page without reading the editorial page.

Crying for More Light.

"Readers are crying for more light. They are not interested in party invective, in the fustian of half a century ago, or in the pale intellectualisms compounded for select circles on the subscription list. They want to know: 'What does it all mean?' The editorial page is no longer a newspaper luxury. It is news of meanings. It pays."

At another session J. M. Baskin, midwestern manager of the Fairchild Publications, declared that retail newspaper advertising by creating desires on the part of consumers to spend has helped to cushion the depression.

Baskin said that one of the foremost things newspapers were doing was making retail advertising in its colums more productive by devoting one or more pages daily to news about apparel, fabrics, accessories, home furnishings and other items and services by leading stores in the communities.

WILL PROSECUTE ROCKFORD FIRM ON NRA CHARGES

Board Orders Action on Labor Complaint.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The national labor board today "cracked down" on the National Lock company of Rockford, Ill., recommending that the company's Blue Eagle be removed and that it be prosecuted by the government for violating the recovery laws.

The board charged the company with "a studied hostility to the purposes of section 7-A of the recovery law." Section 7-A is the clause guaranteeing laborers the right to organize in any group they wish without interference.

Whether the lock company's Blue Eagle is to be removed depends on Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, who usually, however, follows the finding of the labor board. Whether the company will be prosecuted for violation of the recovery laws will be determined by Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

Case Originates in Strike.

The case originated last August when 900 employés of the company, all members of the federal labor union, No. 18830, went on strike. The company obtained an injunction against the Chicago regional labor board when it attempted to enter the case and also, according to the labor board, secured two "extremely severe injunctions against the strikers."

Entering the case in January, the national labor board held hearings and a month later declared the company was breaking the recovery law. The board gave the company an opportunity to show cause why it should not be cited to Johnson and the attorney general for formal prosecution, but the board decided that the attempts by the company to show cause were not adequate.

Gives History of Case.

The board's letters today to the national recovery administrator and to the attorney general stated, "An opportunity was afforded the National Lock company on March 30, 1934, to show cause why this case should not be referred to the compliance division of the national recovery administration for the withdrawal of its Blue Eagle, and to the department of justice for appropriate action.

"The company did not present any evidence which required any modification of the original findings in the board's decision, nor did it propose any adequate basis of settlement of the long standing dispute with its employés."

In its findings of fact the national labor board stated "that the National Lock company has violated the right of its employés to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and has restrained them and interfered in their designation of such representatives and in their self-organization."

Spanish Police Seize Man with 2 Million Fake Stamps

BARCELONA, Spain, May 16.—(AP)—Police tonight arrested an Hungarian named Gessan Deijau, and confiscated more than 2,000,000 postage stamps they said were falsified. The stamps were those of many nations, including the United States. Police said the Hungarian was connected with a ring of collectors in many countries.

DEAN PREDICTS FAILURE FOR ANY TRADE DICTATOR

Dean Ralph E. Heilman of the Northwestern university school of commerce yesterday declared himself against "centralized long range economic planning" as leading to dictatorship and war. He spoke at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer house.

As he opened his address Dean Heilman said he was not referring primarily to the New Deal or to the various economic measures recently enacted in Washington. He said his attack was directed toward the extreme school of brain trusters, who advocate the establishment of conscious, centralized control and direction of economic resources.

"No economic plan, sponsored by the United States," said Heilman, "can guarantee business stability, because business fluctuations are frequently caused in large part by foreign and world-wide conditions over which no single government can exercise control. Unless we are to abandon all economic intercourse with other nations, or unless economic planning provides for setting up world-wide control, world developments will continue to upset plans for a national planned economy.

"Centralized planning would involve drastic change in government. It involves the establishment of complete economic distatorship. It involves a greater surrender of individual freedom than we would be willing to make unless we were willing to abandon entirely our existing economic and governmental system."

Chinese 'Christian General' Ends 6 Months' of Silence

TSINAN, China, May 16.—(AP)—After six months of silence and meditation Feng Yu-hstang, erstwhile Christian general, today suddenly emerged from his remote retreat high up on the holy mountain of Tsaihan. He started a mysterious journey into northern Shantung. The object of the trip apparently is known to Gen. Han Fu-chu, governor of Shantung. The governor had lunch with Feng here, and provided a special train and a military guard for the trip north.

Continuing to Drive with Winter Oil
Costs You Money Daily

Now, with the temperature climbing, it's high time you changed to a heavier motor oil—as an economy move! The lighter winter oil which you've probably been using to get quick starting in cold weather, will be subject to faster and faster consumption as the mercury continues to rise.

In fact, the odds are about 9 to 1 that the mixture or winter-worn oil and trouble-making sludge in your crankcase is costing you money right now.

You know how the ugly mess called Sludge fouls the oil filter and lines; how it makes piston rings stick, with costly pumping of oil; how it slows down valve action, bringing wasteful loss of gasoline power.

So, get rid of Sludge, once and for all, by having your crankcase drained—then refilled with ISO=VIS "D", famed as the Anti-Sludge Motor Oil. You'll have an economical sludge-less summer and a clean, lively, efficient engine.

The Standard Oil Servisman makes sure that you get the right grade of oil on the basis of three factors: (1) the weather; (2) your make of car; (3) the kind of driving you do.

ISO=VIS "D" . . . . 25c a qt.
PLUS FEDERAL TAX . . . . 1c a qt.
TOTAL . . . . 26c a qt.

It's Change Time, Too, for Differential and Transmission Lubricants. Spring-time is the time to heavy-up on lubricants that protect your differential and transmission gears. Standard Stations have correct lubricants for this very purpose. And Standard Servismen are expert in the complete lubrication of any make of car—old or new. A Standard Specified Lubrication job means correct lubrication at every point.

8 SHORT MINUTES TO DRAIN AND CHANGE

It takes no more than 8 minutes to drain off your worn-out winter oil and refill with the proper grade of Iso=Vis "D" at Standard Oil Stations. Then you will be rid of sludge and you'll keep your oil cost to the minimum.

HITLER JITTERY AS GERMAN FAITH IN HIM SLIPS AWAY

Goes on North Sea Cruise to Quiet Nerves.

BY CHARLES FARMER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LUXEMBURG, May 16.—Only "defeatists" and wicked "criticizing traitors" are responsible for the dissatisfaction pervading Germany, Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels assured Chancellor Hitler and his countrymen in a flaming proclamation issued after May day when Hitler for the first time was made to feel that the heart of the masses was not as close to him as a year ago.

For a whole month a gigantic campaign, similar to those staged with masterly skill by Hitler and Goebbels before the reins of power were placed in their hands, will sway Germany.

Hitler is beginning to realize that putting over his "new deal" is more difficult than he thought. He suffered a nervous breakdown when early in April he was told Germany's financial situation is far more precarious than he believed. He wept for hours and his friends rushed him to the seashore, smuggled him on the Deutschland, Germany's pocket battleship, and took him cruising until he had pulled himself together, which took much longer than was expected. They had to steam way up to Norway on the kaiser's favorite route before his friends felt he was strong enough to resume work.

Faith of Masses Weakening.

It is not only the financial situation that is wearing him down, but the constant struggle with his lieutenants and the weakening faith of the masses. Gen. Herman Goering wants him to separate from the radicals of the Julius Streicher type, Goebbels wants him to become more "socialistic"—by which he means communictic. Col. Ernst Roehm wants a greater influence over the reichswehr and has been making temperamental scenes. President von Hindenburg is accusing Hitler of breaking his word by smashing the Prussian administration and placing Prussia's internal administration under federal orders.

Cabinet meetings, I am told, are stormy sessions. When they are over, Goering, Roehm, and Goebbels try to waylay Hitler and get a last minute decision out of him in favor of their pet theories. Austrian at heart, with much of the sentimentality characteristic of that type, Hitler suffers under this conflict. Furthermore his instinct has always been strong and he feels that the public is distinctly cooler towards him that it was a year ago.

Looks for New Staf.

Many say that as a result Hitler is looking around for new personalities to help him govern, but this seems premature. The men around him may be warring among themselves, but they pull together when they see an outsider in the neighborhood. Rudolf Hess, second leader, continues to remain in the background, and loyal Nazis begin to criticize him as "too easy going," saying, "Hess should make it clear to Hitler that the masses are getting tired of marches and Goebbel's old campaign paraphernalia."

Von Hindenburg's health is not good, but he is not in danger. I succeeded in talking to one of the doctors who has been called in consultation. He reports old age ailments—bladder complications affecting the kidneys. Twice a day Prof. Sauerbruch takes care of the old man. People have been known to live for years with this trouble.

Coming on top of a weakening heart, it handicaps the old man rather seriously. It is amazing how all authorities succeeded in keeping the details of this illness secret. His daughter, who lives out in the country, is convinced he is suffering only from the present sudden heat waves; so do most of his other relatives. His son and daughter-in-law have gone to Neudeck, where they want to take Von Hindenburg next week, if he is well enough to travel. That will remove him still further from the scene of political action.

Workers Doubt Leaders.

In an effort to reconquer some of his waning popularity with the people, Hitler has been going more and more "socialistic" in his speeches and has been allowing Robert Ley, chief of the Labor Front, to spring vehement anti-capital speeches.

The worker is skeptical. He looks at his pay envelope, sees less pay than last year, and his wife tells him food has gone up at least 10 per cent. Soy beans and similar "coolie fare" is being prepared for the German worker. He is patient. He sees the wisdom of stretching jobs to give some work to everybody. He believes that if the whole nation tightens its belt, the little each man earns will slowly create greater consumption as Hitler told him time and again. He will continue to wait if he believes that the "fellow higher up" is making sacrifices, too—that the Nazi chief placed above him is a "square shooter."

But many petty leaders are abusing the power entrusted to them by Hitler. Cars of such luxurious make as Germany never saw before, burocratic offices in sumptuous buildings "confiscated" or bought for a pittance from Jews, swank flats for the leaders or their personal secretaries, and whip-crack language addressed to "menials" arouse the wrath of the workers.

When "factory councils" were nominated by factory "leaders" and the workers were asked to vote for them, many factory crews refused to approve the nomination of the men picked by the Nazis. In quite a number of factories in the Ruhr 75 per cent of the workers voted against the men chosen as their trustees.

The cruelty of storm troopers and their "field police" does not improve the temper of the masses. An extraordinary meeting of storm troop chiefs was held in Munich at the end of April. The purpose was to prepare a general reorganization plan to be enforced in July when storm troopers resume work after "one month's vacation" granted them by their leader, Roehm. Only the best of the storm troopers will be allowed to resume duty and any suspected Marxist elements will be excluded. This will provide Hitler with a reliable brown army.

He will need it to keep up his régime of minimum pay, maximum service and sacrifice, necessary to insure the success of his four year plan, the same as Russia exacted extraordinary sacrifices from its masses for its five year plan.

Derides Russia's "Outside Help."

BERLIN, May 16.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler derided the soviet union today for importing talent and machinery and compared it with a man wandering through a swamp, clinging to the hand of a capitalist on a solid road beside him.

"If they were put on their own feet," he declared of the Russians, "and did not import engineers, workers and machines, we probably should see Russia collapse."

The chancellor, speaking before the German labor conference, asserted that the communist ideals were the most primitive in the world. Admitting he was an "idealist" when he first entered politics 15 years ago, Hitler declared that "practice has taught me the opposite; never halt the march, if somewhere a trifle is wrong. Always keep on."

Impose "Custody" on Critics.

The gathering applauded loudly when the chancellor declared that the leaders of the Nazi labor front will impose "spiritual custody" upon notorious short sighted critics, who never can be convinced.

Robert Ley, leader of the labor front, speaking before the chancellor, asserted the distinction between employer and worker will have disappeared in Germany by October.

"All will unite in the labor front," he said, "which then will be able to distinguish the honest from the dishonest, the able from the unable, and the merchant from the profiteer."

NAZIS CLAMP DOWN ON ALL PROTESTANTS WHO OPPOSE REICHSBISHOP

BERLIN, May 16.—(AP)—The lid was clamped down tonight on the acticities of Wuerttemberg Protestants who have been vigorous in their opposition to the administration of Chancellor Hitler's reichsbishop, Dr. Ludwig Mueller.

All meetings or discussion of church difficulties were forbidden, and even business sessions of elders must be conducted under the observation of a political commission. The commissioners have orders to dissolve any meeting at which the elders deviate from business matters and discuss the church situation.

The regulations were the aftermath of a convention of opposition Protestants at Ulm on April 22, when representatives of state churches of Wuerttemberg, Bavaria, and other groups denounced the reichsbishop's administration as an "evangelical papacy." Word was received here from Saxony that clergymen in the majority of the Lutheran congregations there have declined to join the reich church headed by Bishop Mueller. Several Berlin pastors, denied the right to speak in their churches because of their opposition to the Nazi setup, are holding services in obscure halls, restaurants, and other places.

CURIOSITY LANDS THREE BRITONS IN A NAZI PRISON

Police Refuse to Explain Mysterious Arrests.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 16.—Philip Pembroke Stephens, Berlin correspondent of the London Daily Express, his young wife, and her cousin, D. P. Reynolds, were released late tonight from the Magdeburg prison. They were taken there this morning following their mysterious arrest last night at Aken, near Dessau.

The British embassy, up to a late hour tonight, had been unable to establish the grounds on which the trio was arrested while en route by automobile from Berlin to Oberammergau. Officials of Oberammergau and of Bavaria had invited Stephens to attend the opening of the famous Passion play.

When released tonight the trio was ordered to remain at Magdeburg until tomorrow, when they will be permitted to continue their trip. This will be too late for them to attend the Passion play.

Police Vague on Motives.

Police, when pounded with questions as to the reasons for the arrests, finally answered:

"The trio acted suspiciously."

When asked to explain just how they had acted suspiciously, the police replied that they couldn't say, but added that "it was very kind of us to release them, and we hope that no atrocity stories will be circulated."

When told that news of the arrest of foreigners, without the publication of official reasons for the arrest, is mystifying to citizens of western democracies, the police vaguely hinted at the proximity of a factory near the place where the Stephens party was arrested, which aroused suspicions of espionage. They refused to reveal the name of the industry or factory.

Traced by Friends.

The arrest of the Britons became known after Stephens failed to get in touch with his office this morning. Friends traced his car to Aken, where they found that Stephens and his companions, mystified by numerous lights shining through the trees in a wood at Aken, had stopped and made inquiries about them of a man standing on the road.

The man replied that the boss of the plant would certainly tell Stephens what he wanted to know, and the latter stepped out and followed the man to an inn on the edge of the wood.

The inn was crowded with storm troopers, who immediately arrested Stephens. When brought to the police station, he found that his wife and cousin had also been arrested.

JEW WINS SUIT IN BRITISH COURT FOR NAZI LOSSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—Justice Roche gave an interesting judgment in the high court today in an action in which a German Jew, Dr. Sommers, sued Henry Mathews, a Lloyds' underwriter, with respect to the seizure of his property by the Nazis.

Dr Sommers alleged that while he was away from Germany last year his houses in Dresden and the neighborhood about there were occupied, and that he was subjected to a flight tax. Under a policy taken out in June, 1932, he claimed $820, which was Mathews' share of the total risk of $230,000.

The judge decided that there had been partial loss and damage. He directed that the amount of the partial loss be ascertained. The parties accepted the court's decision.

REED'S VICTORY CALLED REBUFF TO NEW DEALERS

Republicans Hail Result in Pennsylvania.

was given an easy victory over his opponent, but his vote nowhere near approached the Republican vote. It is generally conceded that Senator Reed will be reëlected in November.

Gov. Pinchot is threatening to run independently, with the thought that he will split the Republican vote and let Guffey run home. But in such a contest it is believed Pinchot would win more votes that would go for Guffey than he would take from Reed, and that Reed would win anyway.

REED BY OVER 100,000

Philadelphia, Pa., May 16. — [Special.]—Gov. Pinchot conceded his defeat for the Republican nomination to the U. S. Senate today after Senator David a Reed had rolled up a majority of 109,822 votes in 7,407 of the state's 7,936 precincts. Reed had 576,926 votes and Pinchot 467,104.

As Pinchot watched his opponent's majority mount steadily, spelling his third failure in as many attempts to obtain a seat in the senate, he abandoned hope and sent Reed a telegram of congratulations.

At the same time, however, Pinchot gave observers an indication that he would make another effort at the general election in November as an independent candidate.

"I shall go right on fighting for the interests of the people against concentrated wealth, just as I have done all my life," Pinchot declared when he conceded Reed's triumph.

Refuses Definite Statement.

Asked whether he meant that he would run again in the fall, he said:

"This must not be taken to imply any decision as to my future political action."

Nevertheless observers were unwilling to believe the governor would take his defeat so easily and would not be surprised to see him enter the lists again on an independent ticket in November.

Gov. Pinchot blamed his defeat on the illness which made it impossible for him to make a personal tour of the state. Also, he pointed out, after he had returned from a New York hospital early in the campaign, he found it necessary to make numerous trips to Washington arranging for new federal relief funds.

New Jersey Results.

Trenton, N. J., May 16.—[Special.]—Harold G. Hoffman, Republican, and Judge William L. Dill, Democrat, will oppose each other next November for governor of New Jersey as a result of yesterday's primary election.

The other two major nominations in yesterday's voting went to United States Senator Hamilton F. Kean, Republican nominee for reëlection, and Gov. A. Harry Moore, who will oppose him.

Hoffman's plurality on belated returns swelled to more than 135,000 votes and gave him a majority of some 13,000 over all his opponents combined. A last minute candidate, with three other apparently strong candidates in the field, Mr. Hoffman carried eighteen of the state's twenty-one counties.

BRITAIN SPURNS BAN ON POLITICAL PARTY UNIFORMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—The British parliament refuses to take the Fascist danger seriously. Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative, today was refused permission to introduce a bill in the house of commons prohibiting the wearing of political uniforms. The bill was shouted down in a tide of ridicule.

Locker-Lampson in a speech defending the proposed law denounced Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British black shirt movement. Mosley, he said, "dresses up like a continental dancing master, masquerades like Mussolini with his dirty shirts, goes to Italy for the name of the organization, and to Germany for his bully spirit."

Earl Winterton, also a Conservative, spoke against the bill. He argued that it was impracticable because a uniform for political purposes could not be defined. He said that instead of damaging Mosley the proposed bill would give him much publicity, which he desires, and would confer a sense of martyrdom on all his followers.

CUT CONGRESS' PROGRAM SO IT CAN QUIT JUNE 5

Only 4 "Must" Bills Still on Calendar.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt and his congressional chieftains got their heads together today, pared down the program of "must" legislation to a bare minimum of four bills, and fixed their purpose determinedly toward an adjournment of congress on June 5.

At a White House conference lasting more than an hour, Mr. Roosevelt canvassed the legislative situation with Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, House Floor Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], and Rules Committee Chairman William B. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.]. They emerged from the meeting fired with new enthusiasm for getting congress out of town as early as possible.

Willing to Sacrifice.

Though it may mean the sacrifice of several bills hitherto ardently desired by the administration, the President and the house chieftains agreed on a program of essentials that calls for the passage between now and the tentative adjournment date of these bills:

1. The one billion, 300 million dollar emergency appropriation bill carrying funds for the continuation of the new deal relief activities, such as the PWA, the RFC, the FERA and the CCC.
2. The communications control bill proposing the consolidation of federal regulation over all communications.
3. The loans to industries bill, authorizing RFC and federal reserve bank advances to smaller industries on intermediate credit terms.
4. The deposit insurance extension bill, continuing the temporary federal bank deposit guarantee plan for another year in lieu of putting the permanent program contained in the Glass banking bill into effect at this time.

Others May Go Through.

While not essential, the administration housing bill, the commodity exchange control bill and the oil regulation bill are to be given a favored place on the "hill," if time permits, said the house leaders.

In the senate the adjournment situation was complicated by the presence of the last, but perhaps the most controversial measure of the session—the administration reciprocal tarif bill. It starts through the higher body tomorrow, a subject of traditional conflict, and until Republicans give indication as to how long they intend to fight its inevitable passage, leaders declined to predict how much time it may take.

Prospects for the passage of labor and unemployment insurance legislation before adjournment appeared dismal, said the White House conferees, although there is certain to be a great howl from organized labor. Already Chairman William P. Connery [Dem., Mass.], of the house labor committee is causing considerable commotion about his 30 hour week bill, while from William Green, president of the A. F. of L., there came an angry blast accusing congressional leaders of stifling all labor legislation.

May Ask For Study.

The President, it was intimated, may deliver a message to congress relative to the labor bills and the unemployment insurance measure, asking not their passage, but a study into the need for them. This, it is believed, would mollify Mr. Connery and organized labor.

Sources of considerable anxiety to the house chieftains are three discharge petitions now on the clerk's desk, any one of which may be signed in time to force unwanted legislation to the floor. One of them would force consideration of the Connery bill. Another would bring in the Frazier-Lemke farm relief inflation bill, and the third would force the McLeod bank payoff bill to a vote.

SOVIETS DECIDE FACTS OF HISTORY FIT FOR CHILDREN

'Too Bourgeosie' Ban Also Removed from Geography

MOSCOW, May 16.—(AP)—Hitherto barred as too bourgeoisie for the minds of soviet school children, factual history and geography are now for the first time to be taught under the bolshevik régime.

In joint decrees issued today Josef Stalin, general secretary of the political bureau, and Vyacheslaff Molotoff, president of the council of commissars, ordered that ancient and modern history and elementary geography be added to the subjects taught in primary and secondary schools beginning the next semester.

Heretofore these subjects have been taught only with relation to their revolutionary significance as interpreted by Karl Marx and Nikolai Lenin.

Pravda Explains Situation.

The communist party organ Pravda explained today:

"Abstract sociological themes up to now have been substituted for a coherent exposition of historical facts.

"Our school children know very little about the actual facts of ancient and modern history. Historical events are never cited to them with reference to places and dates and our younger generation is taught to ignore maps, chronology, and concrete personalities.

"They know all about Pugachey's revolt but nothing about Pugachey himself and nothing at all about Catherine the Great. The knowledge of historical events and personalities is of exclusive importance for the future constructors of socialist society.

"Similarly, the study of geography has been nothing but abstract themes and sociological generalizations. Our textbooks are overfilled with figures and statistical material.

"Students have vague ideas about the soviet union's economy and the physical makeup of capitalist countries. They have been taught to ignore the names of rivers, cities, states, and mountains and have been taught socialist economics instead of pure geography.

"Our geography teachers are usually people with poor geographical knowledge and with no special education in this branch of science."

The decree ordered the immediate substitution of the present textbooks and "the mobilization of public sentiment" for increasing the knowledge of factual history and geography.

One illustration of the defects of the present curriculum in these subjects was found in a 16 year old girl student in the Moscow secondary schools who could tell all about the amount of coal production in the Don Basin but did not know where Yokohama and Vienna were located.

CHARGES SOVIET KEEPS ENGINEERS AT POSTS UNDER FORCED LABOR

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, May 16.—Charges that many executives and technicians in the coal fields are serving undeserved sentences of forced labor—that is, they are forbidden to leave their posts—because of burocratic methods, were made today in the Newspaper for Industrialization, the organ of soviet heavy industry. The charges will probably lead to an investigation.

They were made by an engineer in Novo-Sibirsk, central Siberia, and prominently published under the heading, "Flagrant Perversion of Party Policy," since Joseph Stalin, like Lenin, has insisted that technicians be treated considerately.

The engineer declared that in one basin alone 24 engineers were working under sentences imposed this year, and that the same situation existed in other mine areas, with fully half the technical workers at some mines either under sentence of forced labor or under pledges exacted of them not to leave the mines. This situation, he said, was disorganizing mine work by breaking the morale of good men, who felt that, whatever they did, they were likely to get into trouble.

LATVIA PUT UNDER ARMY RULE; RED REVOLT FEARED

RIGA, Latvia, May 16.—(AP)—Parliament was suspended and martial law was proclaimed throughout the country last night, presumably because of the government's fears of outbreaks among radical elements.

A heavy military guard was thrown about parliament buildings today.

Telephone and telegraph services, temporarily disrupted during the night, were resumed this morning.

Tear Down Red Flag.

Government officials insisted — despite the emergency measures—that peace prevails the country over.

Public opinion appeared generally to favor the energetic action of the government under the lead of Premier K. Ulmanis.

One of the first moves of authorities today was to run up the Latvian national ensign to replace the Red flag which has been flying over the headquarters of Riga's Social Democrats.

The army and civil guards backed up the government strongly in the precautionary move.

Oust Reds from Diet.

Premier Ulmanis formed the present government in March after a vote of lack of confidence in the chamber of deputies on Premier Blodniek's cabinet.

Last November six communist members of the Latvian diet were arrested inside the diet house and accused of treasonable preparations to overthrow the government. The diet suspended their parliamentary immunity and also that of a seventh deputy who had escaped to Russia.

FISHERS READY TO GRANT LABOR FIVE DAY WEEK

Cleveland, O., May 16.—(AP)—The Fisher Body corporation hopes to establish a five day week and a nine hour day, Edward T. Fisher, general manager, told representatives of the Automotive Workers Federal union today.

"The union feels that an eight hour day is sufficient and is in keeping with the trend of the times," Paul E. Miley, president of the union, told reporters after the conference.

Fisher said the company was willing to pay time and a half for Sunday work and for all work over nine hours on week days.

Other concessions offered employés at the conference today included a revision of piece work rates and a proposal to give union shop stewards full authority to take up disputes directly with shop foremen.

COUSIN KERMIT AT CAPITAL FOR SHIP MAIL QUIZ

Vice President of Line Under Inquiry.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Kermit Roosevelt, in his rôle of vice president of International Mercantile Marine, was on hand as the Black senate committee on ocean and air mail opened its long promised investigation of the shipping corporation.

The gratified smile which T. R.'s son wears when he visits Cousin Franklin D.'s estate at Hyde Park or goes cruising with his presidential relative on "Vince" Astor's Nourmahal, was replaced by a contemplative scowl as Chairman Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.] sought to demonstrate the following:

1. Chauncey G. Parker, while receiver for I. M. M. in 1915 and 1916, acquired $10,000 worth of I. M. M. bonds which he continued to hold from 1921 to 1932 while he was attorney for the United States shipping board and was handing down opinions affecting the I. M. M.

Subsidies by Two Nations.

2. That I. M. M., through its ownership of such foreign lines as the Leyland company, received British subsidies with one hand, while receiving American mail subsidies with the other.

3. That I. M. M., as parent company of foreign lines and as agent for such foreign companies as the White Star, which it owned until 1926, received an important part of its income from foreign operations which were competing with the very American lines on which I. M. M. was receiving American help.

4. That I. M. M. had received 21 million dollars of federal money for the use of its ships during the war.

5. That I. M. M. had received, and was receiving, an extravagantly large sum for operating, maintaining, and acting as agent for the United States Lines, which I. M. M. owns in conjunction with the Dollar-Dawson interests.

6. That I. M. M. paid unusually large attorneys' fees, namely a total $572,324, from 1928 to 1933.

Claim Large Losses.

There were certain rather embarrassing obstacles in the way of Senator Black's attempt to show that I. M. M. was a greedy octopus of the sea. Such a monster, for the purposes of a senate inquiry, should at least appear to be lusty and well fed.

I. M. M., it seemed, was neither. P. A. S. Franklin, I. M. M.'s president, his son, John M. Franklin, vice president; Cletus Keating, general counsel, and other I. M. M. officials were there with Kermit Roosevelt to tell the committee the sad story of just what had happened to American shipping in the last few years.

As for I. M. M.'s foreign holdings, Mr. Franklin told how his company has been shedding them in the last few years in an effort to bring its operations entirely under the American flag and so make them deserving of generous help from the American treasury.

Instead of bringing in profits, he explained, the foreign companies had brought in losses. I. M. M. was giving up the White Star agency next June 30, thereby losing an annual income of more than $600,000.

It was true, Mr. Franklin admitted, that I. M. M. had received large sums from both the American and British governments for the war-time use of its ships.

18 Million Dividend.

"So large," suggested Chairman Black, "that you were able to pay a 18 million dollar dividend in 1919. Was any other dividend as large as that ever paid by I. M. M.?"

Mr. Franklin admitted there never had been.

"But," he added, "if our ships had not been requisitioned—if we had been free to operate them on our own, we could have paid a dividend three or four times as big. Why, on a single trip by one of our vessels already contracted for we lost a million dollars."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth dropped in for a few moments. Kermit, her half brother, slipped out for a chat with her in the corridor. She patted his shoulder. The photographers were on the job and snapped the picture.

Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.] wasn't at the hearing. He recently demanded more light concerning reports that Kermit Roosevelt and Vincent Astor, also an I. M. M. director, used their trips with President Roosevelt on the Nourmahal as occasions on which to seek special favors for their company.

Chairman Black answered this Republican insinuation by saying he would call Kermit Roosevelt and Vincent Astor, too, if Senator Robinson wanted and let the senator question them all he chose.

U. S. Fleet Holds Tactical Drill in Gulf of Mexico

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. PENNSYLVANIA, in the Gulf of Gonaives, Haiti, May 16.—The United States fleet prepared today for the last tactical exercise of its cruise which will be held tomorrow in the broad waters of the Gulf of Mexico. As in yesterday's spectacular practice, the destroyers again will launch a torpedo attack against the battle line.

STRIKE IN LONDON HALTS IMPORT OF PERISHABLE FOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—A strike of 800 London dock workers, which began Monday and spread yesterday, held up 90 per cent of London's perishable food imports today.

The men, employed at Hays Wharf, Ltd., which handles the greater part of London's food imports, met today and decided to open negotiations with their employers immediately in an effort to secure the withdrawal of five clerks from the docks. The men state that these clerks, displaced by office machinery, have been given preference on the docks to experienced workers.

Today the clerical stafs of Hays wharf were busy loading cases of provisions into long lines of waiting vehicles. Notices have been posted on the wharves stating that unless the striking men presented themselves for work at the usual time today, they will be deemed to have terminated their employment.

ANALYSIS SHOWS GREAT HAZARDS TO PEDESTRIANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—A comprehensive analysis of fatal highway accidents last year, issued by the ministry of transport, reveals that there were 6,942 accidents, involving the deaths of 7,134 persons.

Pedestrians were the most frequent victims, numbering 3,517 or 49 per cent of the total. Next came bicyclists, numbering 1,308. The drivers of motor vehicles escaped with only 270 fatalities.

The opponents of speed limits will find cause for congratulation in the report, which admits that 62 per cent of the accidents analyzed occurred to vehicles traveling under 20 miles per hour.

ROBINSON LOSES TILT TO CONTROL INDIANA'S G. O. P.

Denied Assurance He Will Be Unopposed.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 16.—(AP)—United States Senator Arthur R. Robinson not only was defeated in an effort to gain control of the Republican organization in Indiana today, but was denied assurance that he will be unopposed for renomination in the party's state convention here June 5.

Party leaders, angered at charges the senator hurled at their officers from Washington last night, reëlected every one of them and then refused to adopt a resolution proposing that he be given a clear path in his campaign for reëlection. To date he is without an opponent.

Indorse Burocracy Fight.

The best Senator Robinson could get out of the newly organized state committee was an indorsement of his fight in the senate "for constitutional government" and for his stand "against burocracy as exemplified by the Democratic party and its administration."

Some leaders, among them Henry W. Marshall of Lafayette, and former State Chairman Eliza O. Rogers of Lebanon, indicated that a powerful candidate might be brought out against Senator Robinson in the convention. The names of former United States Senator James E. Watson, former Congressman Frederick Landis of Logansport, and former Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Lafayette, were mentioned in that connection. Landis was nominated for congress last week from the Second district.

Watson Does Not Speak.

Former Senator Watson has controled the state organization for years, but since his defeat for reëlection in 1932 has taken little active part in its activities. He did speak from Washington last night, however, urging reëlection of Don Irwin of Frankfort, as state chairman, after he had read Senator Robinson's attack on the official.

Robinson last night said there were "ugly rumors" Irwin and other party officers were involved in a bipartisan tieup with Gov. Paul V. McNutt and other prominent Indiana Democrats. Irwin and the others were renamed by acclamation today.

SON SLAIN BY FATHER.

Lloyd Pratt, a Negro, 24 years old, of 6409 St. Lawrence avenue, died yesterday of a knife wound inflicted by his father, Thomas, during a quarrel at the home on May 13. The elder Pratt is being held by Woodlawn police.

RECORDS IN HARRIMAN BANK FALSIFIED, WITNESS DECLARES

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—The process of deceiving federal bank examiners about the condition of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company was described on the witness stand in federal court today by Louis Klein, who was bookkeeper of the bond department in the bank until it closed last year.

When the bank examiners descended on the bank in December, 1931, and again in April, 1932, Mr. Klein testified he made out bookkeeping slips which concealed the fact that the bank funds were being sunk to an increasing amount in the bank's own stock.

Despite the federal banking laws prohibiting national banks from dealing in its own stock, the Harriman bank was attempting to maintain its stock at a market price that would inspire public confidence by taking it up at $1,500 a share whenever it appeared.

The bond department of the bank was holding more than $300,000 of its stock when the first of the bank examinations started, and the amount had risen to more than $1,500,000 when the examiners made their next visit four months later, according to Mr. Klein's testimony.

Mr. Klein explained how the records were falsified, but insisted that he did not know they were false until the federal bank examiners made a further visit in June, 1932, and uncovered the whole situation.

BRITAIN SPURNS JAPANESE TRADE WAR PROTESTS

LONDON, May 16.—(AP)—Britain turned a deaf ear today to Japan's protests and resolved to go ahead with the trade war that has broken out between the two nations.

"We are continuing our program," a Downing street official announced tersely in answer to reports that new objections were on their way here from Tokio.

Japan Makes Bid for Peace.

TOKIO, May 16.—(AP)—Japan made a bid for peace today in its trade war with Great Britain. Foreign Minister Koki Hirota sent instructions to Ambassador Matsudaira in London governing moves to be made in attempting to induce Britain to modify restrictions on Japanese imports. A foreign office spokesman said Japan wants to compromise.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM FALL.

POWERS LAUNCH MOVE TO WIND UP DISARM PARLEY

Leaders Consider Plan to Admit Failure.

GENEVA, May 16.—(AP)—A proposal to abandon the disarmament conference and report its failure to the league of nations council was tentatively launched tonight by conference leaders.

Although the idea has not been formally presented, it is known to be under consideration by statesmen who have been seeking to inject new life into a desperately ill patient.

The entire disarmament situation is becoming a swift game of poker.

Indications are that the powers are trying to force France to show her hand on the question of security guarantees, and that France is trying to push England into a pact for mutual military aid in the event either France or England is attacked. France seems especially outspoken on England's vulnerability to attack from the air.

See Saar Vote As Issue.

The impression prevails here that disarmaments will continue in a deadlock until the 1935 Saar plebiscite decides whether that area will be returned to Germany, and until Germany returns to the conference. It was reported here today that Germany was considering returning. This, however, was emphatically denied in Berlin.

The Saar member of the league governing commission created a sensation tonight at a secret meeting of the league council by admitting that guarantees are necessary to protect minority voters in the 1935 plebiscite. He said additional police also are necessary.

U. S. Denies Boycott Plan.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Reports from London that the United States was planning with other powers to apply concerted political, financial, and economic measures against Bolivia and Paraguay equally, to force peace in the Chaco, were denied by the state department today. Secretary Hull said there had been no conversations or negotiations with the United States looking to such a program.

[The London report said such a plan was being considered in London, in Washington, and in Geneva. Economic and financial noncoöperation with the combatants and political ostracism were mentioned as possible steps.]

The belief in government circles was that the London reports grew out of the fact that the council of the league of nations was scheduled to take up in Geneva tomorrow its commission's report on the Chaco warfare. This report urges an arms embargo by the world against the Chaco belligerents.

U. S. Stands on Old Policy.

It was reiterated today that President Roosevelt could not declare an arms embargo against Bolivia and Paraguay unless congress gave him authority to do so. This position has been asserted repeatedly ever since the warfare broke out in the Chaco and foreign governments have been given to understand this position.

This was what Stanley Baldwin referred to in the house of commons today when he inferentially accused the United States of blocking an effort a year ago to impose restrictions on the warring South Americans. Secretary Hull declined to comment on Baldwin's references, explaining that he did not feel called upon to comment, inasmuch as Baldwin had made no unequivocal and definite accusation.

The administration's arms embargo resolution, as amended by Senator Johnson, is lying dormant in the house. As originally passed by the house, it would have authorized the President to impose an arms embargo anywhere in the world, provided he had obtained the agreement of the other principal arms exporting countries to adopt similar measures.

Frowns on Amendment.

The senate adopted the resolution, but with the amendment of Senator Johnson that such an embargo should be imposed against both parties in a war, not against one alone.

This has never been viewed favorably by the state department, which feels that an embargo applied against both parties to a war might be a discrimination.

FARLEY'S VIEW SOUGHT ON LATEST CHIEF IN TAMMANY HALL ROW

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Both the recovery party and a powerful group of the strongest leaders in Tammany hall today flatly rejected the leadership of William P. Kenneally. They prepared to move into action to force the election by a majority of the executive committee of a new leader. The replacement of Kenneally was forecast.

A demand was being formulated that James A. Farley, postmaster general and state chairman, declared whether the Roosevelt administration will accept Kenneally or a leader of his type.

Kenneally arrived at the hall in Unio nSquare early today and took his seat at the old-fashioned roll top desk at which Richard Croker, Charles F. Murphy and John Curry had sat. He said he was starting on a hunt for patronage for deserving Democrats and would get in touch at once with Washington in a search for jobs.

NEW PARK BOARD DISCUSSES BOND REFUNDING NEEDS

4th Extra Session of Legislature Urged.

A proposal for a fourth special session of the legislature to provide a twenty year refunding program so that defaults on obligations of Cook county governments may be averted, was discussed yesterday by the board of the new consolidated Chicago park district. Bankers and representatives of civic groups attended the meeting, which was held in the Lincoln park administration building.

The general refunding plan has grown out of efforts to reach a solution of the financial problem of the west park system, which was left penniless and burdened with debts by a former board. Edward N. Heinz, controler of the unified park board, has perfected a $19,650,000 funding and refunding bond program for the west parks. Issuance of the bonds, however, has been halted pending a decision by the Illinois Supreme court on the validity of the park consolidation act.

Joseph Pleads for Employés.

Harry Joseph, president of the west park commissioners and vice president of the new consolidated board, made a plea that some of the bonds be issued and given to employés in lieu of cash for back salaries.

"Between 50 and 100 people come to our offices daily with heartrending stories of their poverty because salaries are not paid," said Joseph. "Our program called for the issuance of $2,400,000 worth of bonds for pay roll purposes and so far we have issued $1,200,000."

Attorney Henry Cutler, expert on municipal securities, said that he would see what could be done about it, but he regarded the west park picture as "full of gloom."

Criticizes Refunding Bonds.

Another point in the west park program was criticized by R. J. Dunham, president of the consolidated board. This is the $12,450,000 issue of refunding bonds in exchange for obligations falling due now. Mr. Dunham pointed out that these bonds were not callable, being retired in twenty years by a sinking fund, which would not earn the interest on the obligations.

"We have reached the peak in the load of local governments' bond obligations just at the lowest ebb of tax collections," said John Rees, director of the citizens' committee on public expenditures. "Unless a special session of the legislature can be called and a program for refunding passed in the near future, the 1933 and 1934 tax bills won't be lowered. If the legislation is obtained in time the taxes will be reduced 15 or 20 per cent."

Mr. Dunham suggested that Rees and other civic representatives lay their case before Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, James B. MaCahey, president of the board of education, and other public officials. Rees said it would be done.

Debate to Be Held on RFC Loans for Small Business

A debate on whether the Reconstruction Finance corporation should be enabled to make direct loans to small businesses will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the auditorium of the Bankers' building. The affirmative in the debate will be taken by three students of the Chicago-Kent College of Law and the negative by members of the American Institute of Banking.

3 EX-SENATORS JOIN IN WARNING ON WORLD COURT

Reed, Glenn and Pepper in Plea to Committee.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—Three former senators today appeared before the senate foreign relations committee and joined their voices in a warning to colleagues now in office that they be not "swayed by propaganda" into voting their country into the world court.

Two of them, the Democratic James A. Reed of Missouri, and the Republican Otis F. Glenn of Illinois, declared that the people of their respective states were against the court, absolutely and under any qualifying conditions. Reed said Missouri was against it 10 to 1; Glenn said that no man or woman would "dare seek public office in Illinois today" on a proposition of adherence to the world court.

The third ex-senator, the Republican George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania, urged the senate of 1934 not to forget the "careful, non-partisan" work of the senate of 1926 when it insisted upon the five reservations which he calls the "irreducible minimum" of protection for the United States.

Urges Regard for 5 Points.

To forget these reservations, he argued, would be folly; to be beguiled into thinking the Root formula an exact equivalent for them would be foolish.

"For God's sake, gentlemen," he shouted, "reëxamine the question of the politico-legal function of the court and see whether you're not imperiling the interests of your country if you reduce these reservations."

The crowded committee room burst into applause.

But it was former Senator Reed who got the biggest hand when he charged that Andrew Carnegie money was financing a propaganda fund "in an effort to pull down the American flag and hoist in it's place an international rag."

"The proponents of the court prate of its good decisions," he snarled. "But I want to call your attention to its bad decisions. The rape of Manchuria stands unchallenged."

Calls Judges Politicians.

The court isn't really a court at all, he maintained; mainly because the judges aren't impartial and judicial; but each is "a political represenative of his nation."

After pointing to the nonjudicial factors of having the Chinese representative thinking first of China; of the French judge thinking first of France, and so on through the list, he turned his attention to an American judge on the court.

"An American citizen who sat on that court and didn't put the interests of his country above everything would not be fit to sit there. A man who is not a good citizen is not fit to be a good judge; and therefore you can't get an impartial international judge."

Again they broke into applause.

As the matter of enforcement, either the court can or can't enforce its decisions, he pointed out. If it can't then it's "an impotent body and worthless." If it can, then "it's the most dangerous thing ever conceived in the brain of man."

Such enforcement, he argued, could come only through the assistance of the league of nations, and is therefore damning.

Charges League Hookup.

The Missourian feels the world court is so inevitably tied up with the league that he calls the court "merely a political excrescence of a political organization created by Europe and Asia and one which we declared we would not join. And now it is proposed to put you under control of that creature you spurned."

Mr. Glenn documented his argument with statistics from three Illinois votes. In a Republican senatorial primary, he recalled, William B. McKinley, campaigning for the world court "at the insistence of Calvin Coolidge," was roundly beaten by Frank L. Smith. Later, in a general referendum, the world court was "definitly defeated." More recently, in another Republican senatorial primary, he recalled, Ruth Hanna McCormick defeated Charles S. Deneen by 240,000 on the world court issue.

U. S. WILL BUILD 20 WARSHIPS; TO COST 40 MILLION

Washington, D. C., May 16.—[Special.]—The construction of 20 warships costing $40,000,000 will begin as soon as funds are obtained from the $1,322,000,000 public works and relief appropriations asked by President Roosevelt, Secretary Swanson announced today. While this was not mentioned in his message to congress yesterday, President Roosevelt advocates using $40,000,000 for the navy shipbuilding program.

Secretary Swanson said that the new building program would include 12 destroyers, two destroyer leaders, and six submarines, forming the first year's program under the Vinson act, which authorized the replacement of 102 ships to bring the navy up to full treaty strength by the end of 1939. The policy of the administration is to lay down the balance of the 102 replacement ships in the next four years.

The naval appropriation act for the fiscal year 1935 provides for the construction of one heavy and three light cruisers in addition to the 20 warships planned to be built with the contemplated $40,000,000 allocation from PWA funds.

STORE ROBBER CAPTURED.

One of two armed men who held up a delicatessen at 556 East 92d place yesterday, taking $15, was captured shortly afterwards by police from the Burnside station. He is Herman Howlery, 28 years old, 2944 South Michigan avenue.

HEARINGS BEGUN ON CHICAGO LIGHT RATE REDUCTION

I. C. C. Attorney Clashes with Edison Lawyer.

The electrical rate reduction case against the Commonwealth Edison company was opened yesterday before the Illinois commerce commission, but formal hearings were delayed until May 29. David F. Taber, counsel for the company, said time was needed to assemble financial data which the commission had requested.

The move for a reduction in rates in the Chicago area was made a year ago, when the commission, in a general order, directed various electrical companies in the state to show cause why their rates should not be reduced. The Commonwealth Edison company, according to the commission's attorneys, replied that it was unable to make any reduction, whereupon the hearing, which began yesterday, was ordered.

Lawyers Clash at Hearing.

Mr. Taber and Harry R. Booth, assistant counsel for the commission, clashed at the brief session when the utility lawyer intimated the figures would not even be ready for submission in two weeks.

Attorney Booth said that the Edison company had not reduced its domestic rates since 1928, and that its rates now were considerably higher than electricity rates in downstate communities. The rates, he declared, should be as low, or lower, in Chicago, than in other parts of the state.

Attorney Taber took issue with Mr. Booth. He pointed out that only a year ago the Edison company assumed the 3 per cent federal tax on electric bills, which was saving the customers $1,500,000 annually. With other rate reductions, he said, the savings to consumers now total $2,000,000 every year.

Comparison of Bills.

The following average comparison of bills was later produced by Mr. Booth:

Kilowatts.	Chicago.	Peoria.	E. St. Louis.	Alton.
25	$1.47	$1.50	$1.19	$1.43
50	2.40	2.31	1.96	2.25
75	3.33	3.06	2.55	2.85
100	4.26	3.81	3.14	3.44

The commerce commission ordered the Edison company to supply a report of its expenses for 1933, with segregation of all nonoperating and nonutility expenses. It further requested a statement of all inter and affiliated company payments during 1933, with an explanation of the purposes of all payments in excess of $5,000.

The commission yesterday made permanent its recent order reducing electricity rate of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois by approximately 12 per cent in the 6,000 square miles of territory it serves in the rural and suburban areas surrounding Chicago. It goes into effect on June 1.

Company Accepts Order.

The original order was temporary, to have lasted until the commission had completed an investigation on permanent rates. Officials of the Public Service company, in a statement last week, accepted the finding of the commission with the suggestion that the reduction, which will save the power consumers of the utility $1,300,000 yearly, be made permanent.

It was declared in the statement by James Simpson, chairman of the board of the company, that the conclusions of the commission were not just as to the financial earnings of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois. He stated further, however, that it was deemed wise to accept the ruling and thus avoid expensive litigation in the courts. The company will endeavor to expand its service and increase its business to make up the reduced revenues resulting from the rate reduction, he said.

Dairyman Tells Why He Flouts License of AAA

BY PAUL POTTER.

A milk dealer took the stand in his own defense yesterday before a federal adjustment administration tribunal and told why he had not complied with the AAA milk license.

The hearing, one of a series being held by order of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, who has cited milk dealers violating the milk license, was held in the United States Customs court at 910 South Canal street. The defendants face the penalty of being put out of the milk business through revocation of their licenses. Maj. Albert D. Hadley of the AAA license enforcement division presided and J. Carroll Hunter, another AAA attorney, was the prosecuting attorney.

Admits Failure to Report.

Joseph Skrizypczynski, president of the Lemont Dairy, 840 West 31st street, was the witness. He was addressed throughout the hearing as Joe Scrip. Scrip has admitted that he failed to give the government reports on his business, as is required under the licensing agreement. However, he has paid the farmers the full price for milk, as decreed in the agreement.

Scrip is being defended by Attorney Stephen Witmanski, who, as head of the White Eagle dairy, has also been cited for violations.

Witmanski and Scrip have been small milk dealers in Chicago for nearly 30 years, and Witmanski recently was elected president of the Chicago Milk Dealers' association, whose membership constitutes 90 per cent of the milk distributors in Chicago in point of numbers, but whose milk sales total less than 20 per cent of the total sold in Chicago.

Scrip told the AAA tribunal of his long career in the milk business and of the incorporation of his company seven years ago, so that he might share his business with his children and bring them up in it. The Lemont company, he said, has 18 routes and resells to several small dealers.

Believes License Unfair.

Scrip said he had not complied with the rules of the milk license because he considered it unfair. He said he believed the license is dominated by the Pure Milk association and the big milk dealers.

Attorney Hadley tried to show Scrip that the PMA had nothing to do with the license.

"I wish I could believe that," replied Scrip, "but I do not."

He described his troubles with the PMA, starting last January when he discontinued buying milk through it because, he said, the checkoff he was required to take from farmers had grown from 1 cent up to 8 cents a hundred pounds [46.5 quarts]. He also said there was danger that the PMA might withdraw his milk supply suddenly, an experience he had already undergone before the license became effective.

Attorny Witmanski asked Scrip his opinion of the license. Scrip replied that "the aim seems to be to put some of the dealers out of business." He said that in selling milk at 8 cents a quart retail he was being forced to lose money, and charged that the effect of the AAA license and the price war would be to "leave only a few dealers, maybe only one, instead of 150, in Chicago."

STRESS YOUTH ACTIVITIES IN LEISURE TODAY

Chicago public and parochial schools today will mark youth actitvities in leisure time as a specialized part of Youth Week observation. Programs in schools, settlement houses, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. centers, and Boy Scout quarters, are planned for the day.

The Lucy Flower Technical High school will emphasize dramatics as an important leisure time activity with the presentation of an operetta in the school this afternoon. Tonight the Civil Works Educational Service classes will exhibit their leisure time handiwork at the Flower High school, and there will be a similar showing in LaFollette park. The Chicago Boys club organization has planned programs for its units.

Yesterday the schools observed health day with programs, posture contests, and athletic exhibitions. Tomorrow the Youth Week activities will center at the Union Leogue club when five honor pupils of the Chicago schools are given scholarships to Northwestern university, the University of Chicago and Armour Institute of Technology at a luncheon in their honor. Sixty other pupils, selected as leaders in their classes, will receive Union League achievement medals from the club.

POLICE CAPTURE GUNMAN ON ROOF AFTER ROBBERY

After a hand to hand struggle on the roof of a three story building on the southeast corner at 93d street and Cottage Grove avenue, two policemen yesterday afternoon overpowered and captured Herman Howlery, ex-convict who had fled after a robbery.

Howlery and a companion, William Reese, 21 years old, held up Mrs. Mary Ferency in her delicatessen shop at 556 East 92d street, robbed her of a few dollars and then ran into the street. Mrs. Ferency followed them, calling for help. Policeman John Danaher joined in the chase and when the two fugitives separated he pursued Howlery.

The robber climbed a post on a back porch to the roof of a two story frame building and then to the roof of the three story structure. There, waving a pistol, he threatened to kill Danaher. The latter, however, was joined by Policeman Daniel Donovan, who was passing in a car, and together they went to the roof and arrested Howlery.

Reese was later arrested at 34th and State streets. He and Howlery were paroled from Pontiac reformatory recently and had been living in a shelter at 2944 South Michigan avenue. They were sent to the reformatory for thefts.

ASK STATES' O. K. ON NEW PLAN FOR SEWAGE WORKS

Hope for Approval at Session Tomorrow.

Representatives of four states which fought Chicago in the Lake Michigan diversion case will meet here tomorrow morning to decide whether any objections shall be raised against new plans for the construction of the sanitary's district's $21,000,000 west-southwest side sewage treatment works.

If the attorney generals of Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin and Minnesota approve the project as revised by a government board of review, Lawrence Fenlon, sanitary district attorney, will take the plans to Washington Sunday for presentation to the Supreme court. Should the court approve the changes, actual construction work, employing 8,000 men, will start early this fall.

Believes Objections Unlikely.

Mr. Fenlon yesterday saw little possibility for objection to the changed plans by the four states. If there should be any protest it will delay construction another full year, he said.

"The plans revised by the government appear to carry out the provisions of the Supreme court mandate which requires that the lake diversion be cut to 1,500 cubic feet a second by 1939," Mr. Fenlon said. "We do not believe that there will be any objection to the changes made, since such changes seem to benefit the states interested as well as Chicago and Illinois. Replies to our request for a conference here indicate that there will be coöperation."

The conference was called after Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes approved the plans as changed under an agreement made between the Sanitary district and the Public Works administration when the government advanced the district $42,000,000 last December. Attorneys for the district feared to start work on the new program without approval of the interested states and the Supreme court.

Meet Tomorrow at 10:30 A. M.

The meeting tomorrow will be held at 10:30 o'clock in the offices of Philip Harrington, chief engineer for the sanitary district, and will be attended by Lloyd H. Landau, PWA general solicitor in Washington; R. T. Jackson, special counsel for the four states, Cleveland; Otto Kerner, Illinois attorney general; Col. David I. Sultan and Joshua D'Esposito, PWA officials in Chicago; and the following attorney generals: J. E. Finnegan, Wisconsin; Patrick H. O'Brien, Michigan; Harry H. Peterson, Minnesota, and John W. Bricker, Ohio.

If the new treatment works proposal is favored, Joseph D. Fleming, special counsel for the district, will accompany Mr. Fenlon to Washington to present the plans to the Supreme court in time for a decision before the court adjourns on May 28.

Mr. Harrington said yesterday that the Sanitary district will be prepared to let contracts almost immediately on the receipt of court approval. He will recommend the district board's approval of the new plans at its meeting today, he declared.

FIVE GOVERNORS MEET TO RENEW SEAWAY BATTLE

Governors of five central western states, meeting yesterday in the La Salle hotel, formed plans for an association with the object of raising a $50,000 fund to be used in obtaining ratification of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada.

The states represented were Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin. Gov. Henry Horner, as well as Senator James Hamilton Lewis, have expressed opposition to the seaway pact on the ground that it would interfere with diversion of water at Chicago. Gov. Horner was not present.

In a prepared statement the governors asserted that "sectionalism" had caused the failure to ratify the treaty at the present term of congress, and pledged themselves to carry the fight for the seaway project to the people all over the country. Gov. Schmedeman of Wisconsin presided at the meeting.

Women students of Northwestern university will take over the campus today in observance of the annual May day festival. They will be in charge of the student newspaper and other activities usually handled by male students.

At 4 p. m., in front of the Deering library, the traditional May dance will be held, to be followed by the crowning of the May queen. The identity of the queen and her six maids of honor, chosen by vote of the students, will not be made known until the coronation ceremony. In the evening there will be a lantern processional and a sorority singing contest.

President Walter Dill Scott last night lighted a huge candle in the Old College building, as a signal for similar illumination at various points over the world where Northwestern alumni gathered. This ceremony has been carried on for twenty years. Preceding the candle lighting the Chicago Alumni association of Northwestern was host at a dinner in the Georgian hotel.

LABORITE ATTACKS BRITAIN FOR FAILURE TO PAY DEBT TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—An uncomfortable reminder of Great Britain's obligations to the United States was given the house of commons tonight by D. R. Grenfell, Laborite, during debate on the government's finance bill.

Grenfell charged that the budget surplus was achieved by a reduction of interest payments as a result of conversion operations and because only token payments were made on the war debt instalments due the United States last year.

"People who think they represent the dignity and honor of England should remember that when this country was served by the Labor government, we paid the national debts and made a generous contribution toward reduction of the principal," Grenfell declared.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Chamberlain, replying, carefully avoided all reference to the debt question, confining his remarks to a defense of the government's trade policy.

SIX COURTS OPEN DURING SUMMER IS JUDGES' PLAN

CRIMINAL COURT.

George Harris, Joseph Levanowicz, and Clarence Brown, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

James Snyder, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Leroy Peterson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Willie Cook, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip J. Finnegan.

John Kelly and Philip Stumpf, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years each in the penitentiary by Judge James Fardy.

An appeal to the executive committee of the Superior and Circuit courts to keep the Criminal courts open during the summer so as not to lose the ground already gained in the crime war, was forwarded yesterday by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court. The letter was the result of unanimous action by the Criminal court judges in a special meeting held yesterday after Clerk George Seif informed the judges that the Criminal court calendar is in better condition than it has been in more than a score of years.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney through his first assistant, Wilbert J. Crowley, backed up the appeal of the judges and said the prosecuting staf is ready to man as many courts during the vacation period as the judges will operate. He suggested that at least six courts be kept in operation at all times.

No Vacation for Criminals.

"Criminals do not take a vacation, so why should the officials charged with enforcement of the law take a complete vacation," said Prosecutor Crowley. "If the judges will stagger their vacations we can keep enough courts open throughout the summer to keep the campaign against crime going at top speed.

"For the first time in many years the number of pending indictments at this time of the year is under the 500 mark. If the judges keep up the same pace for the next few months the docket will be practically cleared of all but current cases. The only way to keep it in that condition is to have at least six courts operating throughout the summer."

Give Part of Vacations.

The plan of the Criminal court judges is to have some of the Civil court judges give up part of their vacation period and donate it to the criminal court as was done last year when the then Chief Justice John Prystalski called for volunteers to start the war on crime. At that time even Judge Kickham Scanlan and Judge Ross C. Hall from the Appellate court helped out in the crime drive.

Prosecutor Courtney yesterday made public figures to show the efficiency of the crusade against crime. At the start of the February term of court 863 indictments were pending, as compared with 490 indictments pending as of last Monday. During this period the judges not only cut down the number of pending cases by 373 indictments, but also disposed of 1,640 new indictments, naming 1,855 defendants, which were returned by the grand jury from January to May 5.

In the same period 1,122 defendants were convicted and 947 were sentenced to the penitentiary. Of this number at least 80 automobile thieves were given the maximum sentence of 1 to 20 years, since Mr. Courtney started his drive against this class of crime.

HOPES TO LIFT U. S. BAN ON HIS WIFE'S RE-ENTRY

Charles Erickson, 34 years old, 2106½ East 79th street, hopes by the end of the week to clear the last international obstacle in the way of a reunion with his wife. She is now in London, Ont., where she and her 3 year old son, Charles Jr., were stopped by immigration officers early Sunday.

Her reëntry was forbidden on the grounds of her British birth and the fact that she had overstayed by two days a six month permit to live outside the United States during a visit with her parents at Prince Edward Island. Erickson, who is a native of Chicago, then sent records of the marriage, bank references and statements from former business associates to satisfy the authorities. Yesterday his wife informed him that she needed a certified copy of his birth certificate and evidence that he is a competent breadwinner. He hopes to supply both in time for her return by Sunday.

Meanwhile she and the child are in the care of the Y. W. C. A. Travelers' Aid society at London.

FLOUR MILL BURNS.

Longmont, Volo., May 16.—(AP)—The Longmont flour mill was destroyed by fire last night with an estimated loss of $100,000.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

Bugs Thrive in Drouth.

BY PAUL POTTER.

May 16, 1934.

WE are face to face with our first major problem, big enough to have the entire corn belt and experienced men in agriculture puzzled. The drouth has been serious enough, but it has not been content to handicap growing conditions for the crops—it has been ideal for the development of millions of tiny chinch bugs. The drouth cut short the oats, hay, and pasture crops. Now the chinch bugs are ready to complete the crop reduction program of nature by taking what's left.

Last Sunday we had three small patches of fine malting barley waving a deep green before the winds. Today they are a sorry sight. The plants are cropped off, sparse, and those remaining are turning yellow. The fields are alive with tiny flying insects, working in and out of the soil during a busy mating and seed laying season.

Normally the chinch bugs would not destroy such a crop, although we had planned for an infestation, as have thousands of middle west farmers. But the drouth has driven these little adult bugs to feed on the crops they usually select as the place where their young will find food. They have riddled the rye field of a neighbor farmer down the road from here, and are into oats fields aplenty in many parts of the state.

By the last week in May or early in June the new chinch bug crop is due from the eggs now being deposited. These bugs are one of the three most treacherous insect enemies of farmers and are harder to combat even than grasshoppers.

Several measures are possible in meeting the invasion, and we intend to try out all of them here. The first has already been done, that of planting more legume crops, such as soy beans, alfalfa, and clover. The bugs don't like such crops. The second defense is to plant some soy beans in the hills with the corn, and this the boys on the farm are doing this week.

The third method tried here has been to put small patches of barley in isolated spots on the farms, one down near the Fox river and another right in the middle of a big soy bean field. These patches are to be chinch bug traps. In a couple of weeks we intend to plow them up and plow deeply. Then some crop like soy beans for hay or buckwheat will be sown. Sudan grass will not do, as the bugs relish it.

Still another method—the last resort—is the use of earthen barriers to stop and to exterminate the bugs as they hatch out and begin marching on the fields. Some use of chemicals, also, will be tried out.

Aside from these, and a few less promising man made defenses against the bugs, the only help we can expect from nature is for very heavy rains during the season when the 1934 crop of bugs is hatching. The pelting rains push the bugs into the mud from which they cannot extricate themselves. Rains also start the growth of a fungus present in the soil that is deadly to the bugs.

ILLINOIS MINES GIVE CHICAGO A COAL PRICE CUT

10 Cent Reduction a Ton Is Announced.

Operators of Illinois coal mines voluntarily took action yesterday to reduce Chicago's annual coal bill by $800,000. The operators announced a new price scale reducing the cost of all coal sold at the mines for Chicago consumption by 10 cents a ton.

The $800,000 saving to Chicago was calculated by the coal yard merchants of the city who said they buy 8,000,000 tons of Illinois coal for heating and other uses here each year. The price reduction, they said, will be passed on to residence, apartment and office building owners and to manufacturers.

All Illinois Coal Affected.

The price reduction is effective for all types of Illinois coal from "screenings," the least expensive type, to the "nut" grades. The reduction does not apply to coal sold for consumption elsewhere than in Chicago. Thus Chicagoans will pay $1.50 a ton for screenings while Milwaukee or Detroit consumers can buy the same coal for $1.35 a ton. Up to yesterday Chicagoans paid $1.60 a ton for the same coal.

Observers interpreted the price reduction as a concession because of complaints raised when it became known, with the publication of the May price schedules two weeks ago, that Chicago consumers would have to pay 25 cents a ton more for Illinois coal than would purchasers in Michigan or Wisconsin.

Price Parley in Washington.

Hope for a still further reduction in the price of coal for Chicago from Illinois, West Virginia and eastern Kentucky fields was expressed here last evening when it became known that Joseph Harrington, presidential member of the NRA coal code authority for Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa, had been called to Washington to confer with Gen. Hugh Johnson and the national coal code authority.

The conference was summoned as the result of widespread protest over alleged discriminations against Chicago as disclosed in recent coal price schedules approved by NRA code authorities. The Kentucky and West Virginia coal code authorities held conferences with the national authority on Monday and Tuesday, it was learned.

HOPE STILL HELD FOR COALITION IN JUDICIAL RACE

Hoping still for complete coalition for the June judicial election which would effect a saving of $150,000 in election costs, Chairman Fred V. Maguire of the board of election commissioners ordered the printing of the ballots held up yesterday. He acted after a talk with Mayor Kelly.

There was no announcement of withdrawal by either of the two candidates for the O'Connell Municipal court vacancy, Erwin J. Hasten, Democrat, and William J. Mannion, Republican, whose contest prevents fusion.

Because of the repeated reports that the death of Joseph B. McDonough, nominee for county clerk, might cause a shakeup in the Democratic ticket, Robert M. Sweitzer, nominee for county treasurer, announced that there is no such plan afoot and that he will remain in the race for the treasurership.

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN CHARGESHUSBAND WAS MISTREATED

Mrs. Agnes McLaughlin, wife of John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, former Illinois legislator, charged yesterday that federal agents had hung her husband out an 18th story window with a threat to drop him and call his death a suicide if he did not confess to participating in disposal of the $200,000 ransom paid to kidnapers for the release of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, last January.

Mrs. McLaughlin said she had made the charge in a telegram sent to Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general, in Washington. The telegram, she said, protested against the alleged mistreatment of her husband by agents under Melvin H. Purvis, Chicago chief of the federal bureau of investigation.

McLaughlin, his son, John Jr., 17 years old, and two other men are being held for removal to St. Paul on charges of conspiracy. McLaughlin is accused of handling $53,000 of the ransom money. He has denied the charge.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan announced that today he will hear a motion for the issuance of a formal order for the defendants' removal.

HUNT GIRL CLOTHING THIEF.

Sheffield avenue police yesterday were searching for a young woman who got $150 worth of dresses belonging to Miss Myrtle Ridgeway, 27 years old, 451 Wrightwood avenue, by representing herself to Myrtle's roommate as having been sent for the clothes.

MICHIGAN STATE LAW PUTS END TO SPEED TRAPS

Abolishes Trafic Rules of Small Towns.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., May 16.—[Special.]—The Michigan highway commission, armed with a statute enacted by the last regular state legislature, is breaking the cordon of small town trafic regulations that surrounds this city of 1,500,000 population. The problem is one facing all large American cities, particularly Chicago, so the experiment has more than local interest.

A description of the geography for this experiment would apply equally well to the Chicago metropolitan area. Radiating from Detroit are broad highways. Along these routes are suburbs and villages.

Maze of Trafic Rules.

The small municipalities enacted ordinances governing speed of vehicles within their corporate limits. In some places these speed ordinances were enforced against through trafic traveling the broad pavements within corporate limits but in open country.

"It was a racket to collect revenue, not to reduce reckless or dangerous driving," said Edward G. Rockwell, attorney for the Automobile Club of Michigan, telling of these arrests in the open country. "Justices of peace or constables, working on a fee basis, prosecuted for personal profit.

"There were also objections to the local control of through trafic due to the lack of uniformity. For example, on Woodward avenue, U. S. 10, a superhighway from Detroit to Pontiac, 25 miles, the broad pavement traverses the corporate limits of seven municipalities northbound and nine municipalities southbound."

Now Speed Along at 45 M. P. H.

The legislature last year passed a bill authorizing the Michigan highway commission to fix the speed limits and otherwise to regulate trafic on state highways through municipalities except in business districts.

Woodward avenue, from within Detroit to Pontiac, was selected as the scene for the first exercise of this state authority. It was picked for the experiment because it is one of the heaviest traveled superhighways in the state.

The new system was instaled about 30 days ago. From the Detroit city limits to Lansing motorists now travel through the nine suburbs at 45 miles an hour, with the exception of two 35 mile an hour zones in local business districts. Signs advise drivers of these state speed limits. In the unincorporated open country the limit is anything reasonable and safe.

PAYS FINE AND IS FREED.

Barney R. Pietkiewicz, a real estate man with offices at 2608 West 47th street, who was fined $100 for contempt of court on Tuesday by Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell for impersonating a lawyer, was freed yesterday when he paid the fine.

THREE MORE GET MAXIMUM TERMS FOR AUTO THEFT

8 Sentenced to Prison in Two Days.

State's Attorney Courtney's war on automobile thievery was aided in the Criminal court yesterday when Judge Grover Niemeyer imposed sentences of one to 20 years on three men found guilty of the theft of cars. These made a total of eight auto thieves who have been sentenced to maximum penitentiary terms in the last two days.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 31; recovered, 32; stripped, 2 [from police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Tuesday].

Those sentenced yesterday were George Harris, 34 years old, who stole a car from the Southern Motor Sales, Inc., 67 East 22d street, on April 6; Clarence Brown, 25 years old, who took a car belonging to Charles Pressell, 2233 Seminary avenue, on April 30, and Joseph Levanowicz, 22 years old, who stole the automobile of Charles C. Walton, 805 Fillmore street, Oak Park, on May 1.

Judge Joseph Graber in the Automobile court sentenced W. H. Moore, 40 years old, to serve 90 days in the House of Correction yesterday when he pleaded guilty to obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with the reported theft of his automobile. It was charged that Moore sold his car and then collected theft insurance on it by reporting it stolen.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday made public figures showing a sharp decline in automobile thefts during last month as compared with the same month of previous years.

In April, 1932, 3,305 cars were reported stolen; in the same month a year later 2,635 were stolen, and last month only 1,172 were taken. In April, 1932, police recovered 2,850 cars, 2,189 in 1933, and 1,255 last month.

While the number of automobiles recovered also showed a decline, it was pointed out that this must necessarily be so since fewer were stolen but that last month more automobiles were recovered than were reported stolen.

A decrease in the number of cars stripped was also shown by the figures for last month.

'DIAMOND QUEEN' AND WOUNDED BOY FRIEND MAKE UP

NICE, France, May 16.—(AP)—Countess Dela Porcerie, formerly Mabel Boll, "Queen of Diamonds," today visited the bedside of Georges Charlot, 27 year old professional dancer, who shot himself on the grounds of her villa yesterday.

Hospital attendants described the visit as a reconciliation and said the young man will be taken to a hotel or to the countess' home tomorrow, unless his condition takes a turn for the worse.

At the time of the shooting yesterday police said that Charlot was trying to kill himself because of a falling out with the former "Queen of Diamonds."

THE SEIZURE OF COMMUNICATIONS.

The senate has passed the communications control bill. It is forecast that the house of representatives will do likewise. The government's determination to lay its hands upon the wires and cables and put them under the same restrictions which govern the radio and the rails is apparently to be carried through successfully.

This project can be regarded as the most gratuitously destructive undertaking of the New Deal. There may be pretext for it, but there is no reason. The rail communications are being supported by government money, having been brought to the doorstep of bankruptcy by government regulation. The wire communications have survived the hard times without ruining their investors and without impairing their service to their customers. Radio communications are in a state of uncertainty because of governmental control and only the wires have been free. The man who introduced the seizure bill in the senate, Dill of Washington, was probably wholly unconscious of what he was saying as he argued for the passage of the grab bill and described the present condition of the wires.

Mr. Dill said that there was the world's largest use of wire communications in the United States, "in fact, I think it is as large as all the rest of the world combined." He said the telephones had a capitalization and tentative valuation of more than 5 billion dollars and that there were more than 20 million individual telephones in the United States. More than 200 million written messages were telegraphed or cabled last year. The misguided politician was describing the success of a great private enterprise upon which the federal government had as yet not laid its hands and upon which it was determined to lay that blight.

The wires have been under state regulation and the causes urged as requiring federal interference are merely pretexts which have explanation only as they are discovered to be the cover for a swift socialization of the major industries of the country. There is no other excuse for this federal seizure of a utility which is more highly developed in the United States than in any other part of the world. Reduced to revealing brevity, the charges against the wires are that they are sound and successful. It can't be said that American railroads are the best in the world, although they might easily be if the initiative of their managements had not been destroyed by government. The American wires are the best in the world and most used because they have been free from this destruction.

The excuse the government has for putting its meddlesome finger in the eye of other business is that the business is all in a bad way. It cannot find such an excuse for the communications bill and, therefore, citizens are allowed to seek the real purposes behind the Dill bill. Those purposes are socialistic and the object sought is the impounding of successful private enterprise and the control not only of the means of communication but of the content of such communications. Censorship, direct and indirect, is one purpose hid behind the pretext.

The pretext is based to some extent upon the Supreme court decision in the Chicago telephone coin box case which was so long in being carried through the courts and came to a decision against the company. It was forgotten here that the remedy was in local control and the fault was in the prolonged court processes.

The Chicago case cannot reasonably be taken as an excuse for federal intervention of such comprehensive consequences. In the main, the success and widespread use of wire communications in the United States are due to the winning of the customer by the service which satisfies him. Even as monopolies, the wires are subjected to competition. There are necessitous uses but there are many more optional ones. A letter may take the place of a telephone call or a telegram, not in all cases but in a sufficiently large number of cases to make it the business of the companies to win an increased use by satisfying an increased number of users. This is probably the safest regulation of rates because the extension of the wires always depends basically upon offering many advantages in competition with slower means of communication. The communications bill is not explainable in terms of emergency, genuine national concern, or advantage to the service. It would be insane in view of what has happened to other government controled services to predict that there will be any benefits from government control. The explanation lies in the advantage of the totalitarian state, of the state which is all in all, which comprehends and directs every activity of its citizens.

NO OVEREMPHASIS HERE.

The college sport which should meet the full approval of citizens seeking to take the overemphasis out of college athletics is the sport of the track and field. It exists of itself and for itself. The contestants are both contestants and spectators. Even the undergraduates go about their other affairs and give the track teams the field to themselves. The game is the thing, and apparently the boys don't care whether anybody turns out to see them or not.

It's a bit of a mystery, because most of the events present athletic competition in an attractive and exciting form. The track meets have good publicity and a boy can win national or international fame at a meet which hasn't attracted more than 200 people, most of them connected directly with the management and conduct of the games. The training for the sport is expertly and scientifically managed. The boys give everything they have in the competition, frequently to the point of exhaustion, and for applause get a word or two from their teammates.

No other college sport, not even baseball, is so severely let alone and so remote from any general interest. This doesn't seem to dampen any of the enthusiasm of the contestants, who go through a grueling day in the best of good nature, seemingly enjoying their competition as much as if they were greeted with the enthusiasm let loose by 50,000 or more in the same stadium in the fall when the football teams trot out. The only sport which is as exhausting as some of the track events is a hard fought four mile boat race, but the boys will work just as hard for empty benches as they possibly could if the stadium were filled. It's a credit to them that they will perform so admirably under such conditions.

Various efforts to put a little theater in the show haven't had much success, really have been more or less stilted failures. But the games without any frills are packed with thrills and the wonder is that they remain so distant from favor in a sport loving country.

THE AGRICULTURAL CONVENTION OF 1935.

An invitation has been extended by the Association of Commerce to the Illinois Agricultural association to hold its convention of 1935 in Chicago. The people of Chicago and their representatives unquestionably and unanimously second this invitation and will do everything possible to make the visit of the delegates and their families an agreeable experience.

The agricultural association has a membership of 60,000 and is one of the outstanding farmers' organizations in the nation. It has not held a convention in Chicago since 1912 and we hope its directors will think Chicago's turn has arrived. There is nothing more certain than that there should be better acquaintance between this great urban community and our fellow Illinoisans of the farms. Chicago is founded on agriculture and in turn offers to the farmers of Illinois the accumulated resources of one of the world's great cities. We are interdependent in every respect, not merely economically but socially and politically, and our people are fellow laborers in the great task of commonwealth building.

These are truisms, but they have not been made effective in our relations. They can be made effective by such contacts as the agricultural association convention offers and we think the benefits will be mutual and substantial. At any rate, the directors of the association may be assured that the invitation to Chicago is cordial and sincere and that its members will be welcome, if they elect to visit us, and can count upon every effort to make their visit worth while.

LILAC TIME

When the lilacs are in bloom great truckloads of them are gathered and distributed among Chicago hospitals and other institutions to cheer the sick and hearten the dispirited. The custom is relatively new and is altogether admirable. The initiative came from the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit Guild which has enjoyed the coöperation of many of the garden clubs in the region.

The profusion of the blooms, even in a year of drouth such as this, is so great that any mature bush can yield an armful without appreciable loss to the owner. The messages of appreciation from those who received bouquets and from hospital officials can leave no doubt that the flowers provide a measure of comfort to the suffering which would warrant a thousand times the effort required to gather them. THE TRIBUNE has welcomed the opportunity to serve as the agency of distribution and will continue to do so in years to come.

Editorial of the Day

[Logan (Ia.) Observer.]

As we understand the speeches made by prominent business men, bankers, manufacturers, chamber of commerce leaders, and giants of industry in general they are deeply in love with the Roosevelt administration, but they do not like it. They are greatly enamored of the President and all his works, but they do not care at all for him for what he has done and what he is trying to do.

Quite generally oratory follows the same flight, ascends the same peaks, gyrates about in standardized air levels and when the eloquence is hushed and the cold type prints the words and phrases they all say the same thing: While we're for it we're against it.

Speakers criticize such monetary system as there is. They are severe in castigation of the agricultural maneuvering. They are frankly and firmly against all attempts to tinker with the tarif. Absolutely and irrevocably they oppose the NRA, the RFC, the AAA, and all the rest of the alphabet and its combinations. Wallace, Tugwell, Johnson, Ickes, Perkins are anathema, and every policy [accepting there is a policy] is wrong, dangerous, and full of dynamite.

After which oratory scales the pinnacles and dusts off the clouds praising the President, and climaxes with the assertion that he is the greatest executive we ever have had, likely ever will have.

There seems to be something of a famine in consistency in this sort of stuff. If the works of the chief are unsatisfactory, if the crew surrounding him doesn't do a good job, if every man on the staf is incompetent and inefficient, if everything they have done and intend to do is wrong, just why is the boss so great?

At one time it was a principle that the executive is responsible for his agent. If that principle has not been discarded, along with others, it would seem that Mr. Roosevelt is responsible for the activities of the groups surrounding and advising him. There reasonably might be the assumption that they are functioning as he wants them to, and that his indorsement goes along with their achievements, good or bad. The power to accept or refuse is his. If the beans are spilled surely he helped to tilt the dish.

It will require something more than this type of oratory to convince that Roosevelt is not the administration. If he is to gather roses he also must take the thorns.

If the suit doesn't fit, if the color is wrong and the fabric poor, if the hat is too small, the shirt large, the shoes unshined and the tie out of harmony the sartorial ensemble cannot be perfect.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

"THE WAY TO GET OUT of this depression," says Henry Ford, "is to start spending money." Which is a fine idea, Henry, but it reminds one in its simple philosophy of the remark made by Marie Antoinette, who, when she was told that the mob was crying for bread because they had none to eat, archly said, "Then why don't they eat cake?" To tell you the truth, Mr. Ford, some of us will find it a little hard to start spending money because—well, Henry, if you must know, a fellow can't get a very good running start on say a dollar and sixty-five cents.

‡

AND MR. FORD also allows that the fellow who starts spending money now will be three years ahead of the man who waits three years when prosperity comes back. Well, Henry, you don't know how easy it is to catch up in this thing of spending money. A man may have a three year start in spending on another man, but if the other man ever wants to catch up he can do it in a very short time without the slightest trouble.

‡

AND THEN, TOO, there seems a thorn in the lovely rose that Mr. Ford handed us. He definitely put prosperity three years ahead, and down in Washington the New Dealers say it's here now, and a lot of our fellow citizens are positive of it. But, admitting that it's three years to prosperity, if we start in on the whoopee thing right now can we be positive, Henry, that three years from date prosperity will be jumping all over the place? Suppose we start in on your spending orgy, Henry, and prosperity is a little late, say three or four months. Then where do we eat between the ending of the three years and the return of happy days again? Three or four months is quite a long time, Henry, if the money's all gone. And suppose, Henry, there should be a washout on the line, or a snowstorm or something, and the prosperity train didn't get in for a year? Tsk, tsk, tsk!

‡

I WISH, HENRY, just before I stand on the starting line and wait for the gun to send me into the money spending race, that you would give me a memo or some kind of writing saying that if prosperity doesn't come per schedule in exactly three years from date you will see that I have food, board, and clothes at your expense until prosperity arrives. If you'll do that, Henry, I'll jump right into this thing and not only start spending when the gun cracks but I'll spend with both hands and throw coin around—well, you'll be surprised, Henry, how I can spend if I once set my mind on it. Thank you, Henry, and if the prosperity thing doesn't bob up in exactly three years you may expect me over. Put the address down and the telephone number. Thank you, Henry, very much.

PASTORAL DAWN.

Midway between the valley and the hill,
Where water trickles downward from the bowlders,
A little chapel leans against the dawn,
A veil of spangled clouds about its shoulders.

A flock of sheep comes down the purple slope,
A dog runs in the lead with festive bark,
A shepherd follows slowly in their wake . . .
His crooked staff a mystic question mark.

FRANKLIN DELANO asks and, of course, will receive from congress another billion and a third. Which sets an all time high for the national debt. And what with the civil war and the world's war this country has seen the national debt climb up towards the clouds. But now, in the piping times of peace, the national debt gets so high that it can only be seen by the aid of a powerful telescope and then only faintly. Gen. Sherman said war was hell, but peace seems to be a lot heller.

AND NOW ANOTHER campaign to clean up the sex trend in the movies. "If seven maids with seven mops Swept it for half a year, Do you suppose," the Walrus said, "that they could get it clear?" "I doubt it," said the carpenter, And shed a bitter tear.

SECOND SUNDAY IN MAY.

"Ev'ning, Mis' Martin;
Come up on the porch and have a rocker.
No, I didn't go t' church t'night; I was too fagged out.
The childern was all home t'day,
This bein' Mother's Day;
Yours was, too, I reckon.
It's nice of 'em t' think of us.
My lands, I'm tired.
When you're jest used t' cookin' fer one,
Gettin' up a meal fer fifteen is consider'ble of a task.
Yes, they's fifteen in all, countin' m'self and the gran'children.
'Course the girls help with the dinner,
But I us'ly have it most ready t' go on the table
'Gin they get here.
The girls give me geraniums agin this year—
I wisht they wouldn't; somethin' al'ays happens to 'em.
Last year I let 'em lay too long—
So t'day I set 'em out right after dinner,
But they got broke off;
The childern playin'.
Charlie brung me a box o' candy—choc'lates.
I would pass 'em, but they didn't last no longer 'n a June frost.
Yes, they all stayed fer supper, but we had 't early
'Count o' they all had a long drive in front of 'em.
I jest got things redded up.
I'd like t' know if they all got in safe.
Ain't it pleasant out here on the porch,
S' nice and quiet like——"

SPITTING STILL DANGEROUS.

THIS is the season when promiscuous spitting is most harmful. After a few weeks the days will be long and there will be several hours of sterilizing sunlight daily. The air will be comparatively free of smoke, flu dust, and soot, and but little of the purifying ultra-violet light, relatively speaking, will be filtered from the ray. The ground will be dry and the air will be drying.

In those circumstances spitting is still potentially harmful, but the degree of danger is greatly lessened. The disease germs in the foul expectoration do not long stand exposure to direct sunlight and to the drying effects of hot air.

But the story is different in winter and spring, as the record shows. The winter-spring season is one of pneumonias, bronchitis, consumption, measles, and all other forms of contagion that we think of as children's contagions; of meningitis and some other forms of contagion that we think of as diseases of young adult life. The rule is that infective diseases are spread by the secretions of the mouth and nose. There are a few exceptions that are established and others that are suspected. But the rule applies to an overwhelming majority of cases of contagion.

There are vehicles for the spread of contagious diseases other than spit, even for the spread of those in which the mouth and nose are the gates of danger. Kissing is one, crowding, and especially night crowding, is another, and there are still others. But for certain of the diseases of this group spit is the most important vehicle of transmission. The group is so large and so important, the deaths and the illnesses are so many, that the chief vehicle of transmission might give up some of its doubtful honors to other dangerous practices and still be regarded as an outstanding menace.

The oldest inhabitant can remember when communities ran anti-spitting campaigns. The first use of the word crusader [in preventive medicine] was its application to those who crusaded against spitting. The danger and the nuisance of the filthy practice is far less than it was during the period of these crusades. For that matter, the danger of consumption and other contagions is less than it then was. There has even been a moderate decline in the pneumonias.

But the time has not come to stop crusading and to let the practice of reckless spitting go unrepressed. We still have consumption and pneumonia, and as long as we do the reckless spitter is a public enemy.

LONDON.—Despite the fact that an intense building campaign has been going on in and around London for more than fifteen years, London still requires 588,797 new houses to provide each family with a separate dwelling.

These figures were revealed in a paper just issued by the Mansion house council on health and housing. The compilers of the paper contend that London's housing needs must be calculated on the number of families and not on population.

Calculating on the basis of population is very misleading. Between 1911 and 1921 the population of the county of London decreased by 37,162, but the number of families increased by 96,946. Between 1921 and 1931 the population decreased further by 87,520, but the number of families increased by 69,133.

After making allowances for different families in large houses and for the number of small houses with only one inmate, the council summaries London's immediate housing needs as follows:

		Number of dwellings required.
1. To house the increase of the population		200,000
2. To get rid of overcrowding, exceeding two persons to a room	55,000
Less dwellings provided for this purpose in the local authorities' program, roughly	10,000	45,000
3. To rehouse persons removed from insanitary areas or houses under the housing programs of the local authorities. The London county council's program		55,000
The programs of the metropolitan borough councils		6,500
The programs of the local authorities of outer London		8,500
4. To replace dwellings converted to nondomestic uses		9,000
		324,000

From 1922 to 1931 the total number of houses built was 334,198, but a large number of these were houses for sale. The council approves the Leeds plan of differential rents. It advocates the formation of a central public utility housing board for Greater London.

INCREASE HAZARD.

Chicago, May 4.—[Friend of the Insured.]—I have changed my dry goods store into a small clothes and hat cleaning establishment. The building agent now tells me that this might make the fire insurance rates higher if found out by the insurance company. Please let me have your opinion, as he says I will have to pay the increase in the insurance on the building which I only rent.—A. L. C.

In changing from dry goods to cleaning and pressing, the fire hazards were materially increased due to the highly inflammable liquids used. Therefore, the rates will not only be increased upon the first inspection by the underwriters, but your present policies covering your dry goods stock as well as the policies covering the building are practically worthless, since you have violated the policy conditions which provide that the company shall not be liable for loss or damage while the hazard is increased by any means within the control or knowledge of the assured. Immediate notice should be given the company of the change in occupancy, in order that the corrected rates may be made and the additional premium collected, otherwise you will encounter serious difficulty in case of fire.

DULLER THAN THE BOURBONS.

Chicago, May 14.—Let me write a footnote to the dispatch from Washington in THE TRIBUNE today stating that the preliminary report of the census shows that the people of Illinois are taxed $76.46 per person.

That is the worst record of tax tyranny that has ever been made.

In the England of James II., after the most wasteful expenditures by the house of Stuart, including the expenses of the civil war which cost Charles I. his head, the tax laid upon the English people was only $1.30 per capita. If that be multiplied by ten to allow for the higher value which some authorities give to money of that time the English paid taxes of $13 per head. The people in Illinois are enduring a tax oppression five times greater than that which caused the English people to cut off the head of one king and drive another from the country.

When the other name for the Roman empire was plunder, "the most opulent Roman senators," says Gibbon, "paid annually eight pounds of gold." That is about the quantity of gold contained in 108 of our twenty dollar coins, or $2,160. The opulent Roman had a comfortable time in comparison with the common American in Illinois under his load of taxes, who seems to have been whipped into a condition of nonresistance. For his regular session of the general assembly and his several special sessions have not only done nothing to lessen this burden, but they have found new methods to weight him further.

In 1926 Cook county was able to collect nearly all of the tax of $195,722,981 levied, or 93.4 per cent, but in 1931 it collected of the stupendous levy of $263,756,610 only 41.7 per cent. That means that in Cook county the property owner has been loaded beyond capacity.

According to reports of the county collector given to the press from time to time there remained uncollected in February, 1934, taxes aggregating $182,401,859 for the years 1928, 1929, 1930, and 1931, or nearly as much as the total levy for 1926.

Will the American office holder recognize before it is too late that the three great revolutions of history arose out of lawless taxation, the one which lost Charles I. his head in England, the one which was marked by the reign of terror in France, and the one by which the American colonies accomplished their independence? Why should our American tyrants, with all the advantages of education that the taxpayers have provided, be duller than the Stuarts or the Bourbons?

THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

THANKS TO THOSE WHO GAVE LILACS.

Chicago, May 11.—May I tell you how much pleasure the lilacs you sent us yesterday brought to this hospital? We placed them in a big sink full of water and this morning they were fresh and fragrant. We distributed them not only to the patients but to the special departments of the institution, where flowers seldom go, and to the desks of the office workers. I had not realized how popular lilacs are until I saw how grateful people were for a single spray—which was what most of them received. Presbyterian hospital had a lilac day, and we all thank you.

PUBLIC REVENUES.

Chicago, May 11.—What I would like to know, like a million other taxpayers, is, Why aren't all tax payments published as a statement by the local and federal governments? What are the politicians doing with the millions of dollars they are collecting from a thousand and one taxes? And they don't even pay the school teachers. I demand a published itemized statement in the newspapers of all license and tax money collected and spent.

A. O. VIETS.

SINGLE ACTION GUN PREFERRED.

Chicago, May 14.—In today's TRIBUNE you advise the Chicago police to read the life of Wyatt Earp and practice shooting. Good advice! I was there and saw Earp, Bat Masterson and others in action; and I suggest that if you arm the police with the same revolver those old timers used, which was the single action .44 Colt, and then give them reasonable practice, they will do better shooting.

The man who cocks his revolver by the trigger pull can't hit a barn door at one hundred feet.

MEANS OF IDENTIFICATION.

Chicago, May 10.—In the Allen R. Hammel case has it ever occurred to the police to check the dental record of this man? Every dentist has on file a record of each patient's mouth. I know of no more certain means of identification. Merely find Hammel's dentist and compare his history card with the alleged Hammel's mouth.

INSURANCE.

Chicago, May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If A, who is a sister-in-law to B, is beneficiary of an insurance on B and is paying premiums on same, and C [B's wife] also takes out insurance on B [her husband], is insurance payable to both A and C? 2. Or would C have first claim, being B's wife? Policies are with different insurance companies, but both are the same kind of policies. 3. A woman not living with her husband, who has not contributed to her support or the support of their son, and who has been living with her mother, died suddenly. Would the father of the boy have a right to claim him or would the grandmother have first right in view of the fact that he has not supported him? 4. What is the minimum number of years one must pay on insurance before it is a paid-up insurance? 5. What time must elapse before one can cash in policy? 6. What period must elapse before on can draw on policy?

A. N.

1. Yes.
2. The two policies would be independent as far as the facts stated are concerned.
3. The decision as to custody would be largely discretionary with the judge before whom the question is raised, the controling factor being the apparent best interest of the child.
4. Depends on the wording of the policy.
5. Some policies never build up a surrender value.

PORT WORKERS' STRIKES SPREAD TO GREAT LAKES

Buffalo Tug Crews Walk Out; Others Call Votes.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 16.—(AP)—Towing activities in the port of Buffalo were at a standstill tonight when the firemen, linesmen, captains and engineers of the Hand & Johnson Tug line went on strike. Crews of 12 tugs, totaling about 40 men, comprise the local union.

Union regulations require separate votes by locals at other ports on the great lakes, but a general walkout was forecast by officers of the Tug Firemen and Linemen's Protective association here. The captains and engineers are members of the licensed Tugmen's Protective association.

Many boats entering this port can dock slowly under their own power.

Word was received here that strike votes were being taken in other ports, including Cleveland.

Ask for Troops.

San Francisco, Cal., May 16.—(AP)—An appeal for federal troops to guard the water front so non-union workers could load and unload 37 ships tied up in Elliott bay was made today as the ranks of striking longshoremen on the Pacific coast were swelled by several thousands of seamen who walked out in sympathy with the strikers.

Mayor John F. Dore of Seattle sought the aid of troops in an appeal to Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

The government meanwhile took steps to settle the dispute that has tied up scores of ships on the Pacific coast. Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor and aid to NRA Administrator Hugh Johnson, left Washington by airplane for San Francisco.

Texas Truckers Strike.

Galveston, Tex., May 16.—(AP)—Several hundred Negro compress truckers and other workers walked out here today.

Their decision to strike was reached at a meeting of their union, an affiliate of the International Longshoremen's association. They are demanding pay increases and shorter hours. The general pay level is now 25 cents an hour.

Steel Men Confer at Capital.

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(AP)—Leaders of the steel industry conferred at NRA headquarters today on revision and extension of their code, which expires May 31.

W. A. Irvin of United States Steel, Eugene Grace of Bethlehem, and representatives of the Republic and Inland Steel companies discussed code problems with Donald Richberg, NRA general counsel, and other officials.

The question of water rates as affecting steel prices was understood to be a main topic of discussion.

5,000 Drivers Idle.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 16.—(AP)—Successful in virtually halting truck transportation in and through the city, striking truck drivers late today began a campaign to stop all vehicular trafic by cutting off the city's gasoline supply. Union officials said 5,000 men were participating in the strike, but truck owners said this figure was too large.

While some of the strikers, who are demanding union recognition and a closed shop union agreement, guarded highways entering the city and cruised about within the city limits stopping trucks, others visited filling stations in efforts to persuade attendants to cease operations.

Tie Up Newspapers.

Helena, Mont., May 16.—(AP)—Helena daily newspapers suspended publication today as printers on the Montana Record-Herald and the Helena Independent went on strike in demand for increased wages and shorter hours. The walkout also was effective at Helena job printing plants.

Buy Gasoline Again.

Cleveland, O., May 16.—(AP)—The "closed" signs were thrown away today at Cleveland filling stations and once more gasoline sloshed into automobile tanks of a quarter of a million drivers.

The strike, lasting almost a month, of 2,000 union filling station attendants, is at an end through a truce plan presented by Secretary Ickes, administrator of the oil code, and Dr. W. M. Leiserson, chairman of the petroleum labor policy board.

OPERATORS OF FAIR RESTAURANTS FAVOR STRICT LIQUOR RULES

The restaurant division of the Concessionaires' association at A Century of Progress exposition last night approved the rules laid down by the World's Fair officials for the sale of liquor on the grounds and requested that the officials "use their influence to prohibit or minimize the sale of bottled spirits on the ground."

Some three months ago Maj. L. R. Lohr, general manager of the exposition, announced the rules that would govern liquor sales and these were given publicity. There has been no change in the Fair's attitude and the meeting last night found all in agreement that the barring of bars from the grounds was a wise measure.

The Fair policy, as announced before is: [1] No application for permission to sell liquor will be approved except for restaurants; [2] restaurants must qualify as such under the Illinois liquor control laws; [3] small service bars in restaurants, their size to be proportioned to the seating and the area, are allowed; [4] bona fide lunch counters which can qualify as restaurants under the state liquor law will be permitted to sell liquor, but only with meals.

RAPS ROOSEVELT INDORSEMENT OF INDIAN BILL

Authoress Protests to President.

A letter sent to President Roosevelt concerning his indorsement of the pending Wheeler-Howard bill, which aims to give the Indians a "new deal," was made public yesterday by Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour, Chicago writer on Indian subjects and a prominent woman attorney. Mrs. Seymour is one of the members of the board of Indian commissioners, now abolished, who donated their services and who are continuing their efforts in behalf of the race.

"Dear Mr. President," Mrs. Seymour wrote, "there is being circulated among the club women of America a letter from you to Representative Edgar Howard of Nebraska, in which you praise house bill 7,902, a measure designed for Indian self-government and communal land tenure.

"Surely a reading of the bill and a slight knowledge of the situation it is supposed to meet would have led to the writing of a very different letter.

"Your attention, you say, has been attracted to the bill 'because of the virile American principles on which it is based.'

"These principles are the perpetual segregation of the Indian from the white man, his continued guardianship, and communal rather than individual land tenure.

"So far in the history of America perpetual segregation has been reserved for those felt to be a menace to society, such as murderers or the violently insane. Perpetual guardianship is for the hopelessly imbecile and incompetent; children are supposed to emerge from tutelage into a greater measure of self-reliance. The Indian of 1934 carries no menace, and it is unreasonable to assume that he can never as a class reach his mental majority."

MUSSOLINI'S AID HERE TO ATTEND OPENING OF FAIR

Prince Ludovico Spada di Varalli Potenziani of Italy, personal representative of Premier Mussolini and royal commissioner to the World's Fair, arrived in Chicago yesterday aboard the Twentieth Century to arrange details in connection with the Italian exhibit.

A round of social and official engagements await the prince, the first of which will be a dinner party Saturday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes at 936 Lake Shore drive. He will remain here until the opening of the Exposition, when he will return to Rome for a meeting of the International Institute of Agriculture, of which he is president.

Prince Potenziani, a former governor of Rome, was met and escorted to his suite at the Drake hotel yesterday by Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul; Horatio Tocco, attorney for the consulate; Alexander V. Capraro, architect in charge of the Italian exhibit, and Commandatore Luigi Ranieri, general director of the exhibit.

CAFES, EXHIBITS, MUSIC TO CENTER AT FAIR LAGOONS

Will Be Bright Spots at Night This Year.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The Fair lagoons are changed this year, presenting what is probably one of the greatest changes in the renovated Century of Progress Exposition. Last year they were two artificial lakes, as great in area as the rest of the Fair grounds, silent at night and only dimly reflecting the lights from buildings on the shore.

This year the lagoons present Chicago with a transplanted Venice, another touch making the 1934 Exposition really of international character. Both lagoons will be settings for symphony music, gayly decorated water craft, and will be set with cool cafés and interesting exhibits. From the 12th street bridge on the north to the semicircular bridge on the south, shutting off the waters of Lake Michigan, the lagoons have been utilized to the greatest extent.

Work Nearly Finished.

A survey yesterday showed that all construction work will be finished in time for opening day visitors to see the lagoon in full operation. Night and day shifts are working on some of the buildings, and officials are confident that this part of the Fair will be one of the most popular areas in the whole park.

Starting from the north end of the two lagoons a searchlight bank, creating an artificial aurora borealis, will shine down the length of the waterway. Underwater lights will be spotted in strategic spots to enhance the shifting color pattern. There are five new exhibits and concessions in the lagoons, and the lagoon fleet, increased from last year and with prices reduced, will operate in and out among the buildings.

World's Biggest Fountain.

The first new structure is the fountain, running out 670 feet from the center of the 12th street bridge and as yet unnamed. Claimed to be the largest and most beautiful fountain in the world, the water turnover will be 68,000 gallons a minute, enough to serve a city of 1,000,000 population. The previous largest fountain had a capacity of 14,000 gallons of water a minute. Lighting effects in five colors, green, red, amber, blue, and white, will flicker through the 75 foot column of spray. The fountain, starting at the bridge, will throw water forty feet in the air, extending into a column two hundred feet wide at the south end.

Extending into the lagoon from the north side of the 16th street bridge will be the Canadian Club café, operated by the Hiram Walker distilling interests. The building, termed a "doodlebug" from its shape, is in two levels, 200 feet wide and 400 feet long. The company exhibit will be on the second floor, and a café seating 1,500 on the first floor.

A nationally known dance band and a floor show will be featured in this café over the water. One of the special shows to be presented is the ten weeks' appearance of Coe Glade, contralto, formerly of the Civic opera.

Free Concerts Daily.

The Armour Packing company exhibit will run into the south lagoon from the 16th street bridge. Here three halls will house exhibits, dioramas, murals in relief, and manufacturing processes designed to show the progress of the packing industry since 1867. At the south end of the building a solarium restaurant will feature products of the company.

The south end of the south lagoon is taken up with the Swift Packing company Bridge of Service and open air theater. Here the Chicago Symphony orchestra will present free concerts daily during a ten weeks' engagement. The history of animal husbandry, showing the service rendered producer and consumer by the packers, will be featured in the exhibits.

MASSMEETING WILL OPEN FAIR INVITATION WEEK

3 Hour Carnival Will Be Held in Stadium.

Celebrating the approaching opening of A Century of Progress Exposition for 1934, and inviting the world to be the guest of Chicago during the summer, social, business and industrial leaders of the city will open Invitation week next Monday.

The opening event of the week will be a mass meeting and carnival Monday night in the Chicago stadium. Coöperating with Mayor Kelly's Keep Chicago Ahead committee, entertainers from the Fair, radio stations, and a majority of Chicago's amusement centers will present a three hour program.

At intervals during the evening many of the prominent Chicagoans on the various committees will address the crowd on just what the Fair has done and will do not only for Chicago but for the country as a whole. All major radio stations will broadcast the entertainment and addresses.

An outstanding series of free entertainment is planned and Chicago officials expect a record crowd. Each person present will be given an envelope with five postal cards in it, each carrying a message to visit Chicago and the Fair during the summer.

The committee during the week will also distribute posters and display cards to stores and clubs throughout the city, asking that they be placed in a prominent place to stimulate interest among residents of Chicago.

The primary purpose of the campaign is to guarantee early attendance at the Exposition. City leaders and officials of the Fair are confident that the major portion of the Exposition will not need boosting to draw attendance, but wish to stimulate early visiting.

North Shore Line Offers Low Rates During Fair

Low rates on the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad from Wisconsin and northern Illinois communities to Chicago for the duration of the Fair were announced yesterday. Typical of the rates to be introduced is the $2.55 round trip ticket to Milwaukee with a 15 day return limit. Week-end and holiday round trip rates of $2 will be in effect from Milwaukee. SQUIBB'S ASPIRIN

LOOK FOR SQUIBB CONTROL NUMBER

Each new lot bears its own serial number—actual evidence of 62 safety tests, made during manufacture. Squibb control is your guarantee of the reliability, purity and safety of Squibb's Aspirin.

● GENUINE aspirin is swift in its effect. However, it becomes thoroughly effective only when it has passed through the stomach and entered the intestine. While Squibb's Aspirin does not crumble in the box or leave particles in the mouth, it disintegrates instantly when it reaches the stomach. It can be relied upon for prompt relief.

When you choose an aspirin from the hundreds of brands on the market, look for a name you can trust. Squibb's Aspirin, being a Squibb Product, is genuine and reliable. The control number on each box and bottle is proof of its tested purity and safety. At all good drug stores.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Seth Parker has turned from hymns to Hollywood. In the interest of accuracy it must be added that Hollywood, in this case, will be in the West Indies instead of on the west coast. ANSON WEEKS.

Lord is on location aboard the schooner Seth Parker, in which he set out to circumnavigate the globe more than a year ago. At the speed he is making he is not likely to eclipse the record of Magellan. Last summer he turned inland and visited the Fair here for several months. This season he has been cruising down the eastern seaboard, making broadcasts from every port. Three months will be spent in Haiti, Jamaica, and Venezuela, making his picture.

Anson Weeks, who will succeed Wayne King at the Aragon and at W-G-N on Saturday, arrived yesterday from California with a coat of tan and a straw hat.

Helen Black, a songstress from WIND, Gary, is the new soloist on Jan Garber's programs. . . . W-G-N will carry the broadcasts from the Streets of Paris beginning the day the Fair opens. A. F. Thaviu and his concert orchestra will provide the music.

At midnight next Wednesday an all star show of the Actors' Dinner club will be broadcast over NBC from New York. The talent will include George M. Cohan, Walter Huston, Katharine Hepburn, Helen Hayes, the Marx Brothers, Ray Perkins, Block and Sully, Jack Pearl, Abe Lyman, and a host of others.

Sixteen modern American composers will play their own works during a benefit performance to be broadcast at 11 o'clock next Tuesday evening over CBS. Participating artists will include George Gershwin, Sigmund Romberg, Dana Suesse, Ferde Grofe, Deems Taylor, Billy [Last Roundup] Hill, and Harold Arlen.

5 SURVIVE BELGIAN MINE BLAST; 40 BODIES RECOVERED FROM PIT

BRUSSELS, May 16.—(AP)—Forty bodies had been recovered tonight from the coal mine at Paturages au Fief, which was wrecked by a fire damp explosion 24 hours before.

Only five of the 48 miners known to have been trapped by the explosion had been found alive. They were in a nearby hospital tonight, where King Leopold visited them, offering words of cheer. The youthful monarch spent a great part of the day inspecting the rescue operations and consoling the bereaved.

Three men are still unaccounted for, but little hope is held that they may be among the survivors. Only twelve bodies have been identified. The rest were burned beyond recognition. Scarcely a family in the stricken community escaped bereavement. In two cases a father and his two sons perished.

Fire which raged in the galleries after the explosion was brought under control during the day. Word that rescuers had penetrated into the interior raised a momentary flare of hope among the distracted women and children who wailed at the pithead.

Soon after, however, the rescuers began emerging bearing the dead. Thirty were carried to inprovised morgues to be placed beside the ten that had already been recovered. Gendarmes had to be summoned to keep the grieving relatives from hampering the rescue work.

The owners of the mines today postponed a 5 per cent wage cut that was to have gone into effect May 20. Their announcement that it will not be put into force until June 3 relieved a tense situation which previous to the explosion had brought on a threat to strike.

GIRL, 12, KILLED, MOTHER HURT IN AUTO COLLISION

Shirley Ruddiman, 12 years old, a sixth grade pupil at the Kenwood-Loring school, was instantly killed and her mother, Mrs. Eleanor Ruddiman, 36 years old, 4748 Woodlawn avenue, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when their automobile collided with a truck at Woodlawn avenue and 58th street.

The Ruddiman car was turned over and Shirley was pinned underneath it. She was dead when taken to the Billings Memorial hospital. Her mother incurred head contusions and possible internal injuries. The driver of the truck, William Bernbach, 35 years old, 1607 East 69th street, employed by the Eclipse Laundry company, received minor cuts and bruises.

The dead girl was the daughter of Harry Ruddiman, assistant general manager of the Inland Waterways corporation. Her death increased the Cook county trafic toll of 427 since the first of the year.

FARMER FOUND SLAIN.

Byron, Ill., May 16.—[Special.]—John Bonne, 58, farmer living north of here, was found dead today of a gun shot wound believed to have been self-inflicted. The body was discovered by his son.

REPORT TO CHURCH URGES CHRISTIANS TO SHUN WAR SERVICE

"No Christian should engage in any war for any purpose, or give it his sanction or approval." This was the recommendation to the Methodist Episcopal church, made by the general conference commission on world peace at its concluding session in Evanston yesterday.

While the report admits that the church should be willing to minister to human need wherever it exists it maintains that no Christians should consent to serve as military or naval chaplains, since they are subject to the military authorities.

With the abandonment of war as a method of defense the report looks to the eventual establishment of international government through such agencies as the World court, the international labor office and the league of nations.

In conclusion the report states that since the chief causes of modern warfare are economic and political, the only way to peace is a rapid approach to a coöperative economic order and a resolute effort to strengthen international agencies of justice and security.

PROPOSE TO GIVE TAVERNS EXTRA HOUR ON SUNDAYS

The city council license committee yesterday voted to extend the closing hour of taverns on Sunday morning until 3 o'clock. The present closing hour is 2 o'clock. At the same time the committee voted to increase the city license fee for taverns for the second half of 1934 from $250 to $300.

The resolution granting the taverns an extra hour on Sunday morning was introduced by Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler of the 43d ward, who was recently acquitted on a charge of shooting Policeman J. J. Ahearn during a fracas outside his tavern in West North avenue. Ald. Bauler declared that he is no longer in the tavern business. The recommendation of the committee will be presented to the council at its next meeting on Friday.

Frank Weber of the Chicago Liquor Dealers' association objected to the increase in fee, but withdrew the objection when the extra hour was approved by the committee by a vote of 9 to 6. Martin J. Moran of the liquor dealers group declared that the tavern owners were being taxed on all sides and that the fee should be reduced. Chairman Ald. Terrence F. Moran said that the city's streets and alleys are being neglected because of a lack ot funds and that this was a good way to find money for that purpose.

Picnic Season Gets Welcome from Society

Young People to Hold Party Near Barrington.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE open season for picnics is here and on all sides one hears plans for excursions into the country, either with luncheon or supper all prepared and packed neatly in boxes or kits, or with raw food carried along and cooked over glowing fires.

Beer—and have you seen the ways in which it can be carried to a picnic so that it is as cold when it is time to drink it as if it had just been taken from your own refrigerator?—is the favorite beverage, although coffee boiled over a camp fire runs it a close second and sometimes even wins if the picnic is in the evening and the night is cool.

A crowd of young people who have been riding over the Jevne Haugans' farm in Barrington for the last few months are planning a picnic for this Sunday, the girls to take along the luncheon and the young men to supply a half barrel of beer.

Some of those who will be there are Mrs. Haugan's brother, H. Hoyt Thompson; Miss Barbara Eldridge, Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Schulz, Miss Jane Lawrence and her fiancé, Otto Schulz; Mr. and Mrs. Willett N. Gorham, Miss Lois Truesdale, Theodore Tieken, Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, Miss Caryl Bloomingston, and a dozen others.

The name of the Haugans' farm is Revonah [Hanover spelled backwards], indicating where Mr. Haugan's interests as a college man lie, and also after the estate of his uncle, Henry M. Jevne, at Stamford, Conn.

Tell Engagement of Jane Ashcraft.

Announcement is being made by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Moore Ashcraft of 4950 Woodlawn avenue of the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to William H. Alexander of Chicago, son of Mrs. Cyrus Hall Alexander of Rockford. The wedding is planned for October.

Miss Ashcraft went to Rockford college and then to the University of Chicago for one year and since then she has devoted herself to the study of music. Mr. Alexander is a graduate of Knox college and studied law at the University of Chicago.

Miss Jane Ashcraft has a younger sister, Betty, who is arriving at home this morning from four months in Florida. She studied are after finishing at Ogontz.

Set Dates for Horse Show at Lake Forest.

June 22 and 23 have been set as the dates for this year's Lake Forest horse show which is to be held at the Onwentsia club. For the first time there will be a performance at night as well as in the afternoon on the first day and on the second there will be morning and afternoon shows. That night there will be a grand horse show ball in the clubhouse and the boxholders for the show will be invited to join the club members at the ball.

The proceeds from the show will benefit the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest. Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. Edward K. Welles, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy and Mrs. Albert D. Farwell are on the box committee and Mrs. Austin H. Niblack and Mrs. Edward H. Bennett will run the children's classes. Joseph M. Cudahy is general chairman of the show committee and James B. Forgan is president of the Onwentsia club.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Graf Jr., who were married last Jan 26 in the apartment of the former Kathryn Collins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins, arrived in Chicago Saturday after nearly four months spent in California and Arizona. They are staying at the Whitehall temporarily.

Plan Motor Trip to Mexico City.

Mrs. George B. Massey and her daughter, Phoebe Massey, have been so intrigued by the glowing accounts of Mexico City written to them from their son and brother, George Massey Jr., that they are motoring southwest to join him, leaving on June 14. Mrs. Massey used to spend her winters in Mexico City when a girl, but she has not been there for 20 years. There will be interest in the city for Phoebe, too, for her brother has found several Yale classmates working there and he is already very much in the social whirl of the city.

Phoebe will go to Miss Porter's school at Farmington, Conn., next fall, and is not to be a debutante for at least three years.

The Masseys have rented their Winnetka home for the summer. It is improbable that Mr. Massey and his other son, Loren J. Massey, will go to Mexico this summer.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr. was invited to be matron of honor for her good friend, Miss Anne Blair Clark of Princeton, N. J., when the latter is married to George Cole Scott Jr. of Richmond, but she had to decline because the Clark-Scott wedding is just three days after that of Miss Louise Dewey and Edward Byron Smith and Mrs. Dewey is to be a bridesmaid in that.

The Dewey-Smith one will be on May 23 in Chicago and the Clark-Scott one on the 26th at the Trinity Episcopal church of Princeton. Miss Clark was a bridesmaid in the bridal party of Miss Marjorie Goodman when she and young Mr. Dewey were married early last fall.

That attractive young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Chancellor, who arrived by motor last Friday from California, are here for a fortnight's stay, and not to remain indefinitly, as was rumored before they arrived. Mr. Chancellor and his lovely young Hungarian wife—they were married in London last spring—are planning to spend the summer motoring about the east and they probably will be

Film Star Once Ugly Duckling of High School

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 16.—[Special.]—In the 1923-'24 classes at Virgil High school, Los Angeles, there were two girls, one wearing glasses, low heels, and country clothes, and the other named Jane Peters, the class belle.

The school joke used to be "homely as Sally" and the accolate of beauty was "pretty as Jane Peters."

Well, things have changed for Sally. Her brown hair has become golden, the low heels, fuzzy clothes, and spectacles are of the past, and Sally Eilers is one of the beauties of the studios. Jane Peters, on the other hand, is still a belle. She's in pictures, too. Her film name is Carole Lombard.

A third classmate at Virgil High got a fast start in the movies, at one time was more celebrated than either, but is now trying the long, hard road back to fame from the ranks of the extras. The third girl is Audrey Ferris.

Dolores Del Rio professes much interest in a letter from Walt Sands, 22 East Ontario street, Chicago, which invited her next time she reaches Chicago to stop and look at the oil portrait he painted of the Mexican star in her costume as Evangeline. Sands wrote that he painted the portrait five times, destroyed the first four because he couldn't quite get the madonna expression that he saw in Del Rio's eyes. He also wrote that he painted for a hobby and did not wish to sell the portrait, this making quite an impression on an actress who is besieged daily with appeals and importunities. Miss Del Rio visits Chicago shortly, as soon as she finishes "Shanghai Orchid" at Warners.

"Rip Van Winkle" and "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" are being made as animated cartoons in color by U. B. Iwarks, producer of the "Willie Whopper" series. . . . Virginia Bruce, returning to films following her resignation as Mrs. John Gilbert, is playing her first rôle in the two years since she retired to become a wife and mother of Susan Ann Gilbert. She is playing the lead in "Jane Eyre" for Monogram, an independent, with Colin Clive in the male lead and Doris Lloyd, Aileen Pringle, Lionel Belmore, David Torrance, and other British players. Peter Shaw, said to be a grandnephew of Charlotte Bronte and nephew of G. B. Shaw, is the technical adviser for filming of Miss Bronte's novel.

Miss Bruce is to resume the Metro Goldwyn Mayer long term contract which she voluntarily gave up to marry Gilbert, according to announcement at that studio. She played in "The Miracle Man," "Kongo," "Winner Take All," and "Sky Bride."

Jack Chris and J. O. Southard, two of the policemen who helped capture the Gettle kidnapers here, are the pair of hard boiled cops who have been guarding Mae West for three months. . . . Katharine Alexander, M. G. M. actress, issues a denial that friction leading to divorce or formal separation exists between herself and William A. Brady Jr., who is in New York. Miss Alexander said things were perfectly amicable between herself and spouse.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

VISITORS at the apartment of Mrs. James Ward Thorne on Lake Shore drive the other afternoon glanced with curiosity at the room to the right of the entrance hall. It was obviously not, at the moment at least, library, drawing room or sitting room, because a series of little boxlike arrangements, open at the front and lighted within, were ranged on tables along the walls. They were the recently completed series of miniature decorated rooms that Mrs. Thorne will exhibit at the World's Fair, a more enchanting series even than last year's.

Miniature Rooms—African Interlude.

THERE are some fourteen rooms in the series, and their treatment shows the decorator as capable of understanding the homely and picturesque charm of a Breton kitchen and an early American summer kitchen as of an elegant Adam or Louis XV. interior. You will hear more of the rooms in detail later, for they are sure to attract much attention in print as well as in patronage. How famous have become the rooms that started out as a hobby of Mrs. Thorne's is indicated by a little incident that happened when she was last in London. She had gone into a shop in London in search of some tiny object or other for one of the rooms, and before she left the proprietor handed her a catalog. It showed some rooms done by a Chicago woman who collected miniature furniture and art objects. Perhaps she would like to see what she had accomplished, he said. It was, of course, one of Mrs. Thorne's own catalogs.

* *

IT was at that south side Negro night club at which a prominent Chicagoan recently gave a party for Massine and the Russian ballet. Having read about it in the papers, two Chicagoans decided they would visit the place, see the murals done by a young Negro artist, and watch the floor show. One of them was dining on the south side and they planned to meet at the café. One of them was a little late in getting there, and after checking his hat and coat he stopped in the doorway of the dimly lighted smoky room to survey the place and look for his friend. He did not see him immediately, so he began a tour of the tables. At last he sighted a white face and blond head at a far table. Working his way over to him he stopped, bowed, and held out his hand.

"Dr. Livingston, I presume," he said, formally.

WE'VE been reading Peter Fleming's "Brazilian Adventure" and so we hope that, if we ever get to Taos or any place where there are Indians and encounter a friend for whom we have been looking, we can remember to be a wag, too, and say:

"Col. Fawcett, I suppose."

Eight Women of U. S. Bow at 2d Court

Wales Absent at Brilliant Royal Function.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 16.—Mrs. Edward Miller-Mills, Chicago, was among the eight American women presented by Mrs. Robert W. Bingham, wife of the American ambassador, at the second royal court of the season at Buckingham palace tonight.

The other seven were Mrs. Cecile B. Seiberling, Akron, O.; Miss Marie McRae Smith, Grand Rapids, granddaughter of the late Milton A. McRae; Miss Nancy Penoyer, San Francisco; Mrs. Pryn Hopkins, Santa Barbara, Cal.; Mrs. Paul Hyde Bonner, Mrs. Edward B. Close, and Miss Helen Lee Doherty, all [illegible] New York City.

As usual the second court vied with the first for splendor and brilliance, but the debutantes missed from the royal circles the prince of Wales, who left today for a visit to the mining regions of South Wales.

Queen Mary again appeared to her thousand guests wearing the dark blue Order of the Garter ribbons and the great blazing Kohinoor diamond. She wore a gown of opalescent aquamarine pailettes over the palest flesh color charmeuse with a train of many colored Indian embroidery. King George wore the uniform of colonel in chief of the Coldstream Guards.

Mrs. Bingham today wore a pearl white satin gown cut on Grecian lines, with the girdle tied in a loop bow at the waist, which allowed long, graceful streamers to fall to the floor. The train, en suite with the dress, was lined with lamé tissue. She chose diamonds to suit her all white ensemble and carried a white ostrich feather fan.

Mrs. Miller-Mills, daughter of Mrs. Thomas S. McClelland, 105 East Delaware place, Chicago, wore a gown made by Jacques. It was of heavy lace in a deep ivory shade, fashioned to the figure and fitting over a flesh color satin foundation. Her heavy ivory lace train was not lined. Satin slippers carried out a tone of pale pink, and her large ostrich feather fan was of the same shade.

Mrs. Miller-Mills wore for jewels a distinctive pair of gold earrings bought by her near the Java sea. In her car she wore a gold and white brocade evening cloak with a huge collar of real chinchilla with the revers reaching almost to the bottom of the coat.

From Copenhagen came Miss Helen Lee Doherty, a friend of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen. She has been assisting the only American woman minister at the Danish post. Miss Doherty wore a shade of pale blue particularly becoming to a tall blonde with brown eyes. It was of lamé and classical in inspiration.

Mrs. Seiberling, the widow of an Ohioan and the daughter of a Dutch diplomat, wore a gown of white onduleuse with train of the same material. It had a square cut neck and tiny puff sleeves with a small train on the dress in the Edwardian manner. The only note of color was the pale green feather fan she carried.

Mrs. Hopkins is the English bride of a well known American educator, now an honorary lecturer in psychology at London university. Her gown was stiffened white net over white taffeta, figure fitting to the knees, and billowing out in airy flounces.

Miss Penoyer wore a gown of moire nacre with a silver net train, carrying in its right hand corner a bunch of pale camelias. Silver slippers emphasized the silver train and a pink ostrich fan repeated the note of the camelias.

Mrs. Close, now a resident of Paris, wore a distinctively plain figure fitting gown, the beauty of which lay in the opalescent coloring of the luminous satin of which it was made.

Mrs. Bonner wore a gown by Lavin of Paris. The bodice was of overlapping silver paillettes, resembling chain mail, while the skirt and train were of ivory poult de soie.

Miss Marie McRae Smith wore a white tulle dress finely hand tucked from the shoulder, with plaited skirt and white tulle train bordered with plaited tulle.

Sponsors of today's presentees were kept as dark an official secret as those of the thirteen women who met the king and queen yesterday.

On the basis, however, of senatorial patronage, by means of which the White House rewards favorite senators, Senators Royal S. Copeland and Robert F. Wagner of New York would get credit for three of today's presentees; Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich of Illinois, for one; Senators Hiram W. Johnson and W. G. McAdoo of California for two; Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, for one; and Senator James Couzens or Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan for one.

Aid at Hospital Benefit

Balcony Parties

Miss Louise Brewer, pictured above, popular daughter of the Edward Harris Brewers, will be in Mrs. James W. Rogers' corps of girls who will sell balloons, flowers, and serpentines tomorrow night to add to the gayety of the occasion at the opening of the Cascades.

The affair will be a benefit for the Chicago Lying-In hospital and dispensary. All the main floor seats and boxes have been sold, but some of the balcony seats are unsold and may be obtained at the Auditorium theater box office.

Many parties are being planned for the balcony, where one may sit and watch both the dinner and supper shows, have light refreshments from a buffet table in the lobby, and then descend to the stage to dance after the last show.

Eleanor Hutton Gautier Will Wed George C. Rand

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Eleanor Hutton Sturges Gautier, daughter of Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, will be married the latter part of this month to George C. Rand, son of Mrs. Kobbe Rand. Mrs. Gautier is the former wife of Etienne Marie Robert Gautier of Paris, from whom she recently was divorced. Her marriage to M. Gautier of Paris took place in France in 1933. She was married first to Preston Sturges, the playwright.

Frank V. Smith Has Show of Ship Paintings

Stunning Exhibition Praised by Art Reporter.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A stunning exhibition of ship paintings by Frank Vining Smith has opened in the Anderson galleries, 536 South Michigan avenue. Mr. Smith stands at the head of the very small group of painters who successfully tackle the portraiture of square-riggers. His ships are authentic from bow to stern and yet for all his exactitude of detail never do they seem stereotype copy. Each ship is an individual, vigorous, beautiful, and alive.

There is a touch of Winslow Homer in "Moonlit Decks," only part of the boat showing and the crew busy with some job supervised by an alert officer in oilskins. Another painting, "A Cape Horn Gray Beard," giving us a glimpse of a section of the boat breasting the waves, is full of the impetuous rush of wind and water that is associated with the marine water colors of John Whorf. Between the two hangs perhaps the most beautiful canvas in the exhibit, "Sovereign of the Seas," a perfect ship sailing a perfect course.

One never tires of these boats, but it is interesting to find the artist equally at home when he for a moment turns to another subject. His "Tropical Fish" is a decorative canvas and "By the Silver Sea" is a silvery, exquisite composition of beach, shallow rippling water, and sea gulls. It is a gem of its kind.

The majestic, impressive painting of the sea running into brown rocks, "Foaming Surges," is a gorgeous transcription of a mighty breaker, an almost transparent green at the crest which in a moment will crash with a cascade of foam on the shore.

Three less important exhibitions are those of paintings by Fritzi Brod in the Findlay galleries, a jittery show that sets one's teeth on edge; sculpture by Peter Paul Ott in the O'Brien galleries, not particularly distinguished nor striking, and colorful and amusing water colors and arrangements by Julius Moessel in the little gallery at the Chicago galleries, 220 North Michigan avenue.

The exhibitions will continue through May.

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda Quarles is found stabbed to death after a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Unscrupulous, Dorinda had served a drug to her fourteen guests. The crime is discovered early next morning. All of the guests except Dinah Blake, young American artist, are lying about in deep sleep. Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, was Dinah's dinner partner. Dinah's engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dorinda. Dinah returns home two days later, her memory a blank. She had been sleeping in the studio of absent friends. Basil Jethro, Dorinda's stepfather, celebrated Oxford scholar, was her guardian and trustee. Dorinda's mother died from an overdose of narcotics. Tommy suspects Jethro and searches for proof. Bannister Mowbray, who had supplied the drug for the dinner, commits suicide as his roommate, Ronald Cleeves, tries to do unsuccessfully. Tommy confides to Loughton his suspicion of Jethro. Loughton volunteers to go to London for further investigations. He meets Rank Rostetter, Tommy's nephew, who is attending Oxford. Rank has a friend, Bilfilian, who claims, while on a vacation in Paris, he saw Jethro in a Montmartre dive. Tommy believes that Jethro registered as two persons in the Stanislas hotel, where he stopped the night of the murder, one in disguise, as Jethro had not been seen leaving the hotel. A Dr. Klauber from Prague was registered in the room next to Jethro's. Jethro learns of Tommy's inquiries. Loughton returns from London to learn that Tommy has disappeared and Dinah has been arrested for murder. The Stanislas hotel manager has disappeared. Rank Rostetter and Bilfilian fly to Paris with Coppinger, a pilot friend. Accompanied by Loughton, they find Jethro's hide-out. Loughton, investigating alone, is attacked by Jethro. After a fierce battle, Jethro falls from a balcony to his death. The dead body of the hotel manager is found in the apartment. Loughton's semi-lifeless form is discovered in a tank on the roof. After days of suspense he recovers sufficiently to see callers. He and Tommy unravel the mystery of Jethro's diabolical plot and dual personality.

INSTALMENT LVIII.

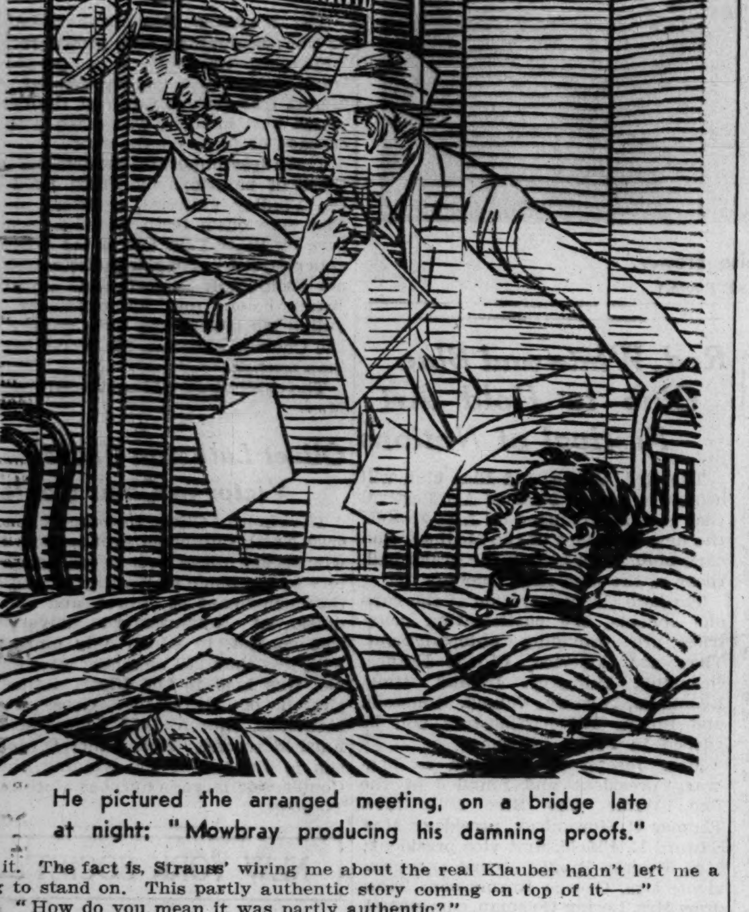
THE MYSTERY CLEARED.

"I see now," said Tommy, "precisely why Mowbray was so furious about my handing the drug over to the police. It was not merely the prospect of jail. It was the knowledge that a six months' incarceration would prevent his tracking Jethro down while the trail was warm. Still, thanks to the law's tactics of allowing him rope, he managed that same evening to revisit the Montmartre premises, and to find the famous journal, from which he tore out the final pages—undoubtedly those which dealt with the first and unsuccessful attempt on Dorinda's life. If you look at the original manuscript, you'll see that the latest entry breaks off just after the date, September fifth—and that date immediately follows the author's first stay, in disguise, at the Stanislas hotel. In short, the pages Mowbray filched represented trump cards. He intended to use them for blackmail, in fact did use them—but said nothing to Cleeves.

"It's significant that on learning of Mowbray's death by drowning Cleeves should instantly have tumbled to the true facts. He pictured the arranged meeting on a bridge late at night, Mowbray producing his damning proofs, and Jethro, prepared, rounding on him like a flash with these delightful playthings."

Tommy picked up the knuckle dusters again and fondled them lovingly.

"Found on our philosopher," he explained. "And I, for one, take off my hat to his skill in using them, as well as the calm dignity with which he squashed my theories at the very moment when the alien slip which would have proved them right reposed in my note case. I can't get over the shame of it. The fact is, Strauss' wiring me about the real Klauber hadn't left me a leg to stand on. This partly authentic story coming on top of it——"



He pictured the arranged meeting, on a bridge late at night; "Mowbray producing his damning proofs."

"How do you mean it was partly authentic?"

"Why, that old Renouff, who does translations of philosophical works, is afflicted with arthritis, and lives in Montmartre. No, I never really twigged anything wrong till, in the gloom of that top landing, something like a ton of bricks crashed down on my skull. The truth flared up in a rush of sky rockets, one-eighth of a second too late."

Christopher brought up a point which still mystified him. It was clear why Jethro had deemed it necessary to exterminate Jolivet, who, if questioned by the police, would certainly have let fall some damaging item. But how had he got the manager into his power?

"My fault, that," answered Tommy sorrowfully. "It is fairly plain what happened. To make my fiction more acceptable, I'd told Jolivet I might require him to identify Klauber, promising him remuneration. In gassing to Jethro the poor chap must have mentioned this, little guessing he was providing the tip by means of which he would be enticed to his doom."

"I suppose any other method of killing wouldn't have served."

"No, because it would have been fatal to leave traces of either of us. His plan was to pack the dismembered bodies in the empty crate, ship the crate off to the south, and collect it in person. At Cap Ferrat he had his own car, motor boat and landing stage. Given a dark night, he could have chugged out to sea and heaved the thing overboard. The butchering, however, was a lengthy job, which is why he had to leave it till the second night. There was my car to get rid of, disinfectant to buy, and no shops open till morning."

"He had a strong predilection for Germans. Why was that," asked Christopher, "and why, having acted the part of Dr. Schneider for eight years, didn't he use the same rôle for the alibi?"

"My argument is this: Since certain physical attributes were unalterable, his best device for disguise was a change of nationality. He chose a German, because having spent his childhood in the Berlin schools, he spoke French as a rule with a German accent. That accounts for the Schneider personality, and for the choice of a German in the second instance. As for his hitting on a living model to copy, I think I can supply the answer to that, too. He had to pass muster in the same hotel as his normal self, therefore was obliged to adopt a handwriting utterly dissimilar to his own. Now if you've ever tried, you'll know how hard it is to invent a convincing handwriting. Your own characteristics will crop out, but any one with average ability can copy a hand which already exists. When old Klauber paid him a visit at the villa he left behind a discarded hat which fitted. Probably that incident gave the plotter his cue. Why not let the hat form the nucleus of a new disguise? The professor's handwriting and mannerisms could be studied and reproduced. By using an old overcoat already in his possession, padding himself out with cardigans and mufflers, and keeping to his Schneider beard and spectacles he could step into a ready made personality suitable for all purposes. All he had to buy was a pair of continental boots—I suspect because no footwear of his own was sufficiently unelegant. The imposture would never be discovered, either, for Klauber would not be in Paris at the same time as himself and when there meant to put up in a different locality."

"Why," asked Christopher curiously, "did you still suspect him after assuring yourself his alibi was good?"

Tommy puffed thoughtfully at his pipe.

"It sounds silly," he admitted, "but I believe it was a feeling I had about his handwriting. If you'll give me that coat of mine from the wardrobe I'll show you what I mean."

From the inside pocket of the blood smeared garment he fished out a crumpled memorandum, smoothed it out, and pointed first to the irregular letters, then to the margin and the heavily inked e's and o's:

"Here," he said, "are four outstanding characteristics—scientific bents, intense egotism, extravagance, and—sensuality. Two I'd expected, the third did not astonish me, but the fourth? The man's personality struck me as peculiarly frigid, in spite of his full, puckered lips, which in another subject might have suggested plenty of animal nature. Magnetism he had, but it was almost inhuman in quality. You couldn't get near him. Aside from his well known reputation for clean living, I myself had noticed his instinctive shrinking from human contacts. I had seen him draw away with a sort of distaste when Helen, warmly impulsive, laid her hand on his arm, yet Helen was his friend. The incident was slight, but seemed to me significant. It didn't go at all with those muddy, clogged loops.

"I worked it out like this: If the man is sensual, then he not only keeps the fact well hidden, but the sensuality itself is of some odd, introverted variety. It must be so. But since experience teaches that no dominant instinct is entirely suppressed, I said to myself, whatever it is, it's got an outlet somewhere. By a natural sequence of thought I turned back to what I had shoved aside as worthless testimony—the story my nephew told me about Jethro's having been seen in dubious surroundings. Without much hope that it would lead to anything pertinent, I started a letter to Rank, then as you happened along I entrusted the inquiry to you and got back to the alibi end of things. Your coming in was the biggest piece of luck I've ever experienced. But for that I shouldn't be talking about it now."

Picnic Season Gets Welcome from Society

John L. Seniors Move to New York.

The John L. Senior family have given up their apartment at 229 Lake Shore drive and their furniture is en route to New York, where they have taken an apartment at 10 Gracie square. Miss Mary Senior, who is at Vassar, is going to England early in June for May week—that's right, it is called May week even in June—at Cambridge.

Miss Louise Prussing, who used to live in Chicago and who was entertained extensively when she was here three years ago in the cast of "Berkeley Square," is back in town for the summer, staying at the De Witt hotel.

Mrs. Albert Newcombe and her daughter, Miss Alberta Newcombe, left Monday to motor to New York for the wedding of the latter's counsin, Miss Ruth Pressinger, who is to be married to J. Paul Crawford of Ardmore, Pa., on June 2. The wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. Stephen's church with a reception following at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Whitfield Pressinger. Miss Newcombe will be a bridesmaid and so will Mrs. Charles Elmes of Chicago. The Pressinger family formerly lived in Chicago.

Ethel Dixon Home from Stock Tour.

Miss Ethel Dixon, daughter of the Homer L. Dixons, arrived at home yesterday after spending several months in southern states, touring with a stock company. She will remain in Chicago for a few weeks anyway.

Parties for Miss Mary Kay Downs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Downs, whose engagement to Dr. John F. Oakley of New Orleans was announced last week, are beginning well in advance of the wedding. Miss Barbara Shaffer, daughter of the Charles B. Shaffers, is giving a luncheon, bridge, and lingerie shower for Miss Downs today at the Woman's Athletic club.

The judges who will select the prize winning posters for the Streets of Paris ball on the opening night of the Fair will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Mrs. Robert R. McCormick's residence, 1519 Astor street, to decide whose posters will advertise the ball, which is to be for the benefit of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society. At 4 o'clock the committee will assemble at Mrs. McCormick's to meet the prize winning artists and to have tea.

Alliance to Close Season Today.

Mrs. Charles S. Dewey will be the hostess this afternoon in the clubrooms of the Alliance Française in the Fine Arts building at a tea which will follow the annual meeting. Assisting Mrs. Dewey will be Mrs. Jefferson Jackson, Mrs. George Cragg, Miss Beulah Shoesmith, Miss Ruth Hopewell, Miss Ellen Truax, Miss Marie Combith, and Miss Helen Nast. Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde and Mrs. Moise Dreyfus will pour.

As this is the last meeting of the alliance until next fall, although the clubrooms will be kept open all summer, Mrs. Cragg will give a report on the causeries, Miss Mary West on the library, Miss Roby on the work for the Red Cross, Miss Jean Wilhelm on the juniors, and Mrs. Ralph T. Winston on membership and publicity.

The fifty-two children who are cared for daily at the Margaret Etter crèche at 1621 North Marshfield avenue have a very vital interest in the musical and tea to be given today at Mrs. Weymouth Kirkland's residence, 1320 North State street, for the money to support the day nursery during June and September will be raised by the affair.

The nursery is closed during July and August, and in the fall there will be a tag day and another benefit party to raise funds for the support of the crèche during the winter. Marie Morrisey [Mrs. Royden J. Keith] will give the program this afternoon.

Benefit Concert at Orchestra Hall.

"Orchestra hall" will be the destination most socialites will give their chauffeurs or taxicab drivers tonight, for the concert that Jacques Fray and Mario Braggiotti will give there for the benefit of Emerson house will attract a very large and fashionable audience without a doubt.

The popular pianists will arrive in the city early this morning and will be met at the train by Mrs. Louise C. Sudler, president of the board of the settlement, and two of her coworkers, Miss Louise Neff and Mrs. Press Hodgkins.

This afternoon Mrs. Sudler is giving a party for the artists at the Casino and later she will be one of those giving dinner parties at home and then taking their guests on to the concert.

Ushering tonight will be ten men, chosen by a secret committee of the settlement board as "the handsomest in Chicago society." They are Gaylord Donnelley, Victor Elting Jr., Byron S. Harvey Jr., Edward L. Hersey, Howard Linn, Austin N. Niblack, George T. Senseney, Carl Stibolt, Louis C. Sudler, and Niblack Thorne. Mr. Donnelley and Mr. Stibolt are the only unmarried ones in the lot.

Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell will open her residence at 179 Lake Shore drive next Monday for a tea that the Italy American society will give for Mrs. Margherita Sarfatti, author of the life of Mussolini, "Dux."

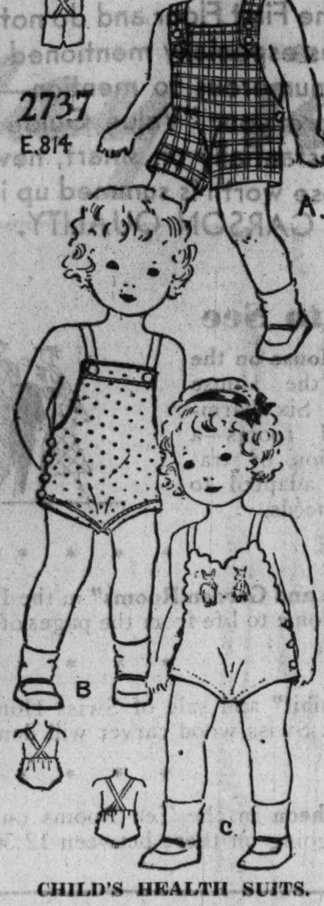
Play Suits for Children May Be Made of Remnants



CHILD'S HEALTH SUITS.

If you have any pretty remnants you'll probably have enough to make one of these cunning suits. They have nonslipping, crossed suspender straps at the back which makes these clothes so comfortable to wear. Blue and white gingham made the first suit, yellow and white dotted crinkled crêpe that needs no ironing made the second one, and a light blue cotton broadcloth made the third suit.

The pattern, No. 2737, comes in sizes 1, 3, and 5 years. The embroidery design, No. E-814, costs 15 cents extra.

False Concepts of Heroics Are Paths to Sorrow

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is 17. He is 18½. He thinks he is missing a lot of fun sticking by the girl. But she got a bad break from her last beau and he hasn't the heart to desert her right now. The girl wants him to marry her, elope, if his parents objects to him marrying now. He thinks he would like to stay unmarried for quite a while yet. "Yet it would break her heart if I left her as this would be the second time in a few months that a fellow loved and left her."

You've got the wrong slant on heroics, Ven! It's much more heroic to save yourself for a real romance later than to play the goat for a trumped up, stupid little affair. You are what Mr. Barnum had in mind when he said there was one born every minute. Anything but the self-sacrificing he-man you are kidding yourself into thinking you are!

Of course, when one of those weeping little vixens of 17 get in a man's hair, he has an awful time to keep from turning to putty. But the fact that she can be off with an old love and on with a new in so short a time, Ven, ought to supply a bit of stiffening for your backbone. And did you ever think of marriage beyond the license getting day? It's no holiday venture, believe it or not. It's a long, hard road with bills assaulting you at every turn. To make a go of it you have to get yourself a girl who loves you mightily and whom you love just as much. A youngster that would flop from one pair of arms to another isn't the girl. One who would want you to elope isn't made of the stuff of which real helpmeets are made.

Let the girl's heart break if it must. It won't. Seventeen year old hearts don't crack that easily. And the girl is just wanting to take you for a ride, Ven. You don't have to go.

Scrubbing Body with Brush May Aid Complexion

It Stimulates Circulation for Beauty's Sake.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Perhaps the brush making people have put some good propaganda into their products, or perhaps it is that more people are beginning to realize that the friction produced by a good bath or face brush is fine for the skin. Anyway, that's the way to do your face and body washing if you are in the know. True, there are folk blessed with a skin of rarely fine texture who do not feel the need of the frictionizing we speak about, yet doctors tell me that even these folk would have as good, if not better skin, for the daily friction with brush.

The point is that most women, anyway, get practically little exercise in the course of a day. Hardly enough to get the blood circulating through the skin in good active condition. Massage measures, then, become imperative to the health and youth of the skin. So, for the great majority, with neither time nor the money for masseuse work, there is the blessed alternative, a good stiff, bath brush. I was a little surprised to see the stiffness of the brush with which one of the movie girls scrubbed her body. She admitted to me that her doctor told her she'd never have complexion troubles if she took the pains to scrub her body well daily with a stiff brush. It is the most reasonable thing to believe for, after all, the skin on the face reflects the condition of the body, and especially it reflects the activity of the blood vessels. The tonic friction and surface massage of the skin stimulate and tone up the circulation of the blood and lymph, improve the excretory function of the skin and, in case of pimples and blackheads, the vigorous brushing is extremely helpful. Indeed, brushing the hair and scalp with a reasonably firm brush is considered one of the best forms of tonic treatment for the hair.

It's a simple enough way of giving yourself a massage treatment, now isn't it? I would certainly like to see the youngsters get the bath-brush habit in their 'teens just to prevent a lot of the suffering that comes from blackhead and pimple blemishes. Urge them to use one of the small face brushes as well, rinsing in warm, clear water and then in cold.

Yiddish Actress Displays Skill with English

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Through an odd quirk of these topsy-turvy times the Blackstone, former aristocrat of Chicago's playhouses, has become a Yiddish theater, and Manager Guy Hardy, quondam enthusiast of grand opera, the Russian ballet and the Irish players, now stands on the sidewalk greeting first nighters with exclamations of delight over his "great international star," Molly Picon, favorite singing soubrette of New York's east side. Maybe this is a symptom of the bloodless revolution about which the collectivist economists are whispering.

Miss Picon appears in a simple, animated song and dance frolic called "The Girl of Yesterday," which with many eager strokes of character acting tells a story about the chatterbox of Orchard street who rejected her betrothed [a tailor] fifty years ago in favor of a romantic fiddler; had her heart broken; and waited a lifetime until her tailor came back from the west to claim his long lost loye. It is a folk-comedy, copiously garnished with comic and sentimental songs, and its audiences appear to love it.

The star, who occasionally breaks out of her Yiddish environment to demonstrate her versatility on the English speaking stage, has a merry boop-a-doop style and a gift for satiric impersonation. She is amusing and deft in a song that deals with types in a theatrical audience—a number at which a non-Yiddish dramatic critic was observed to applaud. I find Miss Picon's method and personality much like those of Mabel Hite, who ought to be remembered by any playgoer who can think back thirty years.

My interest in Yiddish theatricals, up to date, is largely linguistic. After seeing "The Girl of Yesterday" I have come to the conclusion that anyone who has mastered six German verbs, ten adjectives and twenty nouns ought to be able to understand it, for the rest sounds like English.

Next week at the Blackstone: Julius Nathanson in "The Organ Grinder," also in Yiddish.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

DO NOT DUPLICATE PSYCHICS.

I suppose that if I advise you not to make "psychic" bids, I shall be accused of doing so with my tongue in my cheek, inasmuch as I have consistently given them a legitimate place in the game of contract. Nevertheless, I do warn you to be very wary of making misleading bids in any new or untried partnership; under such conditions you are likely to be fighting the cards instead of enlisting them to fight for you. Even in a well tested partnership, it is generally fatal to duplicate psychics on the same hand. I do not mean the obvious instances where both partners start to defend the same hand independently by psychic bids. Under these conditions they are apt to bid themselves into a 1,400 penalty if the opponents make no bid before the very firm "double." I am thinking of hands where one partner quite rightly assumes the defense by making a psychic or near-psychic bid, yet, when it has failed to stop the opponents' bidding, is not content to sit back and await developments, but immediately tries to reënforce his first psychic by another one. This is suicidal if his hand contains no real refuge, so that he is compelled to learn something about his partner's hand before it can be clear in which declaration the sacrifice will be least expensive.

When Different Bids Do Not Duplicate the Psychic.

If you have some such holding as Sp. x x, Hts. x x, Di. Q, x x, Cl., K x x x x x and are not vulnerable, you certainly have the material for a third hand psychic club bid. Thereafter you may bid all the other suits, also no trumps, without duplicating your psychic, because you plan eventually to play the hand doubled in clubs, hoping the penalty will be worth while. You expect nothing from your partner, and remain in control as long as the bidding continues. Undoubled, you do not care in what declaration you lose 50 a trick. Doubled, you will always play the hand in clubs.

A Near-Psychic and a Near-Sighted One.

South, dealer, and West both pass. Sitting North, I decided on a near-psychic opening bid of one diamond. East doubled, South passed, West bid one heart. I now reasoned that it might not be necessary to make any further attempt to head off a game contract. In any event, unless my partner could make a move of some kind, my diamonds were too weak to consign the hand to a sacrifice in diamonds, and my hand as a whole, with at least a heart trick and a club trick, was strong enough to defeat a slam, and therefore the next move was up to the others. If spades are bid, my partner is likely to have four; against no trumps, he knows what to lead. I therefore passed; East bid one no trump, which was passed by all. He made two odd. If I had passed originally, my partner would have presumably led a heart, saving the overtrick.

The Duplicated Psychic.

At another table, the first round of bidding was the same; but North had to be brilliant again and bid a spade over West's heart. East bid one no trump and South, now concluding that his partner had a fair hand, and hoping to drive the enemy out of their depths in hearts, bid two spades. North is forced to go three diamonds, which is doubled and set 400 points. By piling an absolute psychic on top of a near-psychic, North duplicated his defensive tactics, and turned his partner into an involuntary adversary.

Teacher Must Discover Cause of Misbehavior

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

This is the second article for teachers on child management in the schoolroom.

An inexperienced teacher is going to get along much better if she realizes something which is neatly put in a little book to which I am going to refer you later. The statement reads: "A certain amount of misbehavior is normal, for the child must learn through experience. Good discipline helps the misbehaving child to discover that misconduct brings unpleasant consequences, and yet does not weaken his incentive to behave well by arousing resentment and inferiority feelings."

This is a helpful and steadying thing for a teacher to realize when she is confronted with some sorts of schoolroom "naughtiness" or disturbance. Let her think, not "here is a child in need of punishment," but "here is a child who needs to learn, and not only lessons, but living. Here is my chance to help him."

Take, for example, the child who lies or is dishonest in school. Instead of punishing him or shaming him in class, the teacher will try to find out why he lies or is dishonest and will help to clear up the cause.

If he is little his so-called lie is perhaps due to the fact that his own borderline between reality and unreality is a wabbly one. Jean Piaget, the Frecnh psychologist, has made some interesting studies which show this. Or the child may simply he "honing" for a little excitement. Small importance need be attached to a "story" like this unless it persists.

Where the lie occurs with an older child something must be done about it.

Fear is one of the chief causes of lying. Sometimes it is fear of consequences, sometimes fear induced by a harsh, severe manner. A tacher's manner must be friendly and she must deal kindly as well as fairly with the truh when she gets it.

The child who tells "tall stories" may be looking for importance he never seems to get in any other way. Some ability of his must be discovered and developed so that he can truly "shine" a little.

Sawtooth Patch.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Common sources of quilt names have been homely professions and trades that antedated the machine age in America. "Sawtooth Patch," carrying into design one of the carpenter's tools, is an example. This quilt was born at the beginning of a turbulent period, that of the civil war.

It's ready—Nancy Cabot's new booklet, presenting 96 illustrations of favorite quilt designs, together with one pattern of a popular quilt, "The Framed Rose." Price, 5 cents; by mail, 7 cents. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune; or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices.

If you eschew olives because you can never really go in for them in a large way without people checking up on the pits, then sorrow no longer.

The system is simply to combine olives with your daily eggs and dare the world to keep tab on you. A casserole of scalloped eggs and olives, for instance, accompanied by a crisp salad of spring greens, is a May luncheon designed to tempt you out of the most virulent type of spring fever.

Sleek black olives, fat green ones, or the cheerful pimiento-stuffed affairs gladly offer themselves for the experiment.

Or if you're on the prowl for something quite out of the ordinary, yet most simple to perform, here's still another adaptation of the same egg and olive team. Stir up your pet muffin batter and bake it in individual ring molds or little shell pans. While they are baking, make a white sauce and to it add sliced hard cooked eggs and chopped olives. To serve, pour the creamed eggs and olives over the hot muffins.

Also, egg-olive-rice cakes walk away with prizes, especially delectable when ushered in with Hollandaise sauce and served about a hot platter of buttered asparagus tips. This is how they look in recipe form:

EGG-OLIVE-RICE CAKES.
[With Hollandaise.]

1 cup uncooked rice.
½ cup chopped green olives.
3 hard cooked eggs, chopped.
2 eggs, well beaten.
½ teaspoon salt.
Pepper to taste.

Cook the rice in salted water until tender. Add to the cooked rice the olives, cooked eggs, and raw eggs. Season to taste with the salt and pepper, and turn the mixture into buttered custard cups and muffin pans. Place these in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 20 to 30 minutes To test the cakes for "doneness," insert a knife in the center of one or two. It should come out clean. Now lift out the cakes and arrange them around the edge of a large hot platter in the center of which is piled hot, buttered asparagus tips. Serve with a creamy white sauce or with Hollandaise sauce.

Then to go back after a tip we we dropped as a starter:

SCALLOPED EGGS AND OLIVES.

1½ cups milk.
3 tablespoons butter.
4 tablespoons flour.
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
Salt and pepper to taste.
½ cup sliced stuffed olives.
4 hard cooked eggs.

Blend the flour and the melted butter in a saucepan. Add the milk, stirring until smooth. Cook until thickened, then add seasonings, eggs, and olives. Turn into a buttered baking dish and top with a sprinkling of buttered crums. Brown quickly in a hot over [400 degrees F.].

Then again, scrambled eggs are mightily cheered at the addition of ripe olives, pitted and sliced.

THE COOK MAKES A POINT

"We can't go to Europe," said the Duchess, "Exchanges have gone up."
The cook sneezed, partly because of pepper and partly out of contempt. "Would this soup cost any more in Europe?" she asked.
"Liras, francs and shillings cost more," said the Duchess thoughtfully.
"I don't use them," snapped the cook. "I use beef and carrots and leeks."

When your travel agent "cooks up" a European tour for you, the principal "ingredients" he puts into it are steamship passage, hotels, meals and railroad, all of which are drastically lower this year than in former years.

A room with bath, First Class in the Aquitania, for illustration, now costs 37% less than in 1926, President Roosevelt's "year of normalcy" . . . and the average minimum First Class rate is down by 20%. Round trip Cabin Class rates are as low as $234 and Tourist Class rates, $188. Railroad rates abroad are down 20% to 50% and hotel rates by an average of 36%. You may pay for your entire trip at your leisure, if you wish . . . Cunard's Deferred Payment Plan requires a down payment of only 25%. Ask your local agent for folder of facts proving European travel cheaper in 1934 than in 1926.

Cunard Line, 346 North Michigan Ave., Chicago

Cunard Cabin Class affords the widest possible choice of luxurious accommodations. Cunard Tourist Class is available in all Cunarders. In both the express liners Aquitania and Berengaria such features as talking pictures, beds instead of berths and swimming pools are available for tourist passengers . . . also rooms with bath in the Berengaria.

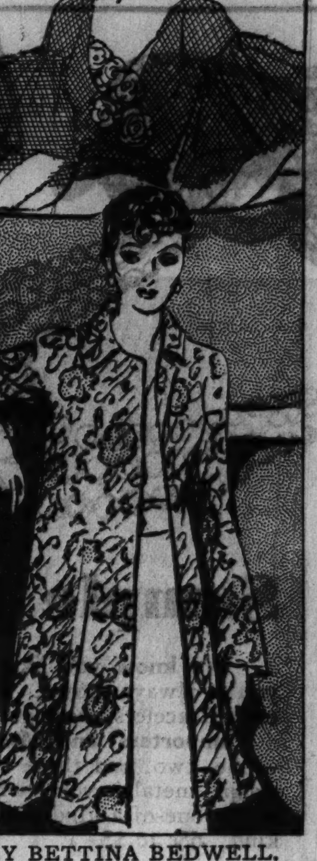
Paris Evening Wraps Are Merely Wisps of Net, Georgette and Crepe de Chine



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Wraps that were never meant to be anything but an illusion are cropping up all over Paris with the first warm evenings. Women wear big and little jackets over their low-cut evening frocks—jackets made of such insignificant fabrics as net, chiffon, and crêpe de chine. They wear them, the same ones, too, to dress up late afternoon dresses.

Molyneux makes such separate wraps out of printed silk, and cuts them like sports coats. They're about the best of the crop, and certainly the most practical. You can see what they look like—the one at the bottom is an example. It is made of flowered crêpe de chine with a satin-like shine on it, and is cut just like a sports coat made of tweed. Such a wrap slipped over a simple daytime dress as you leave the office fixes your sartorial aspect up okay for dinner out in town. It can be worn for evening, too.

The tiny jacket at the top of our sketch is more special. It is one of the many net wraps that Paris is going in for this season.

When Chicago Was Young

BY HERMA CLARK.

[Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.]

Chicago, July 10, 1859.

Dear Julia:

Just returned from our "bridal tower," I must tell you that. Though we shall soon be settled in our north side home, we are at present staying at the Tremont house, where letters will reach us. This luxurious hotel, which has 300 rooms and seven bathrooms, is beautifully located at the corner of Dearborn and Lake streets, in the center of our shopping section. It is only nine years old and is easily the finest hostelry west of New York. Every one stays here. I saw the poet, Mr. William Cullen Bryant, registering a few days ago. He was on his way to visit his brother, John Howard Bryant, who lives in Princeton, a hundred miles southwest.

Lake street is our great shopping center, with the fine store of Potter Palmer considered equal to many in the east. Mr. Palmer waited on me this afternoon when I went in for some silk. He is quite a "catch"—one of our eligible bachelors. I hear a great deal of talk that State street will supplant Lake street as a business center at no distant day, and indeed there are business houses springing up there next to homes.

State street, only 25 years ago, was known as the "Vincennes Trace," or "Hubbard's Trail," as it was but a track on the prairie leading to Vincennes, the Indiana village where there was a fort before and during the revolution. I have always wished the street could still be called "Hubbard's Trail," to honor this fine pioneer, an agent of the American Fur company in 1818. The Illinois legislature voted money to make a road, known as the "State Road," to Vincennes from Chicago. Because State street was the northern terminus of this road, it has kept that name.

The panic of '57 has been a good thing for Chicago, some say. Salesmen for our business houses have induced Mississippi valley merchants to buy goods in Chicago rather than to make the long journey to New York. We have fine dry goods firms here. Will says Cooley, Farwell & Co. are doing splendidly. That young friend of yours, Marshall Field, is working for this firm in its handsome store on Wabash avenue. Will says he is destined for success, being so hard-working and economical. Mr. Field told Will that the first year he worked here [1857] his salary was $400, of which he saved $200 by sleeping in the store and buying no new clothes save a pair of overalls. We have some wonderful young business men here, and Will says it is they who are building our young city.

Before I close I must tell you of the lovely new bracelet Will had me select today at Peacock's jewelry store on Randolph street. Peacock's is one of our old firms. You'll laugh at my use of the world "old," but it was established in 1837, the year we became a city, and that seems old here.

And now good-night and much love from your Garden City friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

BIG HAT COMING BACK IN A WAY AS BIG AS ITS BRIM

Chapeaux of American Genus Setting Mode.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

For the first time in seven or eight years large hats—and by that is meant hats with an 18 inch spread—are in demand in a big way.

What may be even more striking hat news is that for the first time in the memory of buyers and stylists hats this season were dictated not by Paris but by New York.

"For the first time in history Paris slipped from the pedestal of style origination," one man buyer of hats in a loop department store said. "Both the off-the-face hat and the shallow crowned hat were designed in America. At first Paris was contemptuous because they were American. Then the demand was so great that the Parisians had to come to it.

Cartwheels in Favor.

"During the early spring Paris elaborated and adapted the off-the-face hat, which was the rage abroad as well as here. Now, however, the off-the-face hat is passé. That is, it is becoming so. The new hats for summer are extremely shallow crowned wagon wheels—with a few small hats being sold for motoring and traveling. Even for street wear and tailored clothes, however, the cartwheels are the thing."

These large hats, which may droop, of may be a mushroom shape, or may turn up or be stiff and severe—in fact may do about anything that is becoming—have caught the fancy of women as no vogue in millinery has done in years, buyers claim.

"Many of our customers come into the store accompanied by husbands or sweethearts," one head of a department said. "Hats are one part of a woman's wardrobe which all men feel personally about. Every man in the world thinks he's a connoisseur when it comes to women's hats.

Men Like 'Em, Women Learn.

"It's interesting to watch the male contingent when we bring out these large hats. Through the ages men have adored large hats because they love the romantic and picturesque in women's attire. Usually the women say in horror: 'But I can't wear a big hat; I haven't worn one in years!' After they see how flattering they are, however, they change their mind about big hats."

With no ornamentation save a buckle or a flat narrow bow, or with considerable flower ornament in the way of daisies or unnamed but decorative flowers, the large brimmed, shallow crowned hats soften the face of the wearer and lend a certain grace and dignity to her bearing, other hat experts in the loop said.

Wire Brims to Spread.

An extremely wide brimmed hat of rough straw in an orchid shade was pointed out as suitable for street wear, although it suggested garden parties and leisurely country life. Busy working women and shoppers will be wearing these wide brimmers before the summer is much further advanced, however, confident sales persons predicted.

As no driver wants a brim in his eye while touring, however, the small hat, preferably a beret adaptation or a new form of the old favorite, the turban, will have a steady popularity for some occasions.

The mushroom hat with a smaller brim is more suitable for the short woman or the short heavy woman than the cartwheel, it was pointed out.

HAVE BATHROOM SMART; MATCH TOWELS, MATS

BY DOROTHY SCHMIDT.

If spring housecleaning has worked miracles on your bathroom, and the new color scheme simply cries for lovely accessories, the shops are answering the need with ensemble sets featuring unusual and varied color effects.

The ensemble idea in accessories and colors is the keynote of the latest fashions for the bathroom. Towels, in sizes for bath and hand uses, wash cloths, and mats for before the tub and lavatory, come matched in fabric and hues. All the bright shades, red, blue, green, yellow, tan, and brown are shown, and black is enjoying remarkable popularity.

These colors may star singly in the ensembles, or be complemented with harmonizing borders. Still another idea combines two or three colors in a set, producing delightful harmony. Solid colors are, as always, the most distinctive, but modernism brings checks and diagonal stripes into the limelight, also.

The toweling fabric used in these ensembles is heavy, durable, but wonderfully soft and absorbent. It may be had in plain finish, or with diagonal, ribbed effect.

Monograms continue to hold the spotlight, and may be had in a variety of styles according to the requirements of the housewife.

The velvety texture of toweling fabric has been adopted for beach accessories, also.

Terry cloth is the material used for practicality and cool comfort in togs to display on sunny strands. The robes come in four different styles, all equally attractive. There is the loosely hanging type, tied in a shirred fashion high at the neck, with a tiny capelet to add a ruffly finish. This model is unbelted. Tailored lines also are featured. In these the coat is more or less fitted, with patch pockets adorning the full length robe, and with pearl buttons embellishing the double breasted effect. A deck coat is an unusual member of the beach wear world. It is three-quarter length in sack effect, slips over the head, and has no buttons. This model would look decidedly attractive with pure white slacks.

A fourth model features a monk's cowl, hanging gracefully at the back of the shoulders, and which may be brought up around the head according to one of the latest whims from Paris. These robes are the loosely fitting kind, and have the added attraction of being made of diagonal striped terry cloth in darker shades combined with gray.

HATS MATCHING RAINCOATS IN SUMMER STYLE

White umbrellas to match the newest white rubber summer raincoats are made of sudenette. White washable shoes, and a white patent leather handbag are accessories that shed rain drops as merrily as ducks. Silver raincoats are another reason for singing when it rains.

Tweedy looking waterproofs are made for chilly souls who shiver in a passing shower. Besides, they can be used for a cool sunless day with splendid effectiveness. Thin, transparent, creamy colored raincoats can be doubled and packed and stowed in the smallest space in your traveling bag, without protest.

They last practically forever and can be sponged and kept spotless.

PURSE DISPLAYS MAKE ENSEMBLE HARMONY SURE

Surprising New Ones to Intrigue Milady.

BY DOROTHY PARKHURST.

You may swagger along this season with the biggest, brightest purse you ever owned, or you may tuck your belongings into a trim leather purse that looks just exactly like a book under your arm. You may carry your handkerchief, compact, and lipstick to the dance in a frilly little bag of rows and rows of net ruffles, or your bag may be one of those fastened onto the back of a taffeta or organdy corsage which is pinned to the shoulder of your frock, thus hiding the purse entirely.

Whatever is your choice there'll be no excuse for a discord in the harmony of your ensemble for the stores are showing just every kind of bag you can think of, and some surprising ones about which you never would have dreamed.

Colored Alligator Leather.

Among the most handsome are those of alligator leather in the bright fruit colors and pastel shades. These bags are large and roomy and come in an assortment of shapes. Some have sturdy wooden frames.

Another smart bag material is a flexible wood in shades of brown. The body of the bag is made of a strip of this supple wood while a contrasting shade of brown leather completes the sides, frame, and handle. Initials are still very much in, many of the stores having initial shops which do a rushing business. And no wonder, for the initials are becoming more and more interesting in shape, color, and material.

Soiled white bags will be decidedly out this summer. There'll be no excuse for them. Besides washable white leather bags, the stores are showing purses made entirely of white wooden beads and others of a composition resembling opaque celluloid which may be cleaned with a damp cloth. Still more purses may take off their linen or pique covers for a bath as often as necessary.

Crocheted String Purses.

To match the dainty string gloves there are crocheted string purses for which great popularity is anticipated. They're charmingly fashioned in semicircles and squares. Another type of string bag is made of lacquered string. One of the most amusing is a large one, perfectly round and flat which zippers open, while others come in conservative shapes and gay colors. You may purchase lacquered string jewelry too.

Bead bags we've usually thought of as dressy. But one of the stores is showing some most sporty ones with square corners and bright stripes up and down their sides.

If you're going in for gay accessories, take a look at the purses of peasant embroidery (huge affairs, they are), the polka dot, figured, and checked fabric purses, and the modernistic enameled metal ones. Any of them will give dash to a plain spring or summer suit.

Ones for Evening.

On puffy taffeta evening purses, a jeweled clip exactly matches a clever bracelet and necklace. The corsage purse for evening wear may match or contrast with the frock as they come in a variety of colors and materials. They're pinned onto the shoulder, the purse being under the corsage and out of sight.

Fresh flowers could be attached in place of the artificial ones, although the cloth ones look most real. Other dainty evening bags are of ruffles combined with beaded designs, while an especially good one is completely covered with ribbon flowers of every kind and color.

FRONTISPIECE

The girl on the cover of this section, intent on several purchases, plunges into the shopping district attired in an ensemble of American design, especially selected in a State street store by Rhea Seeger, TRIBUNE fashion editor, for its up to the minute smartness.

The suit of thin wool is in pastel yellow, set off by chocolate brown accessories. There's a swagger coat, with a taffeta scarf striped in brown and white; a simple, straight skirt, and a tailored white silk blouse. The brown felt hat, tres chic, is of the new curé type, with a stiff, straight brim, and a tiny bow at the front of the shallow crown.

Brown silk mesh gloves, a brown, heavy linen purse with smooth wood frame, and breezy sandals in brown and beige with the newly popular medium heel, complete this correct and moderately priced street outfit. Carroll Brady posed for the Tribune Studio photo.

CANVAS BEACH BAGS SOLVE AN OUTING PROBLEM

Don't feel that for economy's sake you must press the battered overnight bag or the family market basket into service when you go to the beach. Canvas beach bags, smartly trimmed with leather, are now low priced. Gently rounded contours make them easy to pack and carry and rubber linings solve the problem of what to do with the wet bathing suit.

You have your choice of zipper or button fastenings. And some of the better models have soled bottoms.

Sandals This Summer to Be a Riot of Color

Sandals, and more sandals for summer feet! From the cool meshed affairs to the perforated kidskin straps you can't ignore them. Bright colors are worn for street, as well as evening and beach and sports sandals are a blazing riot of color. All white footwear is the smartest footnote. Street models, afternoon, and evening, whatever you slip on your feet, the all white wins.

SUMMER DINING GETS A NEW AIR ON THESE TABLES

Hot Dishes Never Trouble the New Designs.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Summer dining tables this season are entirely new. If you don't believe it, take a look at the ones now being shown by the State street stores.

Gilbert Rohde, the well known American modernist, has designed something extremely practical and unusual for hot weather dining. It is a table with a top made of cork in two tones of brown, first a dark panel, then a light. Of course, the grand thing about this model is that one need never worry about hot dishes leaving marks on the surface, or spilled liquids injuring it. It's just about the sturdiest material known. And moreover, the effect is smart, modern, and altogether good looking. Two rounding supports of chromium at either end of the table take the place of the usual legs.

Chairs Are Very Simple.

Chairs accompanying this model are very simple, covered in pastel lethers and having frames of chromium. The two front legs are straight, while the back ones are rounded and braced by a metal stretcher. It is a clever idea to use a pair of light lether chairs with a pair of dark ones at this table, carrying out the idea of the two tone cork top.

At another State street store we saw a dining table that was seemingly all made of glass. The top was sanded and therefore not transparent. Under it are concealed the lights, which send a diffused glow in a rather dramatic way over the surface.

Still another interesting dining table, one in the spirit of the times, had a top entirely of mirror glass. And at another store we came across a truly beautiful piece, one of a fine line made and sold in Chicago and known the country over for its good workmanship, interesting woods and finishes. This table is ideal for the summer dining room, for its top is of deep blue mirror glass, and the interesting upholstered chairs are done in a tiny blue and white striped material. Imagine a low crystal bowl in the center of this table, filled with white stock and blue larkspur, and you have a perfect picture.

For Intimate Breakfast.

Still another unusual table—quite small, this time, and intended for a breakfast intime—is made by the same firm. In deal wood, or antique white, it has two fairly large receptables at either end holding trailing ivy. Of course, one does not use a cloth on this table. Mats, or the bare wood suffice.

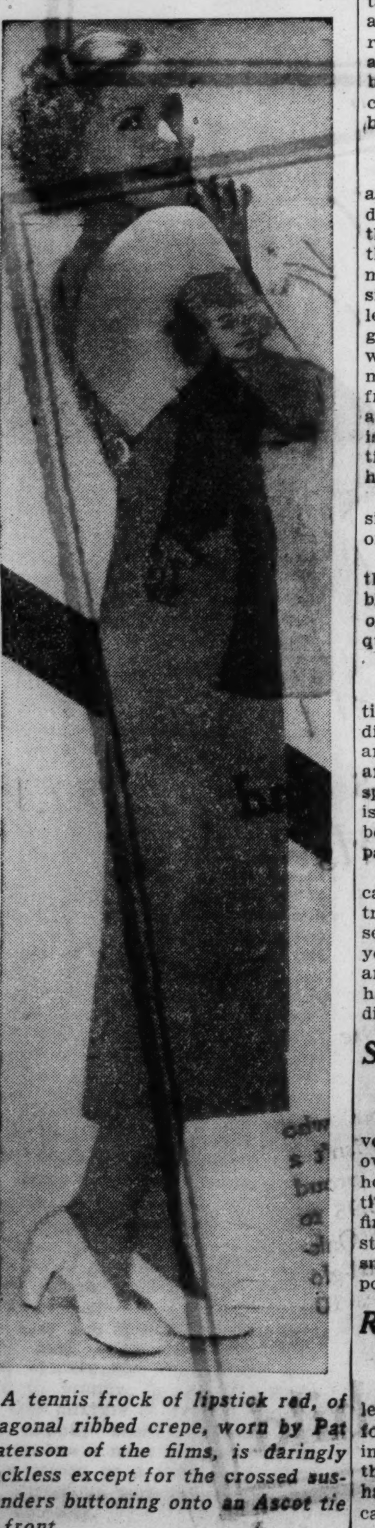
If you want a lot of color and verve in your summer dining room you can choose a table and chairs in the contemporary style in scarlet, black, and natural light maple. The table is of the light wood trimmed in scarlet lacquer, and the chairs have shiny black patent lether seats.

Rustic Dining Group.

Farther down State street stop in to see the charming artistic, rustic dining group made by a famous manufacturer. Of Philippine mahogany, it is either given a dark finish resembling oak, or is painted in naive and fascinating fashion in old white, pale green, or cherry and white.

The table is made refectory style with extra leaves that slide out and fit into place at both ends. It is sturdy and substantial, ideal in the home that has a lot of youngsters.

BACKLESS



A tennis frock of lipstick red, of diagonal ribbed crepe, worn by Pat Paterson of the films, is daringly backless except for the crossed suspenders buttoning onto an Ascot tie in front.

DISTINCTIVE

White fringe, very deep and two strips wide, serves to give this classically simple lamp great distinction. All white, it brings beauty to any room, no matter what the type of furnishings. It is made and sold in Chicago.

SUMMER CHINA DRESSED IN ALL HUES OF RAINBOW

Stores Show Tempting Glassware, Too.

BY ANNA NANGLE.

The china and glassware departments of our State street stores are truly enchanting spots these days. They're all dressed in their summery best and brimming with beautiful and serviceable table accessories.

Every color in the rainbow and every type of material and workmanship has been utilized in these very complete and tempting displays. Gathered from far and near, imported and domestic plates, cups, saucers, glasses—all gleam and glitter bewitchingly. You'll find that price tags assume a similar variety, some run to three figures per dozen pieces; others are within reach of even those who are pale and wan from doing battle with the well known wolf.

One of the most beautiful of the newer glass materials is a misty white an imitation of one of the rare old types of glass, which is fashioned into stunning candlesticks, fruit bowls, and vases.

A Charming Table.

Among the very moderately priced dishes we saw a charming table laid with a blue and white polka dotted cloth and a pale opaque glass luncheon set. Blue bordered dishes of the same materials, shown on a yellow and white cloth, were equally attractive. The price tags were decidedly not prohibitive.

There are similar sets of more substantial materials at slightly higher prices. One particularly handsome array comes in antique ivory, its creamy sheen brought out by a pale green table covering.

The newest breakfast dishes are enough to make even those who limit this meal to a solitary cup of coffee take an interest in cereal and bacon and eggs. Charming dots and dashes, red and green and yellow, bedeck cups and saucers and fruit dishes. Others boast scotch plaid borders, still others come in solid colors—lavender, pale blue, and pink.

Out Go Water Tumblers.

You'll never again serve iced tea or any other of the cooling summertime drinks in water tumblers if you see the perfectly grand beverage outfits the stores are showing. One that'll make you cool just to look at it consists of a tall graceful pitcher of pale lemon yellow and accompanying glasses, which, praise be, are fitted with slim black handles so that one may drink in comfort, escaping the frigid moisture which accumulates on any ice filled glass. If a bright green is more in harmony with your particular color scheme, it's there to be had.

Beer containers in all shapes and sizes are plentiful in wood, copper, or glass, at varying prices.

New Heat Resistant Dish.

Housewives will probably be particularly interested in a new type of dish which is said to be heat resistant and in which food may be both baked and served. It is attractive, too, in spite of the sturdy qualities. One set is cream colored with a gay flowered border, another comes in a cheerful pale orange shade.

By all means see these displays, because you'll not only give your eyes a treat and learn much of expert table setting and color combinations, but you'll realize that with prices as they are at present there's no excuse for having a single chipped or cracked dish or glass adorning your cupboard!

Shirtwaist Dresses Good for All Sorts of Occasions

Slim shirtwaist dresses made with very short sleeves, high mannish roll over collars and pencil straight silhouettes are good buys for street, active and spectator sportswear. You'll find them in crisp colorful cottons, striped drop-stitch novelty weaves and small printed broadcloths in every possible combination.

Rubber Swimming Suit Like Flowered Chintz

Rubber swim suits will fool you unless you know your rubber fashion, for the cheekiest bit of magic comes in a swim ensemble of printed rubber that looks like flowered chintz. The hat, slippers, and suit all match and can be bought for an amazingly small sum.

REAL ADVENTURE AWAITS VISITOR TO FOOD MARTS

New Products Delight Both Eye and Palate.

BY JEAN GUTHRIE.

Just back from an enlightening and joyful trot through the food shops of the loop, and it's amazing what a girl can find these days to gladden the table and make merry the guests. So this inquisitive one has decided that the place for an ambitious hostess hungering for things new for spring menus is not at home behind a menu pad and worried pencil, but rather afoot in the loop, well equipped with a wide open mind and a generous market bag.

For among the thisa and thata displayed, we discovered all sorts of new and newish crackers most swelegant for service with everything from soups to sherry. Scouting down the street we came upon first a new note for beer parties. It's a salted and slightly cheesey beer cracker, round, three inches across, thin and mildly waffled. And if we had ever known, we had managed to forget that there were such tricky things as oyster crackers for chowders. Not the usual flat, flaky soup affairs, but fat round spheres, an inch through the tummy, which look and taste as though they might be second cousins to the southern beaten biscuit.

More Cheer at Pretzel Counter.

Then more loud huzzahs when we arrived at the pretzel counter. For no longer need we feed our stein tippers just the curly fellows, just wafers or just cracker sticks. One and two pound boxes of assorted crunchies, separated each in family compartments, offer us straight and curly pretzels, cheese crackers, spiced crackers, wafer sticks and I fail to remember how many other sorts of tempters. All for a most startlingly low figure, too.

And something else party-minded ladies have found to cheer over is the most recent baby of the cracker family—whole wheat appetizer shells. They're wee things—slightly more than an inch long and half that across. Actually they look like small flat napkin rings. For the cracker, which is daintily waffled, is bent around and joins itself, leaving a narrow slit into which all manner of good thinks may be poked. Anchovies, sardine paste, caviar, cream cheeses—these are assisted inside with the help of a pastry tube which then proceeds to put a few flourishes on the top of the appetizer.

Tickle Critical Palates.

Served with cool summer drinks or with salads—even with soups, if the filling is wisely chosen—they tickle the most critical of palates. Or a still different appetizer background is the small brother of these whole wheat laddies. These are cheese flavored, and flattened to such a degree that one cannot poke mixtures within. Instead, the nippy spread is applied atop, also by means of a pastry tube. A coy small sister comes in a cool green tint, demurely flavored with crême de menthe. The very thing for service with summer ades or fluffy desserts.

To wind up the crackering spree, we scribbled pleasant phrases about a wine wafer and a new crunchy corn affair. The first, the wine accompaniers, are short little crackers with a most spicey flavor—quite sure it was nutmeg. They would go admirably with custards or chilly glasses of fruit.

The corn numbers were odd salty little fellows which tasted a bit like corn flakes but very decidedly weren't. Each kernel, we were informed, had been sat upon heftily by a long roller and pressed out to a width of half an inch, and a length of often two inches or more. Quite a stretching for one little kernel! Then salt, and the result must be magnificent with draughts of foam topped amber.

A Great Day for Maples.

And everywhere we trotted there was ample sugar, and maple candies, and maple sirup. A bounteous two pound box of assorted bonbons—children of this season's sap letting—especially tickled the mental sweet tooth. Or one may buy the moist sugar by pound cakes, shave it on the vegetable shredder and dash it over custards and like retiring desserts. But save half for hot waffles with butter!

Fresh shrimps curled their tails for attention on one counter we met, and looked uncommonly good. Raspberries, we also reminded ourselves, are now rubbing elbows with other middle priced warm weather desserts.

But olives have it all over their neighbors for versatility. And if you have been deluded into thinking the ripe ones, pimentoed green ones, and the greens-plus-pits are the only family members, then you're no successful olive snooper.

You Can Stuff Your Own.

For squatting on one food shop shelf we located, besides these three standbys, also fat ripe olives stuffed with anchovies and capped with pimentoes, green olives stuffed with onions, green fellows plump with celery and the same verdant ones sporting plump almonds in their centers. Or you might crave to stuff your own. Then buy the green or ripe boys already pitted—whole or in slices. And if your soul seeks still newer fields to brouse, a food shop offers an odd French olive the like of which perhaps you never did see. It's very unorthodox in shape, being long and slim and just a bit withered in the cheeks. But they're like golf, we hear—once taken up, they're irresistable.

From which we graduated to pound cakes—scrumptuous fruity ones for a modest figure, flirting from one tantalizing street window display.

Many Varieties of Bread.

And breads in the same setup are most original. Pecan bread, mixed fruit bread, date and pecan bread and a new round cinnamon loaf sit ready for the asking and a most discreet amount of cash.

Nor may you boast yourself a well versed food hound till you have waxed extravagant over fruits preserved in brandy, in sherry and in rum. One mixture of blended chopped fruits happily basking in the last spirit, makes a most piquant topping for ice cream or a tangy ingredient when stirred up with the vanilla mix before freezing.

DO YOU LIKE CAKE?

A springtime snack with a festive air. Generous wedges of angel food cake, flanked by sauce dishes of ripe strawberries, each circle of the luscious fruit surrounding a tiny mound of powdered sugar, in which they are to be "dunked." Goblets of milk complete the repast.

NO NEED TO BE HOSE CONSCIOUS IN '34 STOCKINGS

Right Shade and Right Size Available to All.

BY BETTY O'NEIL.

"I'd like a pair of brown hose size 9."

Time and again a saleslady will hear this from a woman who really looks as though she would be particular and "choosy" about her wearing apparel. But her question indicates that she gives little thought to the ever important question of hosiery. A pair of hose of the right color will add the finishing touch to any outfit and yet so many women seem to underestimate the importance of selecting a shade that will either match or blend with their outfit.

Silk hose have been worn quite commonly for about 35 years. During this period many improvements have been made with the result that today we are able to purchase well fitting, comfortable, sheer hose in beautiful shades.

Why Be Hose Conscious.

Nowadays there is no excuse for being hose conscious as stockings are made to fit any size leg and will give in both the width and length. The tailored ankles give the back of the stocking a slick, smooth effect which every woman likes to have when dressed for any occasion. And too, those dark rings and shadows are disappearing in favor of the clear tones we now have on the market.

The sheerest stockings made are known as 57 gauge 1 thread and are lovely for evening wear. Although they give the appearance of a very delicate flimsy bit of fabric they will, if given good care, wear well. Stockings that can stand harder and more constant wear are 48 gauge and are fine for every day.

New spring and summer shades are being shown and are most attractive. Coral, a pink skin shade, and sun beige, a natural skin shade, will see their share of the board walks this season as these colors go especially well with nearly all the pastel shades so evident in summer formals.

Afternoon Colors.

Hula, a suntan, and Arabian brown, a dark suntan, are good colors for afternoon. They may be worn with white, pastels, and brown.

Puff, a grayish tone, is especially good with navy blue and gray.

Skipper, a true navy blue, is the choice of many who lean toward this color and is quite attractive when worn with an ensemble of this shade.

Sheer non-twist lace clocks are a matter of personal taste. Fine ones about five inches long are in good taste for the afternoon bridge but are not very popular for evening wear.

A particularly nice stocking for sport wear is a silk mesh with a vertical line that is rather unusual and is very attractive on the leg. This may be obtained in only one color—fawn brown.

Silk anklets with rolled cuffs are bound to be in demand this summer. In cool, bright shades of pink, yellow, blue, white, and suntan, they are designed especially and only for sport wear.

MORTAR BOARD

Elizabeth Hawes, American designer, got the inspiration for this surprising square hat from the academic "mortar board." The model photographed is in brown baku.

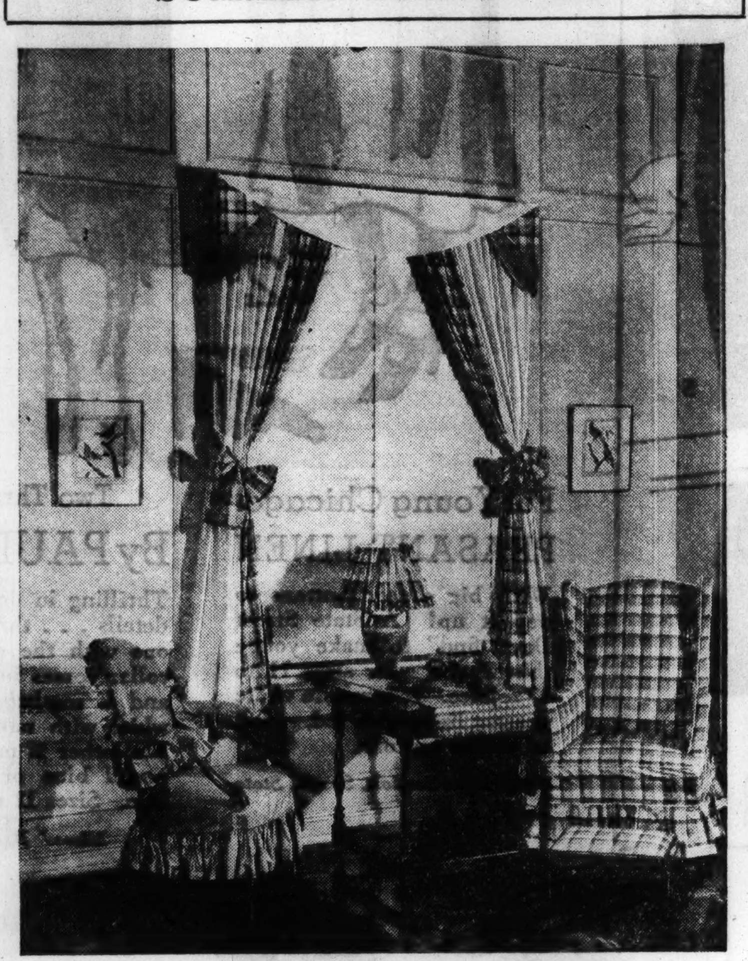
SUMMER DRAPERIES



Edge plain, solid color glazed chintz with a gay plaid and you have most attractive summer draperies for the window, especially if you tie them back with bands of the plaid and make a slip cover of it for one of your chairs. This good looking ensemble was arranged by a State street department store.

PREPARING NOW MEANS COMFORT DURING SUMMER

Right Furniture, Awnings a Big Help.

BY JESSIE TAYLOR.

Feminine in its appeal and lovely to look upon is this season's garden and terrace furniture. It has a partyfied air and is so inviting that it acts as a magnet, drawing us irresistibly toward it; and then we discover, to our surprise, that it is as comfortable as it is beautiful.

This dainty outdoor furniture is made of stemlike iron, painted in a durable finish that will neither check nor peel. It is a modernized version of the Victorian. The lines are simple, but a dainty, lacy design is the effect achieved.

Variety of Designs.

Tables with heavy glass tops, some with surfaces of cork, and others topped with painted iron are in evidence. Chairs of unusual charm have seats that are removable and are fashioned of heavy glazed fabric, embossed in popular grains, pig, pebble, and levant, to simulate lether. They are washable and therefore practical.

The variety of occasional pieces is proof that the designers have let no one "outsmart" them. Game tables, small utility tables, urns, magazine racks, muffin stands, tray stands on rollers; and serving tables on wheels with a multiplicity of convenient cubblyholes for food and beverages suggest an ease of providing for guests' comfort that makes the hostess breathe a sigh of relief.

For the terrace and garden it is smart to group the sets. An unusual arrangement may be effected with a white painted metal center table shaded by a great umbrella made of glazed material in charming color effect of dawn rose, background and silver polka-dots. Surrounding the table are semi-circular benches of unique design.

Another grouping may be a Grecian pink suite. A dainty oval table minus the umbrella, has a heavy glass top and is surrounded by pink chairs upholstered in the aforementioned white letherette seats.

Or a third may be had in crocus yellow with a cork surfaced table, the chairs upholstered in lime green. This set is styled in the more ultramodern lines.

For the Enclosed Porch.

Then the furniture for the partially enclosed porch, or the enclosed porch; the veranda, or the solarium—one becomes almost inarticulate! For instance, a black and silver set is stunning. The smart tubular design, chromium plated on steel, forms the framework for a particularly attractive glider, upholstered in glossy jet moire waterproofed fabric. The wide chairs are gracious in the comfort they afford. One sinks upon the chaise longue and begs to let the rest of the world pass by.

A delightfully modern effect is obtained by the fashioning of heavy brown stick reed in slanting formation. Fitted with puffy coverings in shades of orange and yellow, it is a distinct departure from former types of rustic furniture and is particularly suited to cabin or lodge.

Dazzlingly white "ship-shape" suites embellished in marine designs—anchors, sailor-knots, and pilot wheels—make one long for the sea. Nothing garish or bizarre is evidenced. The color combinations are an artistic delight. Rattan, reed, rush, woven rope, iron, and steel lend themselves to pleasing and unusual fashioning in the hands of the Artisans who have outclassed all former effects in designing porch and garden furniture. Every type of home has received thoughtful consideration—the country estate, the town house, the lodge or cabin in the wildwood, and the cottage on the shore.

Awnings a Summer Help.

Added summer comfort may be obtained by the use of awnings and shades properly and adequately designed. It is surprising the difference in temperature that is achieved by cooling of residential inclosures and interiors through this method alone. Heat is intercepted outdoors and thus the heat laden sunrays do not pass through the window panes if they are propertly shaded. In addition to their cooling effect and comfort the awnings may contribute in a great measure to the beauty and good taste of the home and to its hospitable charm.

There are a few regulation styles and sizes to be had in the stores, but the method of assuring satisfaction is to have the awnings made to order. One may then give play to new and unusual effects and originality in color schemes.

Some stunning treatments are noted in the new Roman stripe awnings. At a distance the thought is, "What a charming and artistic blur of colors." These new stripes are quite in contrast to the more delicate but equally beautiful pastel shades—grays, buffs, and pale greens, which are also shown. The framework upon which the canvas is stretched is heavily galvanized iron, rust resistant, thus assuring no more ugly streakings after rains.

Harmony a Consideration.

To be effective awnings should harmonize with the character of the home in consideration. Proper planning and selection of material gives added charm to a porch, terrace, or secluded corner. Venetian awnings are adaptable to unusual treatment and many smart effects are obtained by the addition of simple decorative designs.

Every awning need, whether it be for restraint or dignity, simplicity or informality, may be realized. And the stores have trained corps of expert workmen ready to measure, design and estimate the awning and shade requirements of home sweet home, be it a gray stone edifice or a clapboard bungalow. And so to summer comfort!

Printed crepe is the material used in this sophisticated formal gown for warmer weather. The unusual collar swerves around the shoulders.

Heavy Rope Soles Latest Thing in Beach Shoe Mode

The last word in beach shoes have heavy rope soles with only a few strips of bright canvas comprising the top, or, for variety, some sport heavy wooden soles lined with cork. Women who like to be cool are making a rush for the new fish net sandals. There's also the usual assortment of rubber shoes, most of which, this year, have heels.

FURNITURE EIGHTH FLOOR

STORES FILLED WITH FASHIONS FOR LITTLE ONES

Three-Way Seersucker Suits for Children.

BY LORETTA LEITNER.

The timeworn expression "Each crow thinks its own bird the blackest" is one statement that every fond parent would verify quite naturally when they look at little Willie dressed in a serviceable three way seersucker suit, oxford cloth, or a jaunty ensemble of cotton crash, basket weave shirt and brown and white checked flannel coat with plaits and belt in back; or at Nancy Jane in any one of the cool, dainty dimities, voiles or organdies.

Styles for the young ladies from 2 to 8 are as numerous as mother's choices. Junior is aping his father's apparel from two years up. And completely happy because "it's like Dad's."

Dresses for Small Girls.

A Chicago department store shows a new line of dresses for little girls that was unpacked yesterday. Dresses and hats to match, dresses and matching panties, coat and dress ensembles, one of yellow pique-voile and white pique coat are a few of the many choices allowed the young miss. A white dimity dress with a small French blue figure has an organdie collar edged in val lace. Another figured dimity is made with a round collar and tiny ruffled frill from neck to hem. Cissy might anticipate a fashion and ask for a silk dress. Youthful tub crêpes are on hand for just such an emergency, inexpensively priced and youthfully becoming. They are made in appropriate Mexican stripes, Roman and candy stripes and a miniature of mother's dress, sleeveless, round necked and tied on at each shoulder in pert knots.

For a serviceable every day dress, guaranteed not to show soil, is one cunning navy blue and white dotted lawn with a white organdie bertha collar with an accordian plaited edging and two narrow red satin bows at the neck and sleeves.

A Place for Gifts.

Doting aunts and uncles who are looking for gifts may solve that problem with a white seersucker-rubber raincoat with blue and white checked collar and matching buttons. Red and white checked cape and hat to match is another rainy day item. Ruffled silk slips and matching shorts edged with narrow lace is another gift note. To mention one of the many trim bathing, sun, and beach suits, terry cloth robes, gaily striped beach wraps, hats and sandals will probably result in three or four bathing ensembles for one little girl or boy—a final selection cannot be made.

Whoever said boys were easier to dress than girls probably had seven daughters—however, the general opinion is that boys' mothers have just as much trouble as girls' mothers. For Sunday junior must have his summer suit like Dad's—light cotton crash shorts, oxford cloth shirt, with an anchor instead of a monogram, brown ties with nautical motifs and a lightweight flannel coat—brown and white checks, patch pockets, half belt and plaits.

Three-Purpose Suits New.

White sleeveless seersucker three-purpose suits are new and ideal for every day. The shorts may be worn with a short sleeved blue and white striped blouse, with the white sleeveless blouse or with the striped blouse and white overblouse. Overalls with modified long trousers are not au fait for playtime. Blue denim is completely passé. Instead bright prints, figures, broadcloth and striped poplins hold the lead.

Not one trick has been overlooked in teaching the youngest generation to know what to wear and how.

POPULAR MODE

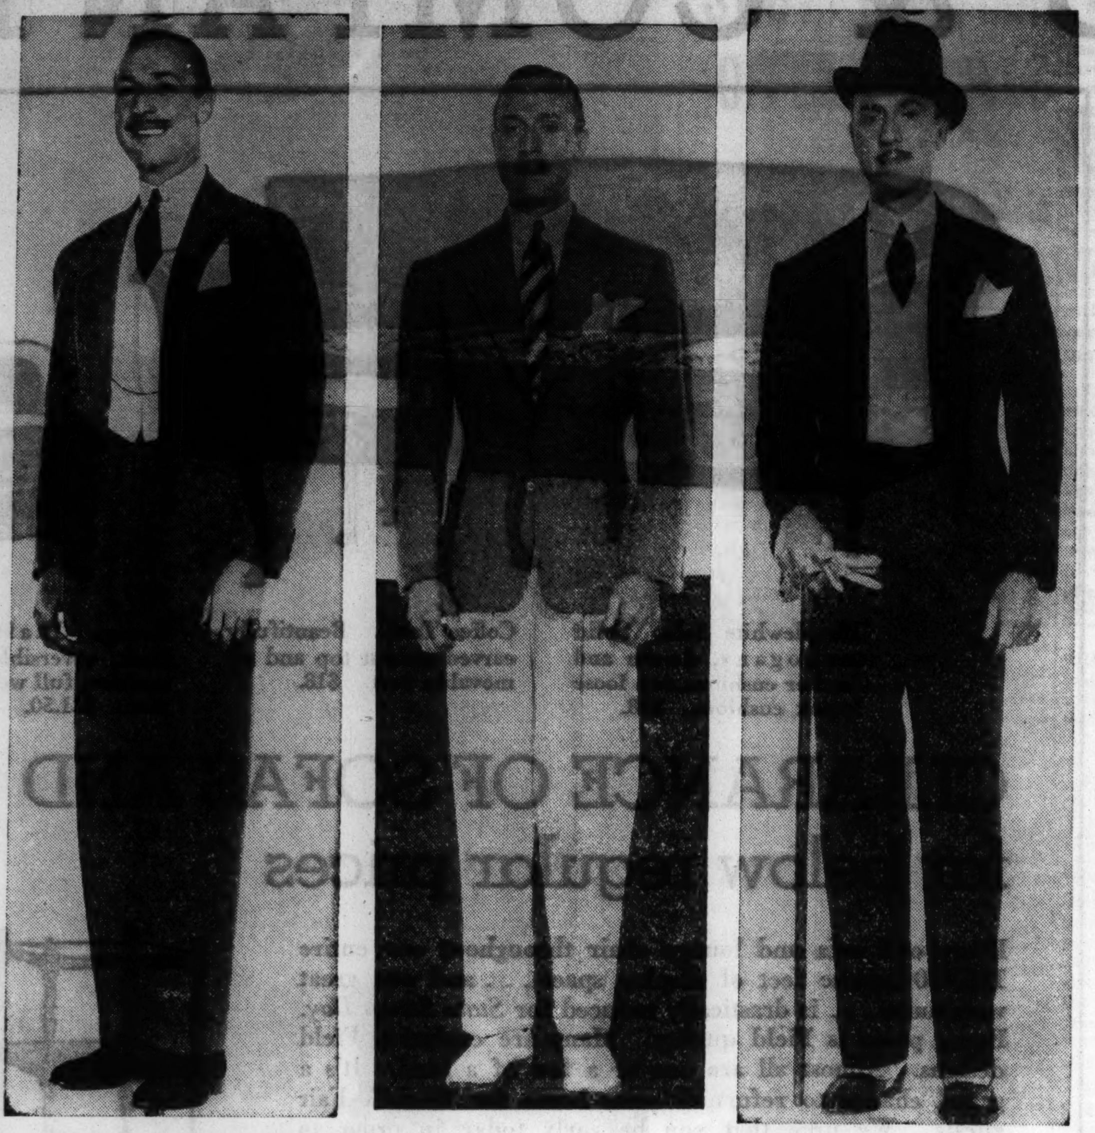
FROM A $10,000 WARDROBE



Jay Eaton, called filmdom's best dressed male extra, shows three 1934 suits from his $10,000 wardrobe. Left to right: Light brown, fine tweed lounge suit with natural linen waistcoat, striped tab collared shirt and brown suede shoes; for the country club, two button jacket of blue mixture Harris tweed, with inverted plait and patch pockets, trousers of light blue striped cricket cloth, plain blue shirt, and white, wing tip buckskin shoes; informal morning or afternoon ensemble with black coat of oxford vicuna material, striped trousers, six button, white linen waistcoat, stiff bosom shirt, black oxfords, white spats, Malacca cane.

IN THE SUMMER A GIRL'S FANCY TURNS TO 'UNDIES'

Finds Dainty Lingerie Is Alluring.

BY DOROTHY PESCHEL.

"In the good old summer time," the office girl's, school teacher's, shop girl's, and school girl's thoughts turn to the finest, thinnest, and coolest things in lingerie.

These women, whose pocketbooks are slender—but who nevertheless long for dainty, soft clinging undergarments in their lingerie cases—now will be able to fill them to their hearts' content. The State street stores this week are featuring fripperies that will meet the proportions of any hard working girl's purse.

For the miss who favors dance sets there are handmade ones that are strictly tailored or beautifully trimmed in Alencon lace. Both are featured in white and tea rose.

Slips to Match.

These sets have slips and nightgowns to match. The slips, with a straight top or V-shaped neckline, are trimmed in lace, with the shadow-proof panels from seam to seam. They also have adjustable straps.

The graceful length nighties of silk crêpe in several styles are form fitting. One style that is particularly appealing is a French blue crêpe de chine with a ruffled lacy neckline. Another gown has tiny cap sleeves of lace. Colors are tea rose, white, dusty rose, and French blue.

For those who prefer petticoats there are several in satin and crêpe, in white, peach, and tea rose.

House coats of seersucker for the business girl are alluring. They are modishly tailored and easy to launder. They come in a variety of gay colors—some are striped, and others in modernistic designs.

Lounging Pajamas on Display.

The shops also have gayly striped beach or lounging pajamas of seersucker. On a hot summer evening they are just the thing for comfort and relaxation. And they never have to be ironed.

Then there are the "roughies." They are nice for wearing around the house and are just the thing for that walk to the beach.

Negligees that will delight any girl's heart are plentiful in the stores. One fetching model of figured crêpe has a high neckline, buttons down the side and a solid colored sash, with short ruffled sleeves. There also are gorgeous lounging pajamas to match.

Another interesting pair, stunning enough to be worn while entertaining, featured dark blue crêpe trousers, figured blue and white print coat and a dark blue sash.

"Briefs" or "skimps" of rayon with either an elastic band or snaps will obliterate unbecoming wrinkles and are delightfully cool and comfortable in extra hot weather.

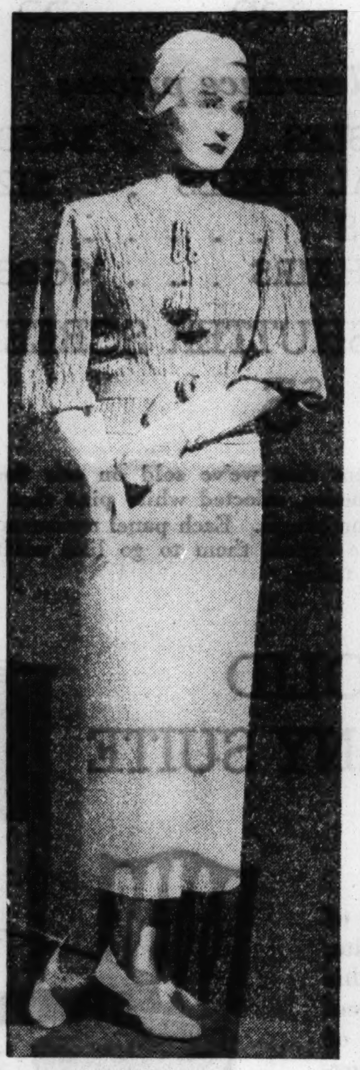
COOL NEGLIGEES FOR THE SUMMER NOW ON DISPLAY

Summer negligees are here. Crisp, dotted swiss affairs in pale blue, flesh and some yellows, with the white numbers tied with cherry colored sashes. Hostess gowns come in bon bon shades of chiffon, in two pieces, a simple nightgown with a long flowing coat of the same or contrasting colored chiffon. A new color to watch in negligees is a lovely soft dark mauve. Over a white satin or chiffon slip, it is as cool as anything you can imagine. Deep coral is another fascinating new shade in chiffon negligees, with sleeves a mass of tiny ruffles from shoulder to elbow.

Foundation Garments in Cool Cotton Voiles

Summer foundation garments come in white and flesh cool cotton voiles and double nets. You can find them in slip-on girdles, and all in one garments with the fashionable uplift brassiere.

KNIT ENSEMBLE



When a dressy blouse of lacy weave is adopted by a boucle ensemble it goes places the more tailored type doesn't frequent. Here's one with short full sleeves that is not out of place at afternoon social functions.

WALLPAPER BIG DECORATIVE AID IN REMAKING ROOMS

Wallpaper is a great aid for barn-like rooms with high ceilings. Here's one recipe for "bringing the ceiling down" and making the total area of the room seem less. Choose a paper having a design in which horizontal lines or patterns predominate and do not cover the walls from the baseboard to the ceiling, but to a point about two feet below the ceiling. Use your molding here, or a wallpaper border.

Then, extend the ceiling paper down to meet the side walls. Thus, you will appear to lower the ceiling. Also, your eyes will follow the horizontal lines in the paper and the room will seem less "tall" to you.

On the other hand, if you are papering a small room with a low ceiling, choose a wallpaper having vertical stripes or patterns to carry the eye up and to add to the apparent height of the walls. And do not "drop" the ceiling, of course.

The best papers for small rooms are those having tiny patterns in light colors. Also, a scenic design will do a lot for the room, lending depth because of its perspective.

When you feel inclined to be a bit hopeless about the architectural drawbacks of your home—don't! Wallpaper can correct myriads of faults if you will give it a chance.

Large Envelope Bags for White Costumes an Eyeful

Large envelope bags for your white costumes are literally eye-filling. Stunning woven effects in brilliant color combinations make them the best looking bags in town. Black and white contrasts tie with the scarlet and blue and white models for a successful round under shopping elbows.

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

To wear a dress without one of the cool neck pieces displayed and modeled so effectively in all of the State street stores seems as lacking in completeness as Mutt without Jeff or corned beef without cabbage. A ruffly collar, a severely plain vest, or just a little cotton carnation or embroidered organdie bow so enhances a frock that a homemade dress will be made to look professionally tailored. A new dress can be made to present so many different "fronts" that your friends will be fooled into believing that you have a new frock for every occasion.

Besides the physical change that a crisp, clean collar brings about, it also contributes a startling mental revival. When a simple little thing like a new piqué guimpe can so elevate our spirits and give us a feeling and air of confidence it is well worth the price, even discounting the practical value of adding another season's life to a discarded last year's dress.

Sales Resistance Ebbs.

Visit the State street stores and plan at least a sightseeing trip through the neckwear. Once you get in sight of these busy counters your sales resistance will begin to ebb, and will hardly exist at all when you get the feel of the material between a knowing thumb and first finger and finally try on a neckpiece.

Here are some of the things you will see:

Two broad lapels of naturally colored cotton material, joined to a narrow band to be fitted under the neckline across the back, and sewed onto the tailored suit coat to form a deep V from shoulder seam to coat closing. With them are two flared pointed cuffs, each linked with navy blue, barrel shaped buttons.

Heavy linen collar with deep reveres, tall flared cuffs, dusty pink color, and ties of matching grosgrain ribbon.

A short tailored vest, front fastening, V neck, pointed collar three inches in width made of a coarse linen crash through which twinkles the blue lining. Cuffs of the same color combination, long and flared enough to allow the upper edge to be turned back a half or three-quarters of an inch to display the lining convincingly.

A broad white linen collar, on top of which is placed a bright red and green Scotch plaid, cut on the same lines but a little narrower to form actually a double collar, the plaid outlined by two inches of white. Cuffs to match in style and color combination.

Flattering berthas of taffeta, net, or organdie. An organdie one, for instance, almost elbow length, flared gracefully, with five half inch tucks encircling the lower edge.

Daisy chains fashioned into little round dog collars and wrist bracelets . . . white daisies with blue or brown centers. There are pink or white rosebuds fashioned in the same way.

Here's a Ruffled Round Collar.

A demure round collar of a double ruffle of box plaited, lace edged net, fastening in the front under the chin with a tiny old fashioned spray of gay spring flowers.

A square sailor collar, short V neck, tiny tailored bow at point of V, yellow linen with a double row of navy blue braid.

White linen vest, about twelve inches from base of neck to lower edge, close round collarless neckline, four metal rimmed, quarter sized eyelets on either side of front placket and a bold, blue grosgrain tie lacing through to a tight little ribbon bow at the neck.

Narrow round collar, fastened in the front with a broad, plaited cat-whisker bow of linen edged in lace. Or the same round collar with a plaited jabot under the chin.

Smooth fine white linen with a dainty pattern of squares formed by drawn threads, fashioned into plain vests, becoming pointed collars with ascot ties, graceful jabots, and simple round collars all edged with charming Irish lace.

FLOWERED CHIFFON

Filmy, flowered chiffon fashions a cool summer afternoon or dinner and dance dress, with deep cape shoulder sleeves and full fluttering skirt that reaches the floorline. Decorative clips accent the square neckline. Pastel colors are available. From a State street store.

FIND FAIR PUTS ITS IMPRINT ON NATION'S STYLES

Changes in Customs and Clothing Noted.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Social events, meaning a gathering of people for any purpose, influence the customs of a people. A Century of Progress Exposition, being a social gathering on an extremely large scale where all phases of social life are given emphasis, has been and is exerting such an influence.

As a result of the 1933 Exposition many changes in the habits and tastes of American people have been noticed. All of these cannot be attributed wholly to the Fair, but in all, the Fair has had some part. Streamlining of automobiles, adoption of color designs, changes in eating habits, changes in thought, and changes in dress can be thus traced to the Exposition.

One of the most noticeable and most immediate of the changes has been in dress. This took place before the very eyes of close observers. Women are noted for clothing style changes, but even man was caught in the effect of the Exposition.

Linens and light colored fabrics have not always been popular for summer wear on Chicago streets. A few years ago a young college student from the south appeared in the loop in a white linen suit. He was immediately ragged by a friend, who made queries as to the location of his broom and as to whether he had any ice cream bars left.

A Memory of the Old Days.

In those trying times restaurants frowned on the daring soul who divested himself of coat and vest and appeared in shirt sleeves. Women blushed, men looked away, and waiters hurriedly warned against the practice. There has been a trend from this conservation in the last few years, but the Fair brought it to a head.

Any man who visited the Exposition immediately thought of cool linens and seersucker suiting, or at the most of a tropical worsted. Not only were they more comfortable, but they were a part of the freedom and swagger of the Exposition's spirit, hitherto unknown in Chicago.

Influence from the South.

Also visitors from the south, wise in their clothing habits and caring little what "Yankees" thought of their apparel, walked the Avenue of Flags and the Midway in true hot weather styles.

Men of the central west opened their eyes and began to see the light. One loop store with a branch in the Fair grounds sold its entire stock of clothing in a few days. Opened as an advertising proposition, the store soon began to show a profit. In the Puerto Rico exhibit linen suits became a stock in trade. Panama hats won the same popularity. In a few weeks men who used to sneer at "dudes" and "cake eater" began to waltz merrily in thin, cool fabrics.

The Fair grounds influence soon permeated the entire city, and before the summer was over white suits, slacks, and other garments usually associated with the patio trade became standard gear.

Changes in Women's Styles.

Women for years have had more freedom in this regard than men, but there were changes in feminine costuming as well. Most women started their Fair visits in ordinary street shoes. After a few miles of unaccustomed tramping the shoes were discarded. Out came low-heeled, broadtoed walking shoes.

"Off the face" hats were discarded in favor of broad brimmed sun hats. Skirts moved up a trifle and became more loosely fitting.

But deeper than the change in clothes was the change in the clothes attitude. Men and women began to care less what others thought of their appearance and to think more of their own comfort.

Typical of this change was the adoption of the cane. This device (a comfortable one, too) had long been frowned on, or laughed at, in Chicago and other central western cities. Its use was considered an affectation, but a few steps inside the Fair grounds changed this attitude.

Another Summer at Hand.

By the end of the summer hundreds were carrying canes, not only in the grounds but on the city streets as well. True, many sticks were of the souvenir variety and the vogue died out after the Fair closed last November, but with the reopening of the Exposition it will be given another chance.

At any rate, as a result of last summer's experience most Chicago clothiers are stocking heavily with tropical apparel. Any Fair visitor this year will be right in the swim if he be dressed in snappy colors, swing a bamboo stick, and care not what his neighbors think.

FOR ACTIVE SPORT WEAR

A vivid red leather polo belt is the smart contrast for this red and white striped drop stitch cotton dress. Wear it for all active or spectator sports events and even for a cool shopping trip in town. From a State street store.

Flat, White Cotton Hats Go with Street Dresses

Very flat, white cotton hats with wide brims and flat shallow crowns are perfect with summer street dresses and white linen suits or ensembles. Very rough straws in high colors with harmonizing bands are alternative.

SPORTS CLOTHES SHOPPING TOUR OFFERS THRILLS

Afternoon Exploring Trip Is Necessary.

BY ORIL BROWN.

If you're out to make the sporting gesture in shopping, take all afternoon for it. The season's togs for swimming and tennis, golfing, yachting, and bicycling demand an extensive exploring trip, colored by ecstasies of admiration and agonies of indicision—unless your budget allows you to tag every fancy with a purchase slip.

Bathing suits are increasingly decolleté. The square of cloth across the front which is all that is left of the old fashioned "top," is either suspended around the neck by a slim strip of wool or makes connections with the shorts by means of straps like those on a princess slip.

Two Piece Suits Are Passé.

Aquatic costumes this year are almost entirely one piece. Gone, alike, are the old two piece suit with a top made like step-ins, and that fad of last summer, the brassier top. Suits lose nothing in colorfulness by the change, however. Those that stick to one hue select a brilliant one. Many others have striped tops and plain trunks with a belt of vivid color at the line of demarcation. Tops in red, white, and blue with trunks in navy and tops in brown, orange, and white with plain brown trunks are favorites.

If you're out on the beach primarily for decoration you'll rush for the suit with a separate skirt laced about the waist like a sailor's trousers and with a turtle necked front tied at the back with a strip of wool.

Shorts for Tennis.

Despite Paris' dictum that the dress is the thing for tennis, American women are insisting on shorts for court wear. Seersucker and piqué in bold stripes are the chosen fabrics. Two piece models are joined by buttons, have V necks, brief sleeves and pockets in both blouse and shorts. One piece outfits run to sleevelessness, sun backs, cunning square buttons, and shorts that fasten down one leg so that the ensemble is easy to get into. Many of them have matching skirts with double plaits in back and a plait in front.

Shorts are favorites for bicycling and also are seen on the golf links. The golf mode this year, however, is chiefly expressed by the brightly striped two piece cotton skirt and blouse in piqué or seersucker, to be worn with a collarless, white pigskin jacket. The upper part of the dress is made like a step in to do away with the need for cumbersome underwear.

Linen Suit in White.

But for variety's sake the golfer can add to her wardrobe a linen suit in white with blouse of red, dotted with black, or in dark brown with a yellow blouse sprinkled with brown dots. Or she may choose one of the gayly striped one piece silk dresses, simply tailored, with square, mannish pockets at the top. On cool days she can use a two piece bouclé suit, loosely knit, with long or short sleeves.

All these things—and dozens more—for sports are on parade in State street stores.

CURLS BARRED IN SHANTUNG.

Curled hair does not become Chinese women, Gen. Han Fu-Chu, dictator of Shantung province, decided, and all who possess it will be arrested.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

State street . . . the happy hunting ground of the woman who seeks beauty. Along that exciting thoroughfare, in this shop or that, every conceivable assistant to physical perfection, from silhouette remoulding to a bar of fine soap, is here for the shopping.

Some of the finest beauty salons in the world are here to be found tucked away in the large shops. Hair stylists are at hand to help her find the perfect coiffure, skilled operators put wide waves in straight hair, deft manicurists make stubby fingers tapering, girls with magic in their fingers give her a facial to forestall the depressing contour sags of age.

In the body departments of some salons the stout are made reed-like, the thin pleasingly plump. In one shop is a skilful young woman who does nothing from nine until six but beautify eyes. If you don't like the line of your eyebrows she's the doctor to see about it; she gives you a new hairline, too, if you wish and if it would contribute to the general effect.

On State street you will find one of the greatest collections of fine soaps in the world, gleaming, colorful bars, culled from England, from France and from Spain. You'll find a perfume bar, where fastidious women may have their own scents mixed for them and that scent made forever their own.

There are powder bars and makeup bars, where powder is blended for the individual and skilled cosmeticians find for each patron the perfect rouge, lipstick and eye shadow.

◆

At the State street cosmetic counters temptation beckons at every step. A walk through the ailes of the Chicago stores, with hundreds of powders, thousands of creams and millions of lipsticks set out in gleaming array is a stroll through a feminine paradise. And a profitable one, too. With such a wealth of beauty aids the woman of Chicago can compete with her sisters anywhere.

Beauty, madam? Of course! Just skip down to State street, ask and you shall receive! ELEANOR NANGLE.

NIFTY CLOSETS ARE EASILY HAD FOR SMALL SUMS

Decorative Wallpaper Does the Trick.

Remember when a clothes closet was simply a place to use and forget—a handy catch-all for dresses and coats? Well, that day is over and now it is just as much a part of the decorative scheme of the house as are the bath and the kitchen. If you don't think this possible, one trip to the closet accessories sections of the State street stores will convince you.

After you've determined your color scheme you can get complete fittings that will turn your closet into a thing of beauty as well as a joy forever. Suppose you want powder blue walls, ivory woodwork and ceiling? Then, introduce notes of cherry red in your clothes boxes, hat stands, and hangers. Or a lively peach or coral pink.

New Closet Wallpaper.

For the clothes closet that will house only masculine garments there is a special new wallpaper that imitates knotty pine so realistically you have to touch it to realize it is not the real thing. Cover the walls with this paper, paint the shelves yellow with chocolate brown trim, and use boxes done in a gay yellow, white, and brown plaid, with perhaps a little red, and you'll have a sturdy, vital looking place that will be sure to please the man whose suits and coats are going to hang there.

If you have a yen for brilliant colors that you don't quite dare to use over large areas of space in your home, open the closet door and go to it! Nothing is too vivid here. You can have magenta walls and a pure white ceiling, or World's Fair blue with chartreuse, or vivid, deep yellow with lime green and white.

Tea-Chest Paper.

For the young girl a charming silver tea-chest wallpaper is pretty. Paint the woodwork white with a line trim of red lacquer and use red and white accessories.

If a closet has fairly ample proportions, it can easily be transformed into a delectable powder room. See that the lighting is adequate, install a dressing table with billowing flounces of crisp, pastel colored organdy, or dotted Swiss, or taffeta, and hang one of the new round, unframed mirrors above it, placing a convenient, upholstered bench or chair before it, and, presto, you have a lovely little nook. If possible, conceal the clothes pole and garments behind curtains of glazed chintz or cretonne.

NEW BEACH SANDALS KEEP THE SOLES AND THE SOUL OFF ROCKS

No more ouching! Some kind soul has designed a beach sandal made of wood which is very light in weight, and can be worn when walking over sticks and stones with which our beaches are strewn, without danger of receiving bruises. This inovation in beach sandals is made on a walking shoe last, is smartly designed and comfortable.

These good looking shoes bespeak greater enjoyment for the beach addicts. The invisible rubber inset in the sole gives elasticity and flexibility to the shoe and assures perfect freedom of movement to the foot when walking. They are shown in a variety of straps and color combinations, high or low heels, and in sizes 2 to 8, in women's models. The men may select their new beach sandals in buff only, with black or white canvas toe strap and heel catch. They may be had in sizes 5 to 11. And, god news, reasonably priced!

DYKES MAKES CHICAGO DEBUT AS PILOT TODAY

Meets Mack, His Boss for 16 Years.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, a bit weary for several reasons, including a 27 hour train ride from the east, arrived home last night. The lads had headaches from the eight defeats in ten games and the pangs got much sharper due to the fact that the railroad folks were breaking in rookie engineers. It was a bumpy end for a very bumpy eastern invasion.

Chicago has seen her south side baseball heroes in only a half dozen games this year, and these under weather conditions not altogether soothing. Starting with the opener against the Athletics today, the Sox under their new management, will play a dozen games at Comiskey park before going to Cleveland on May 29, where, on Memorial day, they will celebrate the second anniversary of the famous Fonseca-Gaston-Berry-Moriarty brawl.

It Was a Misunderstanding.

It will be recalled that it was in League park, to which the Indians returned this year, that Milt Gaston ran his chin against Umpire Moriarty's fist with such force that the ump's wrist was cracked, whereupon Mr. Fonseca, who happened to be passing, stumbled and got one of his spikes tangled in Mr. Moriarty's ear. Mr. Berry, a courteous man at all times, sought to lift the umpire to his feet, but instead fell on him. All these things caused Luke Sewell and other tattletales then with the Clevelands to make off like there had been a concerted attack on an innocent umpire. There was a big baseball trial in which heavy fines were assessed, but the practical verdict was to the effect that "boys will be boys." The incident remains memorable, however, for the reason that Mr. Moriarty, pretty much of a bully up till the time of his lacerations, realized that when a man is 50 it ain't no time to be a fightin'. He now has turned out to be one of the nicest men in the umpiring business.

Jones Faces Macks.

But getting back to the business to be transacted before the Cleveland memorial fiesta:

This afternoon Sam Jones, lone member of the Sox so-called big four pitchers who hasn't gone the full distance in any game this year, will pitch, probably being opposed by Sugar Cain. Though Sam hasn't pitched a full game, he might easily have done so on April 30. On that date he retired at the end of six innings while possessed of an 18 to 3 lead over the Cleveland Indians.

Connie Mack and his boys, currently tied with Detroit for third place, will linger in Chicago three days. Ted Lyons will pitch against them tomorrow and Milt Gaston on Saturday. George Earnshaw will greet the Red Sox Sunday, hopeful of repeating his brilliant four hit performance against them last Monday. The Red Sox will stay three days, followed by the Yankees for three days and the Senators for three.

Dykes Releases Stine.

A goodly turnout is anticipated today, for it is expected that Jimmy Dykes' friends will want to see him in his first home appearance as manager. It also will be the first time that Jimmy has directed his outfit against Mr. Mack, his manager for a mere matter of 16 years.

The Sox are trying hard to sign a catcher, maybe Eddie Madjeski, just given his release by the A's, or Roy Spencer, bounced by the Cleveland Indians.

Manager Dykes announced the release of Pitcher Lee Stine to Milwaukee of the American association on option when the team arrived yesterday. Stine won 12 and lost 14 games for San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league last year.

Several hundred fans composing the White Sox's Boosters' club met the team at the station yesterday and whooped up a welcome for Dykes. The affair was quite a success, the White Sox's Boosters' club having had ample practice in greeting new managers.

BIG TEN ATHLETICS.

While Big Ten track and field athletes are deciding the outdoor championship at Dyche stadium Friday and Saturday afternoons faculty representatives, athletic directors, and coaches will be holding business sessions morning and evening. Schedules will be drawn and several important questions of policy determined.

ELMER LAYDEN.

In advance of the formal meetings there is a gathering today not of general interest to the public, but of surpassing interest to the participants. That is the annual "get together" of directors and coaches at Old Elm for luncheon, with golf before and after. There friendly rivalries no less keen than the contests of their pupils during the scholastic year are determined. It is practically unanimous representation. Elmer Layden of Notre Dame is an invited guest.

Perhaps the principal question of policy to be decided this week-end will be that of training tables for the football squads. Faculty representatives will act Saturday morning on previous favorable recommendation of athletic directors. While decision may not be forecast, training tables are said to have a better chance of being reëstablished than at any time since they were discontinued following the reforms of 1905.

The Wake for several years has been a stout advocate of the training table, at least for dinner. The plan, as we understand it, is for dinner only. Our arguments have been presented often and in full. The principal favorable points, in brief, are warm, nutritious food after hard afternoon practice; at least one adequate meal a day for boys working their way through college and sometimes compelled to scrimp on their food supply; team morale and comradeship arising from thus being together informally during the season.

Objections, to which we do not subscribe, are partly theoretical against any indirect form of subsidizing athletes; that the plan might become the subject of abuses, as back in the old days when all meals were served at supposed cost, with the cost seldom collected. Surely no boy would play football for the purpose of securing free one meal a day during the gridiron eason. Rules also could be drawn as to the number allowed at training table. This, we are informed, is likely to be done.

In justice to the boys giving their time and bringing thousands of dollars in gate receipts to athletic treasuries, The Wake feels they should be served a warm, palatable dinner instead of having the unappetizing cold meals of boarding clubs and fraternities when they are detained by late practice. We urge faculty representatives to consider that phase of the situation, what regulations they may draw for working out the plan.

Wild, Wild Bees.

George has a farm out Cary-way
With a forest of maple trees,
And the other day he found in one
A swarm of wild, wild bees.

Now George says honey doesn't go
With bread, and beer, and cheese,
So he wants two horses in exchange
For the swarm of wild, wild bees.

But wild, wild bees are hard to catch
And horses not always young,
So it's almost safe to make a bet
That somebody's gonna be stung!

LEVINSKY GOES TO HOSPITAL TO GET SOME SLEEP

King Loses Four Pounds; Lena Gets Alarmed.

King Levinsky's disappearance from Los Angeles, Cal., Saturday, four days before his 10 round match there with Art Laskey, was solved yesterday when the Chicago heavyweight was located in Jackson Park hospital.

Levinsky, who was suspended Tuesday by the California Athletic commission until he goes through with the Laskey encounter, was placed in the hospital by his sister and manager, Mrs. Lena Levy, shortly after their arrival from Los Angeles. He is under the care of Dr. Morley Sherin.

King Is "Nervous."

Dr. Sherin made the following statement:

"Mrs. Levy brought Levinsky to my residence around midnight Tuesday and when I saw his nervous condition I took him to Jackson Park hospital for observation. He said he was unable to sleep so I gave him some sleeping powders.

"After a good night's rest he was much better and I probably will allow him to go home today. I believe he will be able to start back to Los Angeles within a week to resume training for his postponed match with Laskey.

"The five days' motor trip didn't do the King any good and he probably was a little flighty and nervous before leaving Los Angeles. There is nothing serious the matter with him."

A recent attack of boils on the back of the head and neck may have tended to lower Levinsky's resistance, Dr. Sherin added.

Lena Got Worried.

When Mrs. Levy learned the California boxing commission had suspended Levinsky she wired Promoter Lou Daro that the King would return to Los Angeles and fight Laskey as soon as doctors said he had regained his health.

Levinsky's condition was the reason for her decision to bring the Kingfish home, Mrs. Levy announced. She said Levinsky had fallen away to a mere 200 pounds, four less than his best fighting weight, in the last week. She admitted becoming alarmed.

MOVE BOUT OUTSIDE.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—(AP)—Firmly convinced there is twice as much money where the $14,800 came from for the postponed bout between King Levinsky and Art Lasky, Promotor Lou Daro announced today that when the Kingfish returns from Chicago he will hold the fight in an outdoor arena.

Daro said he had received telegrams promising that Mrs. Lena Levy, sister of the fighter, and Levinsky would return within two weeks to meet Lasky. A $14,800 sellout had been assured for last night when Levinsky suddenly disappeared.

Dr. Harry Martin, chairman of the California athletic commission, made it known that after Levinsky goes through with his bout here he still has the commission to reckon with.

Cleveland, O., May 16.—(AP)—A broken left wrist received in batting practice today will keep Clint Brown, Indian pitcher, out of the lineup for at least six weeks. ORDER HEAVIER GLOVES TO SAVE THEIR GYM FOES

Three Boxing Mates Are Stopped.

BY DONALD DAY.

Using the hard eight ounce gloves they had brought with them from Poland, the Polish Golden Gloves contestants yesterday stopped three of their sparring partners in their first hard workout in Chicago. Trainer Feliks Stamm immediately requested tougher boys for his team, but after watching the visitors both give and take punishment TRIBUNE representatives decided that hereafter, besides the new sparring partners, the boys will have to use twelve ounce gloves in their preliminary training.

When Walerjan Karpinski, the light heavyweight, waded into Joe Bajka the local Polish boy was so groggy from Karpinski's punches that he had to grasp the ropes to steady himself in the second round.

Both of Karpinski's fists are loaded with dynamite and he is the hardest puncher on the Polish team. He is light on his feet and has a lightning fast left and right swing. It's likely that Karpinski will be pitted against Joe Louis, and if these two boxers face each other next Wednesday night Chicago fans are going to see one of the best fights ever staged.

Pros Box Poles.

The small group of observers who yesterday watched the boys box were loud in their praises of the Polish team and Eddie Ran, the Polish welterweight who ranks among the leading professionals in this country, believes that his countrymen have a good chance of winning four, or more, of the fights from the Chicagoans. Mickey O'Shea, who will fight Ran Monday at Marigold Gardens, was also at Medinah club gym and boxed four rounds with the Polish boys.

Stanislaw Pilat, the highlander heavyweight, has at last fulfilled his chief ambition in America, for he has been provided with sparring partners. Pilat boxed two fast rounds with Louis Goodnough and he also shook Goodnough with his blows. While the visitors admit that Pilat is inexperienced, he has tremendous stamina and courage and can put enormous weight behind his blows. When he steps into the ring Chicago is going to see one of the toughest heavyweights Poland has ever produced.

Like most big men Pilat is also handicapped by excessive good nature and Trainer Stamm has been laboring hard to persuade him to begin fighting from the first gong. Generally Pilat has to take a few stiff punches before he can persuade himself that the fight is a serious one and judging from his match with the German heavyweight Runge which I saw in Poznan a fortnight ago it is going to take a pile driver punch to floor him.

Others Show Class.

Walter Majchrzycki, the best boxer on the Polish team who has been six times champion of his country, twice lightweight and four times middleweight, also showed his class by going two fast rounds. Tadeusz Rogalski, bantam; Szapsia Rotholz, flyweight, and Oktawjan Misiurewicz, welter, also showed championship class against sparring partners.

The wonderful reception which the boxers received from the Chicago Poles in Humboldt park on Tuesday night contained a heart breaking disappointment for at least one of the boys. Majchrzycki, who has been nicknamed Valentino by his comrades, had been looking forward to dancing to the strains of an American jazz band ever since he left Poznan. Majchrzycki is not a bit modest about his dancing ability, for he confesses he is one of the best hoofers in Poznan and topping this the Poles are renowned in Europe as specialists in the tango.

Walter, and some of the other boys were all ready for a thrilling evening at the Humboldt Park pavilion where a big dance was staged after the reception. Bert Cowdrey, who watches over the team during its stay in Chicago, decided he would show them how to enhance their sex appeal, so he borrowed Mrs. Day's bottle of French perfume and showed them how the lady-killers on the Chicago police department prepare for a killing. Taking the various members of the team he used several dollars worth of perfume putting it on their dimples, or where they were supposed to have dimples, and their chins. This, he explained in his fluent Polish, would make them absolutely irresistible to the beautiful Polish girls with whom they would dance.

Ordered Right to Bed.

Walter, especially, was all set to go. Immediately following the reception the police cleared a path out to the automobiles and the boys all thought they were going to be whisked over in state to the pavilion where the fun would begin. But the automobiles started and kept right on going and before the astonished Walter knew what had happened he was back in the Medinah club and being ordered to bed by Trainer Stamm.

Stamm broke the sad news that dancing was not included in the training program and that Walter would have to contain himself until after the bouts. But the discipline of the team is good and the fighters went to bed quietly, some of them to munch on the pineapples provided by an old friend of Cowdrey's.

Yesterday the boys varied their

CHICAGO TEAM TALKS OF MAKING A CLEAN SWEEP

Golden Glovers Continue Gym Swatfest.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Golden Gloves boxers, now in training at the Illinois Athletic club for the international bouts with the champions of Poland at the Stadium Wednesday night, are extremely confident they can defeat their European opponents. This confidence, however, is not affecting their preparations for the bouts.

Yesterday, the second day of boxing, the boys went to work with renewed vigor. Only by proving his superiority to all others in his class will a boy receive an appointment to the Chicago team of eight.

Talk of Clean Sweep.

Chicago wishes the Polish boys success. They may be assured that the decisions will be fair and that the better man, in each of the eight bouts, will win. But the Golden Glovers, from Johnny Brown, flyweight, to big Otis Thomas, 208 pounds of muscle, are talking of making it a clean sweep.

No team ever has lost all eight bouts. France was defeated, 5 to 3; Germany was tied, 4 to 4, and last year Ireland was beaten, 6 to 2. But try to tell Chicago's fighters that any of them will lose. Actually, the basis for this confidence is the fact that Chicago, this year, has the best group of boxers in the seven year history of Golden Gloves.

Diamond rings, engraved with the inscription "Champion Poland versus Chicago," for each of the eight winners have been ordered. The losers in each bout will receive rings without a diamond. The preliminary boxers on Wednesday's card also will receive souvenir medals.

How Boys Paired Up.

Yesterday's program of training matches at the I. A. C., under the direction of Coaches Johnny Behr and Jabber Young, follows:

Otis Thomas, heavyweight, and Joe Louis, light heavyweight, 3 rounds; Ario Soldati, light heavyweight, and Freddie Caserio, middleweight, 2 rounds; Danny Farrar, welterweight, and Henry Rothier, former welterweight champion, 2 rounds; Fred Tyus, welterweight, and Rothier, 2 rounds; Tyus and Phil Kenneally, lightweight, 1 round; Kenneally and Harold Brown, lightweight, 2 rounds; Andy Scrivani, featherweight, and Tommy Barry, bantamweight, 2 rounds; Al Nettlow, featherweight, and Barry, 1 round; Johnny Brown, flyweight, and Patsy Urso, flyweight, 1 round; Brown and Troy Bellini, bantamweight, 1 round; Bellini and Urso, 1 round.

This boxing schedule was supplemented by several rounds of gymnasium work which included rope skipping, bag punching, and loosening exercises on the mat. All of the boys are in excellent condition. They will reach the peak of boxing by Monday afternoon.

OLYMPIC BOARD OPENS SESSION ON BERLIN GAMES

ATHENS, Greece, May 16.—(AP)—The International Olympic committee, facing a delicate situation created by an American protest charging German discrimination against Jewish athletes, today met in formal convocation preparatory to the working sessions starting tomorrow.

The delegates were addressed by President Alexander Zamis at the academy amid a colorful military ceremony participated in by cabinet members and the diplomatic corps.

The committee will draw up the program for the Berlin games. Several sports not heretofore represented have applied for a place on the Olympic program. The question of feminine participation also is up for discussion.

Col. William May Garland of Los Angeles, represented the United States at the opening session and another of the three American members, Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill of New York, is en route to Athens. Commodore Ernest Lee Jahncke of New Orleans, will not attend.

Motorcycle Riders Face Perilous Climb at Cary

Motorcycle riders who will compete Sunday in the seventh hill climb of the Windy City Motorcycle club at Cary, Ill., face a perilous ascent of 150 feet over rough ground at an angle of 50 degrees. Points scored in the competition will count toward the national championship. Several Chicago professional drivers are entered. Among them are Andy Koslow, Bill Altman, Syl Polacek, Bill Castleman, Bob Miner, and Frank Lilgequist. Out of town entries include some of the best hill climbers from coast to coast.

CROWS RESPOND READILY NOW TO NOTES OF CALLER

Shoot Will Be Held Today at Yorkville.

BY BOB BECKER.

Mr. Crow Hunter, the crows are on the alert these days for alarm calls broadcast on a crow caller. It's the nesting season for these black pests of fields and woods and how they do respond to "crow talk."

In company with Paul Harper, an Evanston sportsman, we tried our luck day before yesterday at luring crows within gun range. Although the woods near Wheaton where we did our hunting had been pretty well stirred up a week ago when many nests had been destroyed and the adult crows shot or shot at, we found that this spring just like every other spring, the birds are quick to come to any hunter who knows how to use a crow caller.

They'll Come in a Hurry.

On this hunt near Wheaton two facts about crow behavior were especially noticeable. First, at this time of the year when there are young in the nests, the adult birds have to hear just one or two blasts from a crow caller to take to wing and hustle right to the scene of all the noise. In other words, you really do not need a mounted horned owl to get shots at flying birds. We noticed that if you can get into the woods quietly, hide in shrubbery and then sound the alarm call which is a series of sharp, high pitched notes on the caller [about six or seven], and then follow with the "complaint" call which is a slow draggy note, crows will come to you immediately. If there are several birds together they answer as they start flying to your hideout.

The other day we had one blind in the woods to which crows came immediately after hearing just one series of calls. There were seven birds in the bunch.

You May Get Lone Visitor.

However, the crow hunter need not always expect single crows to answer the notes of a caller. We find that there are times that lone birds will start for the scene of the noise and come right up to one's hideout without uttering a note. That happened on this Wheaton hunt. The two of us had crawled under some wild plum trees. We sounded the caller. There wasn't a reply from any corner of the woods nearby. Suddenly we saw a single crow coming out of the woods straight toward us. We dropped this fellow with our 12 gauge. In a couple of minutes another lone, quiet bird swung around Harper's side of the small plum grove blind. He dropped this one. This bird hadn't replied to our calling either.

Go After Crows Now.

Crow hunters should get into the woods at once to get the best spring shooting for these birds and to destroy nests. Scores of hunters will be in the woodlands of Kendall county today on a concerted hunt held under the auspices of the Kendall County Crow club. Yorkville will be the base of this big shoot which annually nets from 500 to 1,000 crows.

OPEN NEW DIAMOND.

The west park board will open its new softball field in Humboldt park baseball diamond Sunday, when the Hannin-Klein nine will play the Buck McAvoy Boosters.

Demaree's .444 Leads Coast League Hitters

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—[Special.] — Frank Demaree, outfielder farmed to Los Angeles this spring by the Cubs, continued to lead Pacific Coast league hitters today. Demaree has an average of .444 with 171 times at bat in 44 games and 76 hits.

He also leads the league in home runs with 16 and his seven stolen bases tie him with Almada of the Mission club for the league lead. When Demaree was sent back to the Coast league the reason given out here was that he was a weak hitter.

morning program by a brisk walk out to Lincoln park, where they visited the zoo and developed a raging appetite for dinner. There are few zoos in Europe which can compare with Chicago's and none in Poland. The boys wandered around enjoying themselves tremendously. They cannot get over their astonishment at the number of automobiles in Chicago. Poland today has only between five and six thousand cars in operation, including buses and trucks. More than this number could be counted in an hour on any one of Chicago's boulevards.

Yesterday Janislaw Sipinski, the invalid lightweight, refused to remain in bed any longer. Dr. William Rothman, who has been treating Sipinski for an attack of rheumatism complicated with a stiff neck, expressed his satisfaction at the improvement and promised that Sipinski could begin training tomorrow.

"The boy has tremendous vitality and he is straining every nerve to get well," reported Dr. Rothman. "The infra red ray treatments and massage have helped him greatly and he will have his full strength back in a few days. He will undoubtedly be able to enter the ring in first class condition next Wednesday."

GRASS COURTS KEEP GRANT OFF DAVIS CUP TEAM

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Bryan M. Grant of Atlanta, Ga., was not considered as a member of the United States Davis cup team because he is a better player on clay courts than on grass courts, Holcomb Ward, chairman of the cup selection committee, explained today.

"He is a great player and he is capable of beating any of the cup players on any given day, but the committee felt that his game is not as suitable to grass as that of Frank Shields, Lester Stoefen, and Sidney Wood, our probable singles players," Ward said.

They will be on duty Wednesday night at the fourth International Golden Gloves tournament between Chicago's champions and the amateur champions of Poland at the Stadium.

MARA WITHDRAWS FROM FIELD OF FIGHT PROMOTION

New York, May 16.—(AP)—Tim Mara, New York promoter, announced today he was withdrawing from the fight promotion field and would not lease the two major league parks, Yankee stadium and Polo grounds, for boxing this summer.

With the summer's main bouts now listed for the Madison Square Garden bowl, Mara said pressure of the other interests would prevent him from trying to provide opposition in the outdoor field. Mara runs an importing business, a fuel company, and is a bookmaker at the New York race tracks.

No other bidder for boxing privileges at the baseball parks appeared today.

RICHARDS JOINS DAVIS CUP SQUAD; DRILL DELAYED

Philadelphia, Pa., May 16—(AP)—Vincent Richards, professional player, arrived today to give the American Davis cup tennis team a workout, but rain for the second time prevented inauguration of practice.

All members of the squad except Wilmer Allison are here. Suffering from a sprained ankle, Allison sent word he expects to arrive this weekend and start gradual workouts Monday.

Richard Norris Williams, captain of the squad, has yet to see the team in action and therefore declined to comment on Big Bill Tilden's prediction that it could not regain the Davis cup. Tilden predicted victory for the Americans against Canada and Mexico but that they will find Australia "in the way."

Milburn Heads Group to Pick East's Poloists

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Devereux Milburn, for years the leading figure in American polo, is coming back to an active part in the game, according to the announcement made today by F. S. Von Stade, vice chairman for the east of the United States Polo association. Milburn has accepted the post of chairman of the selection committee which will pick the east's team for this year's match against the west, to be played at Meadowbrook in September.

Since his retirement from international play following the successful defense of the cup against England in 1927, Milburn has contented himself with play in the lesser tournaments and has been absent from America during many of the seasons, going to Scotland for the shooting season.

It is probable an east squad will be selected in early July, shortly after the return of the American players from England, and a series of test matches held to decide on the team which will attempt to wrest national supremacy from the west, defending its victory won last year in Chicago.

CUBS WIN, 11-4, AT FLINT; RUSH TO PHILADELPHIA

Bill Lee to Pitch Eastern Opener Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flint, Mich., May 16.—The Cubs disposed of some arduous exhibition duties here today and then hustled on their way for a peek at the eastern half of the National league. The first peek will come tomorrow when the Chicagoans put their pennant ambitions on display at Philadelphia's bandbox park in the opener of a three game series. After that Brooklyn, New York and Boston will be visited in turn.

The chores here today involved nine innings with the Chevrolet Motor team, with which Ki Cuyler, the Cub veteran, started his career in 1920. The Cubs arrived here at noon by auto from Detroit, whacked the Motor team by 11 to 4, and then hopped back in their cars to catch an early Philadelphia bound train out of Detroit. These several crowded hours naturally caused the noble athletes annoyance, but it added a few dollars to the account on which their salary checks are drawn. About 10,000 spectators were present.

Before the game Cuyler was presented with an automobile. He showed his appreciation by hitting two doubles in three times at bat.

Lee Back at Phils.

For the opening ceremonies at Philadelphia tomorrow Charley Grimm, the Cub manager, will include in his cast Bill Lee, the six foot pitcher whose only two big league starts were respective four and two hit affairs. The Phils were the victims of the four hit whitewash, and that explains the haste Grimm is showing in getting the big fellow back in action against the same crowd.

Lee is only one of the new players the Cubs have to show during their tour. Tuck Stainback is another. Also Augie Galan. These young men have been properly publicized, so they should be able to draw at least a few extra customers through the gates at all stops. The manager also hopes they'll be able to contribute toward enough victories to make the trip sufficiently profitable to assure a return home in first place. Altogether twelve games will be played, three in each city, barring the intervention of rainy weather.

Staf Not So Steady.

The success of the jaunt will depend entirely on the pitching, and in this connection nothing can be taken for granted. The Cub staf, as is well known by now, had a tough time during the recent home stay. Lee was the only man not knocked out at least once. However, such occurrences are rare in the lives of Guy Bush and Lon Warneke, so Grimm can be reasonably sure of having at least three men able to step up and give a good account of themselves. But three are not enough. It will be up to Charley Root, Pat Malone, and Bud Tinning to put themselves on a production basis.

For at least a few days Grimm will have to arrange his battle plans without reckoning on help from one to three regulars. The nice part of this predicament is that he has capable replacements, but another injury to an infielder might cause trouble. Woody English is about over a charley horse and could succeed Stanley Hack at third if necessary. Billy Herman, however, will need several more days and possibly another week to recover from his sprained ankle. Gabby Hartnett, whose left elbow was bruised by one of Hal Schumacher's pitches last Monday, expects to be back in action tomorrow.

Camilli Gives Grimm Rest.

For the time being Grimm isn't even considering the return of himself to first base. He retired last week because of ailments and was greatly exercised because he feared his understudy, Dolph Camilli, wouldn't hit. Instead of being a setup at bat as in the past Camilli has been having a gay old time unloading hits for various distances. As long as he continues this sort of work the youthful Italian will remain in the lineup.

Big Ten to Use Olympic Ritual at Title Meet

Many features of the Olympic games, including the parade of athletes, the presentation of medals and uniform attire for officials, will be utilized in the Big Ten track meet at Dyche stadium tomorrow and Saturday. These innovations, adopted last year, are to be made a permanent feature of the conference meet.

Northwestern's band will lead the parade. Officials attired in straw hats, blue coats and white flannel trousers will precede members of each team and their coaches.

Northwestern's May queen will present the medals to the winning athletes. The queen will be selected at the May-day festivities on the campus today.

Speed Up Meet.

Last year's procedure of starting the 220 yard dash, the low hurdles and the 440 yard run on the oval, instead of out of the straight of way beyond view of the crowd, will be retained. By running these events around a turn some sacrifice is made in time, but it affords a better view from the stands.

The shot put and the discus throw will be conducted in front of the stands instead of outside the stadium as in former years. A change calculated to speed up the finals on Saturday will be increased eliminations in tomorrow's preliminaries. The qualifiers in field events will be cut to six instead of 10.

Preliminaries will be held in 10 of the 15 events tomorrow. They are: 120 yard high hurdles, 100 yard dash, 440 yard run, 220 yard dash, 220 yard low hurdles, half mile run, shot put, discus throw, running broad jump, and the javelin throw.

315 Men Entered.

The meet has attracted an entry list of 315 athletes from all the Big Ten schools. Michigan, last year's champion, will be represented by 39 athletes, the largest single entry. Indiana, the Wolverines' closest competitor for the championship, has entered 29 men.

Seven champions from last year will defend titles. Included in these are three of the greatest athletes in Big Ten track history, Charlie Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua of Indiana, and Willis Ward of Michigan. This trio threatens to dominate the meet again just as it did last year.

All three men scored double victories in 1933. Hornbostel is a favorite to again win the half mile and mile runs; Fuqua is expected to capture the 220 yard dash and the quarter mile run, while Ward, if he recovers completely from a knee injury, will probably repeat in the 100 yard dash and the high jump.

Other returning champions are Duane Purvis, Purdue, javelin; Chin Kamm, Illinois, shot put; Irving Seely, also of Illinois, pole vault, and W. F. Busbee, Indiana, discus.

Records in Danger.

Several records will be endangered, but all conference marks are so low it will require almost a super performance to establish a new standard.

It is possible that Hornbostel will seek the one mile record, although he may save himself in this event for the half mile later in the program. The mile record is held by Fall of Oberlin, who set it at 4:15.8 in 1917. At that time teams outside of the conference were permitted to enter the meet.

The half mile record also is held by an outsider. It was set by Scott of Mississippi A. and M. in 1915. These are the only two events in which the records are held by nonconference athletes. Should Hornbostel elect to sacrifice possible team points he probably could establish a new mark.

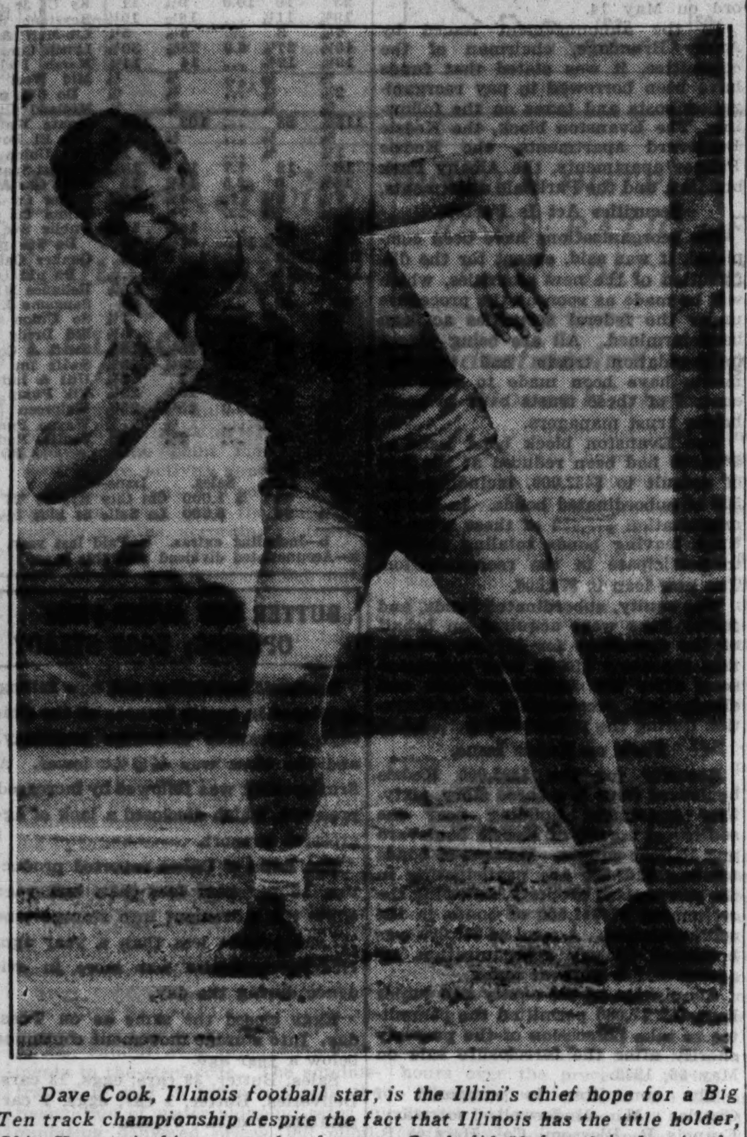
However, since Indiana stands a chance of winning the championship, it is hardly probable that Coach Hayes will send his ace after a record, preferring to have him make sure of two first places.

Another record endangered is the javelin mark, which Purvis set last year with a throw of 208 feet 5¼ inches. Purvis will be back again and would like nothing better than to extend this mark several feet.

Indiana Alumni Will Honor McMillin Tomorrow

Bo McMillin, newly appointed football coach at Indiana university, will be fêted by the school's Chicago alumni at a banquet to be given in his honor at the Medinah club of Chicago tomorrow. Among those who will attend is Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director of the university.

AN ILLINI STRONG MAN



Dave Cook, Illinois football star, is the Illini's chief hope for a Big Ten track championship despite the fact that Illinois has the title holder, Chin Kamm, in his event, the shotput. Cook did 50 feet 3 inches in the Drake relay games.

JACOBS REACHES AGREEMENT WITH SPAIN ON TAX

BARCELONA, Spain, May 16.—(AP)—Joe Jacobs, American manager of the German heavyweight, Max Schmeling, made peace with Spanish authorities today after being arrested at the Portbiu border yesterday for alleged failure to pay taxes in connection with the Schmeling-Paulino Uzcudun fight last Sunday.

The Associated Press was informed tonight that Jacobs obtained his release because he found a person to guarantee payment of the remainder of the taxes due. The name of the guarantor could not be learned. After being returned to Barcelona following his arrest on information that he had failed to pay $2,000 in taxes, Jacobs today showed a receipt, signed by the promoter of the fight, for 5,000 pesetas ($685) which, Jacobs said, he was told would cover all the taxes.

The broadcast will start at 2:15 o'clock Chicago time, fifteen minutes before the game starts. PURDUE ERRS SIX TIMES AS ILLINI WIN, 8-0

Lafayette, Ind., May 16.—[Special.]—Illinois retained first place in the Big Ten baseball race here this afternoon as it combined 11 hits with six Purdue errors and three wild pitches to win, 8 to 0.

Carlson, Illinois pitcher, was given sparkling support and kept the six Purdue hits scattered. A double play in the fourth inning cut off Purdue's only real scoring threat. Moyer, Illinois center fielder, made three hits, including a double and a triple. Score:

Sales of Golf Accessories at a 3 Year High

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

This year's golf activities are by no means limited to the greens and fairways of the courses in the Chicago district, according to information obtained yesterday at the offices of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association in the Lytton building. Golf salesrooms are receiving a generous share of the enthusiasm which seems to have gained considerable impetus since the three year lapse affecting the game, which ended about Feb. 1.

"The whole golfing public," said Charles Nash, president of the organization and manager of the Vernon Country club, "particularly that large portion of it which patronizes the daily fee courses, seems not only to have plenty of money, but to be eager and willing to spend it.

"The sales of golf bags, balls, and clubs at present are actually three times what they were at this period last year, and the manufacturers, I am told, are expecting a still further increase in their business as the season reaches its peak.

Buying Better Merchandise.

"In addition, golfers are buying a better class of merchandise than they have for some time. The 75 cent balls, for instance, are getting a preference over two or three cheaper grades of spheres, and the factories turning out the better balls are working two shifts to their full capacity under the NRA regulations in an effort to catch up with the demand.

"The same situation applies to the clubs. Players are not only buying the best of the standard grades, but they are going for several of the new improvements available this year, such as various types of flexible shafts, the new iron heads, and the new wood heads.

"But the demand for golf bags exceeds that for any other item of equipment. Factories supplying these tell me it is simply impossible to keep up with their orders. It seems nearly every one who ever played has decided a new bag must head his necessities for this year."

Experiences Caddy Shortage.

Nash explained that his statements were based partly upon contact with leading golfers, professionals and amateurs alike, and partly upon the results of conferences with three leading golf wholesale organizations in the central states, with headquarters here.

Ted Moreau, manager of Mid-City and secretary of the Daily Fee association, gave emphasis to the Nash report by saying that on three occasions already this year he has run short of caddies, indicating that the demand for club toters has been much heavier than expected.

The annual golf party of the Edgewater Beach hotel will tee off Saturday night. Tommy Armour of Medinah and Horton Smith of Oak Park will head the professionals, while Don Armstrong of Aurora, Illinois state champion, and George Dawson of Glen Oak, the Chicago district title holder, will be among the honored amateurs. Harry Radix, president of the district association, will be toastmaster.

Frank Murray, manager of the Ravisloe Country club, announces that the homewood course will hold its Spring Get-Together tournament for men members Saturday. There will be no greens fees, with $3.50 covering luncheon, dinner, and entertainment for each contestant.

Big Run will hold its official opening Saturday with an 18 hole invitational tournament. Dancing will follow in the evening.

Top Weight in Derby to New Deal, Plight

High weight of 119 pounds was assigned to New Deal, from J. W. Parrish's stable, and Plight, the Texas Derby winner, yesterday for the renewal of the $10,000 Illinois Derby at Aurora Wednesday.

Mata Hari, the sensational filly from Dixiana stable, must pack 117 pounds. The Derby weights assigned scale down from 119 to 105 pounds.

The weights, according to the conditions of the race, are 122 pounds. Nonwinners of $5,000 in a race or $2,500 twice in a race are allowed three pounds; nonwinners of $2,500 or $1,500 three times are allowed six pounds; nonwinners of $1,050 or a race other than claiming event, allowed nine pounds, and maidens get a weight advantage of twelve pounds.

Should Alex Gordon start his Kentucky Derby failure, Sir Thomas, in the race the horse will be asked to carry only 110 pounds.

With 12 Derby candidates already on the Aurora course and others scheduled to arrive within the next few days, it will not be surprising if the Illinois Derby field numbers 15 or more.

Altmark, the fleet California sprinter, has been barred from further racing at Aurora. In three of his four starts at Aurora he has either been left at the post or refused to extend himself. On the other occasion he won. That record was too inconsistent, the stewards decided. He was ordered scratched out of the Oswego handicap yesterday.

A saliva test was taken yesterday of Adviser, which finished out of the money in the third race. He is owned by Mrs. E. Delfosse.

NINE BIG TEN NET TEAMS OPEN TOURNEY TODAY

With nine Big Ten schools represented the conference tennis meet will start this morning at 9:30 a. m. at the University of Chicago's varsity courts. Play will continue until dark through today and tomorrow. Three titles, the singles championship, the doubles championship, and the team championship of the Big Ten will be decided Saturday afternoon.

Chicago and Minnesota are the defending co-champions in the team competition. The Maroon doubles team of Max Davidson and Trevor Weiss will defend its title in that competition. Last year's singles champion, Britzius of Minnesota, has graduated. Indiana is the only school not represented in this year's meet.

It is expected that the first two rounds of singles and the first round of doubles play will be completed today. Leading singles competitors are Davidson of Chicago, runner up last year, Earl Tetting of Northwestern, who defeated Davidson in a match three weeks ago; Roy Black of Wisconsin, Lowery of Purdue, Chamber of Ohio State, Weiss of Chicago, Sherer of Minnesota, and Kean of Michigan. The Maroon doubles team will get its chief competition from Sherer and Huber of Minnesota, Tetting and Sink of Northwestern, and Vandezee and Fletcher of Iowa.

It's convincing to hit a few balls with a Kroydon De Luxe Iron. See for yourself how easy it is to get the ball up—how straight it goes for the flag. A LONGER NOSE WOULD BE HELP TO MISS MELODY

Dogmata Beats Champion 2d Horse by Inch.

BY FRENCH LANE.

No doubt the champion "second" horse in this racing territory is Miss Melody, the daughter of Prince of Wales-Melting Star, which races for Stuyvesant Peabody of Chicago.

She paraded to the post 14 times last year, won two of her engagements and finished second on nine occasions. In most of those seconds she was beaten only by a nose or a head.

Aftr two warm-up starts at Aurora Trainer Bob McGarvey sent her out after the Oswego handicap yesterday against the fleetest sprinters at the track.

And what did Miss Melody do?

She showed a spectacular burst of speed a sixteenth of a mile from the line of finish and poked her nose in front. Jocky Arcaro was on her back and was riding desperately. He was crouching even lower than Tod Sloan did in his palmy days in order not to let the strong wind sweeping up the stretch retard them on their journey.

Runs Second By an Inch.

Three strides from the wire Miss Melody's nose still was in front. Yet when the field thundered past the pay-off station it was Dogmata's nose which showed first. It gave him a victory by an inch over Miss Melody which again finished second. Supreme Sweet, after showing her usual line of early foot, was dropping back but saved third money.

The field ran closely grouped nearly all the way. Dogmata did most of his running on the extreme outside. He had been a rogue at the post and delayed the getaway before Starter Wingfield could get them lined up for a perfect send-off.

Jocky Manifold kept Dogmata back off the fast early pace which Supreme Sweet, Foxy Quiller, and Miss Melody were cutting out. It was a dizzy pace, for they were at the half in :47 1-5 and had stepped the five-eighths in :59 2-5.

Gives Dogmata His Head.

After this first five furlongs had been run Manifold gave Dogmata his head. He mowed down the leaders one after another until he caught and passed Miss Melody in the last two jumps.

Dogmata is a son of Dozer-Annie Jordon and is owned by H. C. McConnell, an Illinois turfman. He was the lone 3 year old in the race and as a result of his victory appears as an almost certain starter in the Illinois Derby. He came from behind in this short race in a way to indicate that he might be able to run all day. In the mutuels Dogmata paid $7.98.

The program yesterday was arranged to give sprinters a chance to display their best wares. In the Plano purse, a dash at six furlongs, Charming Sir lasted just long enough to beat Irish Image by a short head, with Wild Turkey close up in third place. Charming Sir was an odds on favorite at $3.58 in the mutuels. This was his third victory at the Aurora course. He lead all the way, but could not have withstood Irish Image's challenge for many more strides.

Jocky J. Hernandez was so exhausted after the whipping and kicking he gave Charming Sir to keep him out in front that he almost fell out of the saddle when he came back to dismount.

Okapi, Sloane Entry, Takes Belmont Purse

New York, May 16.—[Special.]—Running away from his rivals in the last furlong, Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Okapi today won the 41st running of the Toboggan handicap, as the spring meeting at Belmont park began with 12,000 present. The son of Eternal won the stake last year and is the fourth in the history of the event to win the race two years in succession.

The result was a continuation of the good fortune which has attended Mrs. Sloane's Brookmeade stable silks this season. Her horses before today had won the Florida Derby, Chesapeake stakes, Wood Memorial, Kentucky Derby, and the Preakness stakes. Okapi yesterday earned $3,250 by his dash down the Widener chute, and the earnings of the stable are approximately $100,000 for the year.

Winner at 7 to 1.

Okapi won in a drive by half a length. He was a 7 to 1 choice in a field of 15, one of the largest to go to the post in the history of the race. George D. Widener's Kawagoe was second, a length before C. V. Whitney's High Glee. John Simonetti's Sergt. Byrne was fourth. Kawagoe went to the post a slight favorite at 5 to 1, with Sergt. Byrne the second choice at 6 to 1.

The track was called only good by many observers, although the times made were fast. The wind and sun did much to improve the condition of the racing strip and Okapi was timed in 1:10 3-5 for the three-quarters of a mile. He carried 117 pounds as against 104 when he scored last year. His time yesterday was a second and four-fifths faster than that a year ago.

Garner Boots Him In.

Equipoise won the Toboggan in 1932 in 1:09 3-5. The veteran Mack Garner, who had the leg up on Cavalcade in the Derby, was in Okapi's saddle. He got off well, and sped along with the van when Pairbypair and then High Glee led. Soon Sergt. Byrne loomed out of the pack, engaged High Glee, and the two raced head and head for a furlong, with Garner waiting behind them with Okapi. Sergt. Byrne held a slight lead during his duel.

DOGMATA much the best; was in close quarters early, then forced back sharply when SUPREME SWEET came over sharply on the turn; recovered quickly, gained gradually, and wore down MISS MELODY in the closing strides. EVANSTON BLOCK BONDHOLDERS TO GET PAYMENTS

Amount to $2 Each $100; 5 Properties Acquired.

BY AL CHASE.

Coincident with the announcement by the H. O. Stone & Co. bondholders' protective committee that five properties have been acquired for depositing bondholders, it was stated that a distribution of $2 on each $100 of bonds of the Evanston block, at the southeast corner of Main street and Chicago avenue, Evanston, will be made May 28 to all depositors of record on May 14.

In the announcement issued by Avery Brundage, chairman of the committee, it was stated that funds have been borrowed to pay reorganization costs and taxes on the following: The Evanston block, the Kedzie Boulevard apartments, the Kedzie Palmer apartments, the Albany Park building, and the Parkdale apartments.

Securities Act Is Factor.

The reorganizations have been completed, it was said, except for the distribution of the new securities, which will be made as soon as the procedure under the federal securities act can be determined. All are being placed in liquidation trusts and arrangements have been made to turn the control of these trusts over to bondholder trust managers.

The Evanston block bond issue of $[illegible]60,000 had been reduced at the time of default to $432,000, including $32,500 of subordinated bonds. In the reorganization $78,450 of these were retired, leaving bonds totaling $353,550 to participate in the reorganization. The new loan is $76,000.

The equity, subordinated bonds, and junior liens were acquired on behalf of the depositors for $11,000, permitting the committe to take possession soon after the foreclosure sale and eliminating receivership administration during the redemption period.

Facts on Kedzie Issue.

Security for the $325,000 Kedzie boulevard issue is a three story, sixty-four apartment building near the southwest corner of Kedzie boulevard and Palmer square. Holders of bonds totaling $263,500 are participating in the reorganized property, following the retirement of $61,500 of bonds in the reorganization. A total of $63,000 was borrowed to pay reorganization expenses and delinquent taxes.

Acquisition of the equity and junior liens for $7,000 permitted the committee to take possession of the property shortly after the foreclosure sale on May 26, 1932.

The committee is composed of Charles M. Moderwell, secretary; Francis R. Blossom, Col. Horatio B. Hackett, J. L. Kraft, and Mr. Brundage. William M. Richards is assistant secretary.

ANACONDA METAL STOCKS AMPLE DESPITE STRIKE

Anaconda, Mont., May 16.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Anaconda Copper Mining company, in their annual meeting here today, heard an official of the company explain that regardless of cessation of operations in the Butte mines, the company has ample stocks of metals on hands to meet the fabricating and operating demands for many months. If necessary it can obtain supplies from its other properties.

A formal report on the strike situation was made by J. R. Hobbins, vice president, who explained that "this strike resulted from the presentation of demands, in the form of a proposed agreement, which included rates of pay that were more than double those now paid. In addition they included changes in working conditions which might still further have increased the labor costs to an amount equal to the demanded wage increases.

Cornelius F. Kelley, Grayson M. P. Murphy, and Robert E. Dwyer were reëlected as directors.

GLOBE & RUTGERS MAY RESUME UNDER NEW PLAN

New York, May 16.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler today approved submission to creditors of a plan for reorganization of the Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance company. The plan, made possible through the rehabilitation statute added to the New York insurance law by the legislature in 1932, is intended to enable the company to settle its debts and resume business.

It provides that the principal amount of all claims up to $500 will be settled in full and in cash. Claims exceeding $500 will be paid one-half in cash, with a minimum payment of $500 and the remainder in second preferred stock.

American Banking Group Extends German Loan 1 Yr.

BERLIN, May 16.—(AP)—The newspaper Deutsche Allegemeine Zeitung announced tonight that credits advanced in Germany by an American group headed by the Lee-Higginson Trust company of Boston had been extended another year. The newspaper said the interest rate had been reduced from 4½ to 4 per cent on the credits, which originally totaled $125,000,000. It was explained that German bankers, after withdrawing from an international group and making separate arrangements with the reich finance minister, had reduced the amount of credit involved to slightly more than $71,000,000.

BUTTER OFF AFTER FIRM OPENING; EGGS STEADY

Scattered liquidation and new selling developed in butter futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, and the close was ⅛@⅜c lower. A firm opening was followed by increased pressure, which disclosed a lack of aggressive support.

The Land o' Lakes reported production 16 per cent less than last year while the movement into storage was 217,000 pounds less than a year ago. Hedging pressure was more in evidence during the day.

Eggs closed the same as on Tuesday. Into storage movement continues below a year ago.

MANUFACTURER DEMANDS CHANGE IN NRA ACTIVITIES

St. Louis, Mo., May 16.—(AP)—Asserting the Blue Eagle is "meeting with growing indifference, if not antagonism," Robert L. Lund, chairman of the board of the National Association of Manufacturers, called today for a radical change in NRA activities.

Lund, addressing the Associated Cooperative Industries convention here said changes were necessary if "we are to be able to avoid disastrous delays in the progress of rehabilitating the country." He attributed "difficulties" of the NRA in part to great differences in the philosophies of the many groups engaged in recovery activities.

Praising English recovery activities, as contrasted with those of the United States, Lund asserted that "the low point of the depression was reached in both countries during 1932, and with our recovery program, which caused wide fluctuations, we have had an economic advance not materially different from that in England."

"We are faced with a growing federal debt, estimated to reach eventually 34 billion dollars, and with the difficult problem of shifting back to private management our industry and agriculture now largely under the direction of government bureaus," he said.

Hay Is Becoming Scarcer; Prices Advanced $1 Here

TIME TO CURB NRA, DECLARE MUTUAL BANKS

Cite Taxpayers' Burden; U. S. Rail Control Hinted.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 16.—The Ned Deal has done much good, but it is time to call a halt to some of its extreme enactments and to consider a return to greater private initiative, according to statements made today at the opening of the fourteenth annual conference of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

Nearly 1,000 bankers from savings institutions in eighteen states having 13,500,000 depositors are attending the sessions.

They heard Philip A. Benson, president of the association urge a modification of certain New Deal legislation on the ground that the least government is the best government.

Burden on Taxpayers.

"There is one feature of the many varied governmental activities of the last year that I believe will be borne in upon us with increasing force as the months go by," he said. "Every dollar spent for relief, for recovery, and for governmental expense and activities of every kind is going to be repaid eventually by the taxpayer. The whole of our increasing national debt, with the interest thereon, must be paid through the levy of taxes. The only exception is some loans to business that will be repaid in the course of time."

Henry R. Kinsey, president of the Savings Bank association of the state of New York warned against the absorption of the Mutual Savings banks into a single federal or socialized system of banking.

C. Willard Young, investment counsel, predicted continued inflation as "inevitable" under its fiscal policy. He also attacked what he called the "parlor pinks" of the brain trust.

U. S. Rail Control Hinted.

Government control of railroads may prove necessary, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, told the conference. He qualified his remarks by saying that he had "no desire to assume the rôle of propagandist for public ownership and operation, or to have such a policy adopted, until the public either wants it or believes it to be necessary. He expressed a hope for lower rail and passenger rates through the instalation of modern equipment, unification of terminals, and reduction of unnecessary costs.

"There are two main obstacles to these future possibilities," he added. "One is the attitude of individual railroad managements, which have been brought up in the hard school of competition. The other obstacle will be supplied by labor, and it is a very serious one. Economies in railroad operation are bound, in large part, to be labor saving economies."

MUNICIPAL DEBT RELIEF BILL SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., May 16.—(AP)—The long and persistent effort by debt-ridden municipalities to obtain legislative relief on more than one billion dollars of overdue obligations neared fruition today when congress completed action on the McCarran-Wilcox bill.

The senate sent the measure to the White House after approving the conference report. The house had taken similar action Monday. President Roosevelt is understood to favor the bill in its present form.

Less liberal than the original bill introduced by Representative Wilcox [Dem., Fla.], the measure provides: That any city or taxing district may petition a federal court, with the consent of holders of 51 per cent of its debts, to approve a plan to reduce the debt or defer the interest payments. If the court approved the plan, the debtor would be required to obtain the endorsement of holders of two-thirds of the amount in each class of the debt and three-fourths of the aggregate before it could take effect.

ASK BANKRUPTCY FOR WILLOUGHBY TOWER BUILDING

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed against the Willoughby Tower Building corporation in the United States District court yesterday by the law firm of Ratner, Chapman & Ratner, representing three bondholders with defaulted interest coupons totaling $22,000. It was indicated a motion for the appointment of a receiver will be made at the end of this week.

The petition alleges that the fixed indebtedness of the building amounts to about 3 million dollars without reference to bank loans and operating expenses, and that past due interest on first and second mortgages totals $400,000.

The building was erected on leased ground under a 99 year lease, but the lease is in default. On Jan. 25, 1934, the bondholders' committee reported that no payments had been made on account of ground rent for Aug. 1 and Nov. 1, 1933. The trustee is the Central Republic Trust company.

Chicago Heights Bank to Make 35 Pct. Payment

A distribution of 35 per cent, aggregating $283,852, to creditors of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago Heights, has been authorized by the controler of currency, John L. Schlener, receiver, announced yesterday. In January the bank paid an initial payment of 33 1-3 per cent. After the present payment deposit liabilities will amount to $328,000 against which are assets with a book value of $731,000.

Cities Service Wins Right of Appeal in Richfield Case

Los Angeles, Cal., May 16.—(AP)—The federal court today granted the Cities Service company permission to appeal from a court order that authorized the Richfield Oil company of California to proceed with a reorganization plan calling for the sale of Richfield to the Standard Oil Company of California for $23,500,000.

Although Arthur W. Cutten bought and sold in excess of 18,000,000 bushels of grain during 1930 and 1931, reports of his holdings of over 500,000 bushels at any one time were reported to the Grain Futures administration only during 16 days in November, 1931, made by Bartlett-Frazier company.

This information was brought out yesterday by Leo F. Tierney, attorney for the Grain Futures administration, in an action being held in the Appraisers Stores building in which the federal government is seeking to disbar Mr. Cutten from future grain trading in the country's grain pits.

J. F. Wade, secretary of Bartlett-Frazier company, under cross-examination by Mr. Tierney, stated that, while he believed this information to be so, he could not definitly say it was accurate without checking the figures in his company's books.

U. S. Charges Conspiracy.

The taking of testimony yesterday included examination of the records of the Bartlett-Frazier company and of James Kidston & Co. The records disclosed a number of accounts with the two companies which were controled by Mr. Cutten. The government charges that Mr. Cutten conspired with a number of Chicago grain brokerage houses to divide his accounts so that no one of them would show a holding in excess of 500,000 bushels, which would have required a report to the grain futures administration.

Wade testified that Mr. Cutten controled through guarantees five accounts with his firm, which were known as "No. 7," "No. 20," "Maud Cutten," "D. S.," and "Mrs. No. 7." He insisted that no instructions regarding the handling of these accounts came from the firm, all instructions coming directly from Mr. Cutten.

The witness added that when any account in the firm exceeded 500,000 bushels it was automatically reported to the grain futures administration.

Cutten Always Bullish.

Ross Kidston, a partner of the Kidston company, told the hearing that Cutten has been bullish during his 25 years of operations 99 times out of a hundred. His statement was supported, more moderately, by Arthur F. Lindley, a partner in Clement, Curtis & Co., who described him as being by nature an operator on the advancing rather than the declining side of the market.

A part of the Cutten defense is that if there were some discrepancies between the figures the government thought it was entitled to and those furnished by Cutten they may have been due to a misunderstanding of the government's regulations.

Orville J. Taylor, attorney for Cutten, cross-examined Wade with respect to government examination of Bartlett-Frazier's books during 1930 and 1931.

Agents Lack Suggestions.

Wade testified that government agents inspected the books frequently and he made it his business to find out what they were investigating. He said that on one occasion they asked to see the Cutten accounts. At the conclusion of their examination he asked if there were any suggestions as to their handling, but was told there were none.

Discussing the government's regulations under the grain futures act, Wade said he did not believe the local office had supplied him with adequate information as to changes in rules, amendments, etc., although he tried to keep himself fully informed. He said he made repeated efforts, both at the Chicago office and from Washington, to get adequate information, but this was never given him. Only after the Cutten action was started, he said, was he able to get some additional information.

Describe "Special Account."

Charles D. Prescott, another partner in James Kidston & Co., testified that so-called Cutten accounts with his firm were "No. 8"; "No. 59," which was in the name of R. J. Cutten, and "No. 8 Special." The latter account was inactive during the period of 1930 and 1931, regarding which the government offered evidence. He said that on Aug. 12, 1931, following a purchase of 200,000 bushels of grain for No. 8 account, which carried the account to 500,000 bushels, 5,000 was immediately transferred to No. 8 Special, which left 495,000 bushels in the No. 8 account. This was just under the amount above which a report would have been necessary.

Expect Kaspar State Bank to Reopen July 2

The reopening of the Kaspar American State bank has been assured by the action of Superior Judge Harry M. Lewis in declining to order the receiver to pay a dividend to depositors, Otto F. Ring, counsel for the reorganization committee, said last night. Judge Lewis made his ruling Tuesday after the reorganization committee presented evidence showing that $300,000 in new capital has been provided.

It is expected that the new institution will open for business July 2, Attorney Ring said, making available $900,000, or 40 per cent of the present deposit liabilities of $2,882,000. Waivers have been received for the remaining 60 per cent.

Building Given to Bank.

At the same time it was learned that the Kaspar family, which has controled the bank for fifty years, has turned the banking building over to the new bank free of encumbrances as a memorial to the founder, William Kaspar.

The building was owned by the estate of William Kaspar, of which Otto Kaspar, president of the bank, and Eugene M. Kaspar, vice president, are trustees. It is understood that the Kaspar family will not be important stockholders in the bank after the reorganization.

"The action was a fine gesture on the part of the family who lost practically everything they had in the bank and are now turning over the building," Attorney Ring said. "The building is conservatively valued at $40,000 and is free of debt."

Capital and Surplus $300,000.

On completion of the reorganization the bank will have a capital of $250,000 and surplus of $50,000. The new capital is all in cash, in addition to which the receiver has on hand $400,000 cash and convertible assets with a present market value of $600,000. Thus liquid assets, Attorney Ring said, will be considerably in excess of deposit liabilities.

Deposits of the bank at one time were in excess of $12,000,000. When the bank closed at the beginning of the bank moratorium deposit liabilities stood near $5,000,000. After payment of preferred claims and a 15 per cent dividend to general depositors on the amount not waived, there remained $2,882,000, of which 40 per cent, or approximately $900,000, will be available immediately.

Triner Is Committee Chairman.

James M. Triner, president of the Triner Scale company, is chairman of the reorganization committee.

The bank, founded in 1884, is one of the oldest outlying institutions in the city. It operated until 1909 as a private bank and then acquired a state charter. It was merged with the American State bank about ten years ago. The bank is located at 1900 Blue Island avenue.

JAPS' INVASION OF BUSINESS IN PANAMA SPREADS

PANAMA, May 16.—(AP)—Two new Japanese firms have invaded Panama, opening stores on Central avenue and extending the radius of oriental business in the local market. The Japanese now virtually monopolize trade in the cheaper brands of merchandise, and have forced a large section of local commerce which formerly refused to stock with cheap goods to follow their lead.

Spanish Official Aroused.

MADRID, May 16.—(AP)—Minister of Labor José Estadella asked the cabinet today to take prompt action against Japanese "dumping" of commercial goods in Spain and its colonies. He said it was "endangering the Spanish textile industry and market, especially in the Canary Islands and Morocco." He requested immediate revision of commercial treaties between Spain and Japan.

CUSTOMER STOCK RESERVE RULING BRINGS CONFUSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The federal reserve board having ruled there is nothing in federal statutes prohibiting state banks, members of the federal reserve system, from buying and selling corporation stocks for the account of customers, the question whether the same privilege will be extended to national banks became an issue of no little consequence today.

Final determination, in this instance, must be made by the office of the controler of currency, and it was indicated that unless congress took on itself quickly the duty of interpreting that part of the Glass banking act of 1933 which caused the controversy, a formal ruling by the controler would be made within a few days.

Tourtelot Becomes Head of Chicago Credit Group

E. M. Tourtelot, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, was instaled as president at the thirty-seventh annual banquet of the Chicago Association of Credit Men last night in the Palmer house. W. J. Claussen took office as first vice president; L. E. Schroeder, as second vice president, and Robert R. Mintz, as treasurer. Maj. Norman Allen Imrie, of the Columbus, O., Dispatch, was guest speaker.

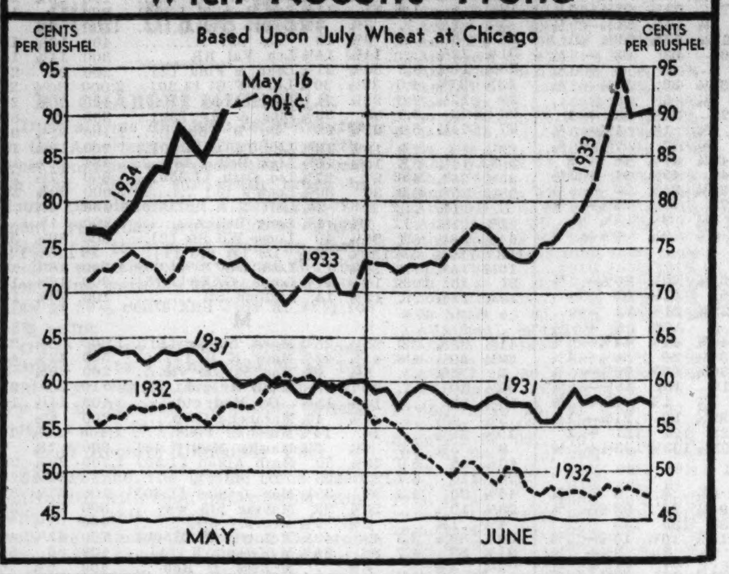
Wheat Prices in May and June of Past Years Compared With Recent Trend



Steel Activity Gains Slightly; Caution Grows

Although steel mills of the country operated last week at 61 per cent of capacity, one point more than the week before, activity appears to be approaching a peak and some apprehension has risen over the outlook in coming months, according to the Iron Age.

The current stocking of steel, mainly induced by price increases, will tend to rob the third quarter of tonnage and depress operations after July 1. The concern over such prospects has reacted upon prices of heavy mealting steel scrap, whose composite has fallen to $11.67 per ton, the review points out.

Leveling off of automotive production, continuance of western drouth tempered only by local rains, and labor fermentation also contributed to waning in confidence.

Miscellaneous Demand Good.

On the other hand, concedes the review, releases from miscellaneous sources are holding their own, and the operations of even tin plate mills have received new impetus.

Steel company executives and officials of the National Recovery administration are holding parleys this week at the capital over proposed amendments to the steel code. The administration is said to favor not only the recognition of water shipping rates in quotating delivered prices, but elimination of the ten day period of grace after filing of new prices.

The mills will probably be able to fill by July 1 all their commitments except those in strip and some finishes of sheets, according to the review. Sheet makers will soon fix final dates for the acceptance of specifications; one mill in fact has already shuit its books to releases for this quarter.

Buyers Grow Cautious.

"Evidences of increasing caution reflect business prospects in general and the labor outlook in particular," says the Iron Age. "The rising tide of industrial unrest has not only increased the uncertainty of costs, but in some cases has raised doubts as to the possibility of continuing operations.

"Those who fear increases in labor charges point to the example of one of the smaller steel mills which after weathering the depression, was finally forced into receivership. Shortened hours and higher wage rates saddled on this company by the code were not offset by belated price increases."

There was more railroad business last week. The Union Pacific bought 25,000 tons of rails, the Reading 10,000 [with its own funds]. The Boston & Maine has ordered 10 de luxe coaches, 21 suburban pasenger cars, 10 steam locomotives and 4 Diesel electric engines.

The week's structural steel awards were 15,800 tons, against 25,800 the week before.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—Application for a Public Works administration loan of $20,000,000 was made today by a group of Chicagoans who propose to form the Standard Aluminum and Alloy company of Chicago and with the proceeds establish plants in Decatur, Ala., and Bauxite, Ark.

The applicants included R. J. Gowdy of the Engineering Service of Chicago, C. H. MacDowell, and E. P. Everhart of Hinsdale. Under terms of the plan raw materials from Arkansas and power supplied by the Tennessee Valley administration would be utilized.

Public Works officials said Secretary Ickes' policy was to give federal projects and political subdivision prior claim. Doubt was expressed that the application would be approved.

POWER OUTPUT RISES; RATIO OF GAIN DECLINES

Production in Chicago Moves Higher.

Electricity output last week gained 10,600,000 kilowatt hours in the United States and about 2,500,000 in the Chicago area over the preceding week. The margin of national production over the corresponding week of 1933 was slightly less than that of the week before, but the margin in the Chicago district was somewhat higher.

Output in the United States for the week ended May 12, amounted to 1,643,433,000 kilowatt-hours, compared with 1,632,766,000 in the preceding period. The excess over the total of 1,468,035,000 kilowatt-hours in the corresponding week of 1933 was 11.9 per cent, against 13.7 the week before and 16.8 in the week ended April 28.

Gain Significant Last Year.

Last year in the week ending May 13, the electric light and power industry turned out an unusually large volume of energy, under the leverage of an increasing industrial demand. The gain in that week over the like period of 1932 was 2.2 per cent, which, small as it was, was the most considerable for any week since April, 1930. The week's total showed a spurt of more than 32 million kilowatt-hours over the preceding period.

Electric production in the Chicago district last week amounted to 94,347,000 kilowatt-hours, compared with 91,780,000 in the preceding week. The margin over last year's total of 87,381,000 kilowatt-hours was 8 per cent, considerably more than the 3.6 shown the week before. In the seven days ended April 28 the excess was 13.1 per cent. Last year at this time the power output in this district was beginning to show gains over 1932.

Detail Comparisons.

Following are the output and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district:

KILOWATT-HOUR OUTPUT.

Week ended—	1934.	1933.	Per Cent Increase.
May 12	94,347,000	87,381,000	8.0
May 5	91,760,000	88,549,000	3.6
April 28	96,147,000	85,031,000	13.1
April 21	95,701,000	87,054,000	9.9

It was only on the Pacific coast and in the west central area that output evidenced an increase over 1933 which was larger than the week before. The margin for the Pacific coast was 16 per cent, against 15.3; for the west central district, 8.7 against 6.5.

In New England the excess was only 9.1 per cent, against 13 in the preceding seven days; in the middle Atlantic states, 7.7 against 10.2; in the central industrial, 15.5 against 16.3; in the southern states 7.6 against 11.5; in the Rocky mountains, 25.5 against 26.8.

PROMISES "LAST DITCH" FIGHT ON U. S. POWER PLANS

With the selection of George J. Leahy, vice president of the Republic Coal and Coke company, Chicago, as national chairman, the National Job Saving and Investment Protection Bureau for the Coal Industry yesterday declared that the bureau will "fight to the last ditch" the plans for government owned hydro-electric projects.

"We represent 600,000 coal miners and millions of dollars of tax paying property of twenty-four coal mining states, and we will not sit idly by and see thousands of these men forced out of jobs," said Chairman Leahy. "We are determined to protect our enormous investment in coal mining property that is being threatened by the uneconomical and unnecessary governmental water power projects."

AM. TELEPHONE MAINTAINS $9 DIVIDEND RATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 16.—Directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph company today voted to maintain the $9 annual dividend rate on the common shares by declaring the regular quarterly disbursement of $2.25 a share. The dividend is payable July 16 to holders as of June 15.

The action of directors in voting the dividend keeps intact the company's record of a $9 annual rate on the shares since 1921. However, in the last twelve quarters the payment has not been fully earned, with the result that the company had to dip into surplus to make the payment.

Based on the 18,662,275 shares, the distribution by the company will amount to approximately $42,000,000. About 681,000 stockholders will share in the disbursement.

Dividends Exceed Profits.

Dividend payments last year exceeded net income by $30,503,699 and in 1932 the excess disbursement was $22,047,696. For the first quarter this year the payment was $8,958,010 more than was earned during the period. The earnings equaled $1.77 a share.

With the upturn in profits the company reported that the Bell system had shown a net increase of 108,000 telephones and an 8 per cent gain in toll and long distance calls for the three months ended March 30.

This expansion followed a gain of about 85,000 telephones in service during the last four months of 1933. For the entire year 1933 the company had a net loss of 630,000 telephones compared with loss of 1,650,000 in 1932.

National Biscuit Cuts Rate.

National Biscuit company declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, payable July 14. Previous payments on the present $10 par shares have been 70 cents quarterly since April, 1930.

The present action marked the first reduction of the National Biscuit dividend since payments were begun in 1899. Company officials offered no comment on the action. In the March quarter this year net income of $3,066,620 was equal to 42 cents a share the same as a year ago.

Consolidated Film Industries declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on the preferred stock, payable July 2 Arrears on the stock amount to $3.50 a share.

McFadden Publications declared a dividend of $3 a share on the $6 preferred stock, payable July 10. This is the first dividend since $3 a share was paid in January, 1932.

National Finance corporation declared an extra dividend of 15 cents a share on the 6 per cent preferred.

The Seaboard Oil company of Delaware declared an extra dividend of 10 cents and the regular quarterly disbursement of 15 cents.

Brokers Find Little Sunshine Amid Gloom of Stock Control

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The months long battle of the brokers to forestall government regulation of stock exchanges was over yesterday as the exchange forces counted their casualties and sought to adjust themselves to their new rôles of vanquished warriors.

R. ARTHUR WOOD. [U. & U. Photo.]

News from Washington that President Roosevelt would insist upon the more rigorous house bill as against the comparatively liberal senate bill was the last blow for the brokers. They immediately resigned themselves to the worst and began to figure how they might best operate under the new rules.

So many discouraging things have happened in the brokerage business during the last few years that the brokers have acquired a callus to bad news that even the passage of the long feared Fletcher-Rayburn bill may not penetrate fatally.

Stoically, some of the same individuals who had been viewing the bill with greatest alarm yesterday found scraps of cheer in its passage.

"It may develop some business for us and help the market perk up," said one of them. "Now that the stock exchanges are to be rigidly supervised by the government the public may be encouraged to get back into the market."

In general, however, the brokerage fraternity was far from cheered by the news from Washington. The gloom was thick in brokers' offices. As if auguring lean times the ticker yesterday ground out its daily grist of numbers haltingly and there were long pauses. Trade in stocks was at the year's low.

Particularly discouraged were the group of Chicagoans headed by R. Arthur Wood, former president of the Chicago stock exchange, who for weeks have been directing the brokers' nationwide battle against too strict federal regulation of exchanges.

* *

The Chicagoans voluntarily assumed leadership of the opposition to the Fletcher-Rayburn bill and set up a closely knit national organization. New York houses purposely kept out of the fight because of the fear that too great participation on their part would lead sponsors of the bill to shout that Wall Street was attempting to propagandize the nation.

Wood as untitled head of this nameless organization appointed sectional chairmen in key cities throughout the country and these chairmen enlisted assistants and named local subchairmen. Brokerage houses were urged to point out to their customers the dangers of the situation and petition for their aid

This "educational" campaign worked well enough, except that the brokers forgot to educate the right people. They concentrated on their customers—who already agreed with them—and forgot that stockholders are, after all, only a small part of the total voting population.

It isn't the stockholder who wants Fletcher-Rayburnism. The stockholder falls into one of two classes. Either he hasn't lost much money and is satisfied with things as they are or he has lost money, is anxious to get it back, and fears that federal regulation of stock markets may take the recoil out of stocks.

* *

The investment bankers made the same mistake last year when they were fighting the federal securities act of 1933, which has caused the bond business to dry up. Instead of showing the ordinary workingman that killing the bond market would reduce the number of available jobs the investment bankers spent all their time and effort convincing their investor customers—most of whom were already convinced.

CUSTOMERS $250 DELAYS CLOSING THORNTON BANK

It is not as easy to get out of the banking business as might appear at first blush. At least the officials of the Thornton State bank, Thornton, Ill., assert it is difficult to get depositors to claim their money.

On March 17 the bank sent an announcement to depositors telling them to come and get their money because there was no profit in operating the institution. Deposits amounted to about $150,000. Three weeks later there was still about $40,000 unclaimed. Yesterday there remained about $250 belonging to ninety depositors, an average balance of $2.08 each, which had not been called for.

W. C. Bielfeldt, cashier, said yesterday he did not believe that more than $50 of the balance would be claimed, but the bank will keep its doors open another two weeks in order to wind up its affairs. Unclaimed funds are turned over to the state auditor, who keeps it for a period of five years and if it is still unclaimed it goes to stockholders.

'STOCK COUNSELS' UNDER SCRUTINY OF STATE OFFICE

Assistant State's Attorney James J. Cherry, head of the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office, announced yesterday his office is investigating activities of so-called "investment counselers" whose efforts to give investors a "sure thing" have cost Chicagoans more than a half million dollars in the last six months. The prosecutor declared that indictments charging embezzelment would be sought in cases where fraud is discovered.

Mr. Cherry described the activities of the self-termed "experts" similar to those of the race track tout who is always ready with tips. "Usually these investment counselers advertise a statistical service or a system," he said. "They play with the other fellow's money, assume no responsibility when the victim's money is gone, and take 25 per cent of any profits."

Mr. Cherry said information had reached his office that more than 25 such "investment counselers" have established spacious offices in the loop.

SENATE ANGERED BY ROOSEVELT'S STOCK STAND

President Supports House Control Bill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—President Roosevelt caused new confusion over the conference on the stock exchange bill today when he announced himself in favor of administration of the proposed act by the federal trade commission, as provided by the house bill, rather than for administration by a special commission, as contemplated by the senate bill.

Coming on top of yesterday's attempted resignation of Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] from the senate banking and currency committee, the President's pronouncement caused postponement of the meeting of the conferees of the two houses until tomorrow.

The senate conferees were irate. They were not informed that the President had declared himself until after his declaration had been made public.

Adds to Glass Anger.

The President's statement also added to the anger of Senator Glass who attempted to resign his banking committee place because he had purposely been left off the list of conferees. As author of the senate bill's administrative provisions, the veteran banking expert was passed over to insure the conference committee's approval of the house provisions.

It appeared that Senator Glass thought he had been acting with the President's approval in pushing for a separate commission. It was reported that the President in his habitually politic way had told the Virginia senator to go ahead—that he would keep an open mind. Asked whether the President had encouraged him, Senator Glass declared that he hadn't been "chasing after phantoms for the last five weeks."

Senator Barkley [Dem., Ky.], one of the senate conferees, wanted to resign because he felt he was pledged to support the Glass provisions, but didn't want to do so in the face of the President's order. He was persuaded not to resign by Chairman Fletcher, who made the somewhat surprising announcement that the Kentucky senator would hereafter act as a "free agent."

Say They Will Not Yield.

So irritated were the senate conferees over the position in which the President had placed them that at an informal meeting they promised one another they would not yield on the Glass provisions until ordered to do so by the senate.

The President's preference for administration by the federal trade commission was explained on the following grounds: That the trade commission is already set up and has the machinery ready to start functioning; that it will save money, since only two more commissioners will have to be appointed, instead of five.

The President also preferred the provisions on margin requirements as written in the house bill.

STOCKS DECLINE; VOLUME FALLS TO YEAR'S LOW

Silver Shares Subjected to Severe Break.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 16.—Silver shares declined sharply today, providing the only feature in a dull and listless market. Turnover fell to 717,404 shares, the smallest of the year.

Effects of the day's news developments were mixed. Payment of the regular American Telephone and Telegraph dividend was offset by President Roosevelt's indorsement of the drastic provisions of the house stock exchange control bill. Reduction of the National Biscuit dividend to $2 annually from $2.80 brought selling into that issue. The reported plan of the President to send a message on munitions manufacture hit Du Pont, driving it to a new low.

Rails Ignore Loading Trend.

Individual railroad freight revenue reports indicated another decline in the weekly carloading figures, but the carrier group as a whole was little affected by the statistics. Most trading favorites, including Union Pacific, Atchison, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, and Central finished the session either unchanged or within a small fraction of their previous closing levels.

Price movements throughout most of the session were as narrow as they were sluggish. In the late afternoon the leaders began to veer downward and the close found American Can, U. S. Steel, Western Union, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Bethlehem Steel, Peoples Gas, and others of their strata a point or so lower.

Packing Shares Strong.

Packing shares made the most valiant attempt to carry on for the bull side. Armour preferred set the pace, on rumors provided by a report of the completion of the company's reorganization plan, but sold off late and closed more than a point lower. Evidence of pressure was still displayed by the motors, both General Motors and Chrysler encountering offerings slightly above their previous close.

In the silver group United States Smelting broke more than 5 points in a wave of selling which hit it shortly after the opening and at one time was down as much as 10. Some support orders toward the last enabled the issue to finish only 5½ points lower. American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco gave up more than a point each. The driblet of buying orders which appeared in the group in the afternoon was attributed to renewed hopes of inflationary developments as a result of the silver conference at the White House slated for the afternoon.

148 NEW ISSUES ARE REGISTERED IN FOUR MONTHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 16.—The federal trade commission said today that during the first four months of the year 148 new capital issues, excluding reorganization securities, for a total of $280,490,627 had been registered and become effective under the provisions of the securities act of 1933. GRAIN BROKERS CHARGE U. S. WITH BREAKING TRUST

Pit Traders Boiling Mad Over Commodity Bill.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Boiling mad over what they described as the administration's "breach of trust" in forcing special legislation for control of the nation's commodity exchanges, officials of the Chicago Board of Trade and leaders in the grain trade yesterday hailed the biting minority report of Representative Chase of Minnesota denouncing the measure.

The commodity exchange control bill, members of the grain trade declare, confers such sweeping powers on the secretary of agriculture that every trader and dealer in the business will become subject to political domination of the government.

The administration has placed the bill on the "must" slate for passage during the present session of congress. This is being done after commodity exchanges and particularly the Board of Trade was led to believe that no further political control would be forced if it set up rigid control features of its own under its code of fair competition. No definite promises were given by the administration, but the exchanges were allowed to believe that code control would be tried for at least a year before other regulatory measures were foisted upon them, it was declared.

Carey Denounces Measure.

Peter B. Carey, president of the grain exchange, was scorching in denouncing the measure which has been favorably reported by the committee of the house of representatives.

"Congressman Chase is absolutely right in his characterization of the bill," Mr. Carey said. The Chase report, made public Tuesday, labeled the bill "communistic," declaring it would be "impossible to conceive" greater administrative tyranny that the grain futures administration seeks to exercise over the exchange, commission merchants and others connected with the trade.

The suggestion that interbureau jealousy was the motive for putting steam behind the bill was made by some brokers. It was pointed out that under the grain exchange code, which became effective March 31, the regulatory powers are vested in the Agricultural Adjustment administration while the grain futures administration is the beneficiary of the powers conferred by the pending legislation.

Duval Has "Pet" Theory.

J. W. T. Duval, chief of the futures administration, has long had a pet theory that a group of big traders through manipulation were the real force in governing grain prices. It was this belief that led to the action against Arthur W. Cutten upon which public hearings are now being held.

It was further pointed out yesterday that the grain futures administration used the same publicity methods in attempting to muster support for the commodity exchange control measure that was used by Ferdinand Pecora in rallying support to the stock market control bill.

The administration's report on the Cutten case was released to the press April 12, the same day that opponents of the control measure were to be heard by the house committee. The case had been dragging along since 1930. The Pecora report on brokers' profits was made public just before the house voted on the stock control legislation.

HOMESTAKE MINE WILL PAY 2D $50 EMPLOYE BONUS

Lead, S. D., May 16.—(AP)—June 1 will be another Christmas day to 2,200 employés of the Homestake Mining company which operates the largest low grade ore gold mine in the world.

Directors of the company announced every employé of the company will receive a $50 bonus check. The total bonus will be about $110,000.

The bonus is the second one of the same amount to be paid by the company since the price of raw gold soared to $35 an ounce. A similar amount was paid to the same number of employés Dec. 2, 1933.

The company last September announced a general wage increase of 10 per cent. The company also pays annual "no accident" bonuses to promote safety in the mine.

NEW DEAL CHIEF TOPIC OF ILLINOIS BANKERS' SPRINGFIELD PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 16.—With the national moratorium a year behind them, bankers of the state will gather here next Monday for a two day convention at which discussions of the new deal by some of its principal exponents and critics will play an important part. The convention is that of the Illinois Bankers association.

Principal speakers include Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation; Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator from Illinois; Congressman Charles E. West of Ohio, and Norman Thomas, candidate for president on the Socialist ticket in 1928 and 1932.

Congressman West, a New Deal supporter, will present an "appraisal of the national industrial program." Former Senator Glenn is expected to voice the opposite viewpoint. Mr. Thomas will speak at a meeting being given to the bankers by the Mid-Day club Tuesday. State Treasurer John C. Martin and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett are also on the convention program. Among the speakers who will appear before divisional groups are Abner J. Stillwell, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, Chicago, who will discuss the bankers code, and Prof. James Washington Bell of Northwestern university.

H. A. Brinkman, cashier of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago, has been nominated for president of the association for the coming year. Other nominees are S. Nirdlinger, Galesburg, vice president, and E. B. Appleton, Litchfield, treasurer.

FIRST GOLD EXPORTED TO ENGLAND IN FOUR MONTHS; DOLLAR GAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 16.—The Federal Reserve Bank of New York today reported the withdrawal from earmark of $1,750,000 gold and the shipment of the same amount to England. This was the first export of gold to England since January when shipments of $1,261,600, valued at the old rate of $20.67 an ounce, were reported.

No details of the transaction were available apart from the information that it was a "special" transaction without monetary significance. The financial community was uncertain whether the gold had been under earmark here for British account or whether it represented a portion of the gold lately earmarked here by Colombia. It has been generally understood that Colombia was making use of this earmarked gold for the purchase of war supplies.

The bank reported the receipt of $1,488,600 gold from Mexico. Since the earmarking release and shipment to England canceled each other, the Mexican import made up the day's net gain in gold.

The price of gold in London declined a half penny to 136 shillings a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.77 at the pound's opening price of $5.11¼]. Only $485,687 was available to buyers.

The dollar rose in terms of nearly all important foreign currencies, closing at 59.30 cents measured in French gold francs. The franc was ¾ point lower at 6.605 cents. Sterling lost ¼ cent at $5.11.

WHEAT PARLEY ENDS; ARGENTINE STATUS IN DOUBT

LONDON, May 16.—(AP)—Ten days of private negotiations between the big four wheat delegates ended tonight, leaving in doubt the question whether Argentina can be prevented from breaking the 1933 wheat agreement. A report of the deliberations was being sent to the governments concerned, including the United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina.

It was indicated the report includes a tentative compromise arrangement under which no set amount would be loaned to Argentina on her quota under existing wheat export agreements. It was known that during final sessions a firm demand was presented that Argentina reform its wheat sales practices before getting a bigger slice of the world wheat market.

Representatives of the American dominions were said to have stood pat on their insistence that Argentina must curb her alleged dumping.

BANK INSURANCE PUBLIC'S DEMAND, SAYS CROWLEY

Excelsior Springs, Mo., May 16.—[Special.]—"The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation is here to stay, because the people of the country demanded that their deposits be given at least a minimum of insurance, and this corporation is the answer," Francis C. Brown of the corporation's legal department, said here today. He read a speech prepared by Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the insurance corporation, before the Missouri State Bankers' association, which is holding its annual meeting.

Crowley stated that the future will probably see some changes in the operation of the corporation, but they will be alterations better enabling the insurance of deposits. He added that it is not too much to say that the future of the present banking system depends heavily upon the success of the corporation.

CLYDE ANDREWS HEADS CHICAGO SECURITY GROUP

Clyde H. Andrews of Max McGraw & Co. yesterday was elected president off the recently formed Chicago Security Dealers' association. The organization is composed of smaller investment houses, chiefly those classed as "nonmember" organizations.

Berger Osland, head of the firm bearing his name, was made vice president, J. F. Darch of Webber, Darch & Vigo, was named treasurer, and A. Wayne Clemens was appointed secretary.

Plans for increasing the organization's membership, which now numbers about 40 firms, were discussed. It is hoped to increase this to about 100 firms. The association was organized several months ago by small dealers who sought to remove the stigma often attached to reputable security houses which are not members of exchanges, through activities of "bucket shop" operators.

WHEAT BOUNDS AGAIN ON NEW CROP REPORTS

Heavy Losses Indicated; Other Grains Rise.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Dust storms and high temperatures in the American and Canadian northwest combined with pessimistic reports on the outlook for grain crops in South Dakota started a buying movement yesterday which lifted wheat prices 3⅝ to 4 cents from an early decline and the close was at the top. Net gains were 2⅜ to 2½ cents, with May at 90½ cents and July at 88½ to 88⅝ cents.

Other grains followed wheat, corn gaining ⅞ to 1 cent, oats ⅞ to 1⅛ cents, rye was ½ to ¾ cent, and barley ¼ to ½ cent. Winnipeg wheat closed 1 cent to 1⅛ cents higher.

Crop Reports Unusually Poor.

Seldom has the grain trade been confronted with such unfavorable crop reports at this season. R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Brothers & Co. crop expert, who covered 240 miles in South Dakota between Yankton and Aberdeen reported general conditions were deplorable for small grains, especially wheat. Fifteen per cent of the intended grain acerage has not been planted and 50 per cent more has been so badly blown it would require replanting to get even a 40 per cent stand. It is now too late to plant wheat or oats, he said. Long stretches have been too badly blown to permit corn planting or preparation for planting without rain. No rain was shown on the weather map and only scattered showers were indicated by the official forecast.

Predicted showers combined with liquidation by eastern and local longs gave the wheat market a weak turn early. Reinstating of sold out lines and short covering was regarded as responsible for the sharp rally which came toward the close. Outside speculative interest was not large.

Canadian Situation Bad.

The situation in a large part of the three Canadian provinces has become precarious, according to numerous reports received by Chicago houses. In some parts of Manitoba soil drifting has been so severe that roads could not be kept open even with scrapers and have had to be shoveled out by hand.

Crop reports on winter wheat were spotted. The Millers' National federation summary said conditions in the soft red wheat states were rather favorable, but hard winter states showed a wide variation. Some areas were reported "permanently relieved by recent rain; others are going back daily, and others have been damaged beyond repair."

The best sections are eastern Kansas, western Nebraska, central and southern Oklahoma, and the south plains of Texas. The worst are west and southwest Kansas, central Nebraska, western Oklahoma, and the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles.

Cash corn has started to move from west of the Mississippi river to the Pacific coast. Country offerings to arrive here were 65,000 bushels, largely from interior terminals.

Reports of chinch bug damage to the new Illinois oats crop are increasing and had some effect on the market yesterday. In the northwest the grasshopper menace is viewed with increased concern.

REFUNDING FARM LOANS REDUCED 15½ PCT. BY U. S.

Refinancing of farm mortgages by federal farm loan corporations from June 1, 1933, to Feb. 28, 1934, in Illinois, Missouri, and Arkansas, involved scaling down of principal on 15½ per cent of the loans, according to the Farm Credit administration.

The scaling down averaged 24.7 per cent of the principal on 19 per cent of the mortgages refinanced by the land bank commissioner, and 20.4 per cent on 12 per cent of the mortgages closed by the Federal Land bank.

For Illinois 10.8 per cent of the mortgages were written down with an average reduction in principal of 21.15 per cent.

Portland Terminal.

Investors' Guide: What do you think of Portland Terminal company first 4s and 5s of 1961?—B. G. H.

Answer: This $8,350,000 bond issue is secured by a valuable first lien on terminal properties in Portland and Westbrook, Me., used by the Boston and Maine Railroad and the Maine Central Railroad companies, and bears the guarantee of the Maine Central Railroad company.

The latter road operates 1,118 miles of track, practically all of which is in Maine. About 50 per cent of freight revenue is from manufactured goods. Agricultural goods contribute about 25 per cent. Bangor and Aroostook's diversion of potato shipments to water has reduced a formerly valuable source of business.

Passenger trafic ordinarily contributes a large proportion of revenues. Decrease of vacationing tourists during recent years and heavy competition of motor travel have cut into earnings from that source.

In the first quarter of 1934 only 46 per cent of charges was earned, against 63 per cent in the first three months of 1933.

The company barely managed to cover fixed charges during 1933. In 1932 it covered four-fifths of charges, and in 1931 just fell short of covering them. They were earned by fairly substantial margins in preceding years.

The strong lien position of the terminal bonds entitle them to a sound rating.

H. R. Mallinson Company.

Investors' Guide: I have some stock of Mallinson. Any information will be deeply appreciated.—Z. J.

Answer: H. R. Mallinson company, Inc., is an important eastern manufacturer of silks. Operations since 1923, a peak year, have been unsatisfactory. Rigid economies during 1932 and 1933 have checked losses.

In 1933 the company was in a position to report a profit for the first time in five years, but a three months' strike in September choked production and prevented the company from operating in the black.

Loss for the year was $295,000, against $200,000 in 1932. In 1931 the company lost $561,000, against loss of $1,457,000 in 1930.

Continued losses have eaten into current position. At the close of 1933 current assets, including only $47,000 cash, aggregated $636,000, while current liabilities were $442,000. Last month the company obtained a $500,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

On Dec. 31, 1933, deficit from operations was $588,000. Capitalization consisted of 12,811 shares of $100 par preferred and 200,000 shares of no par common. Nothing has been paid on the $7 preferred since October, 1930. Both the preferred and common are quite speculative.

New York, May 16.—Bonds of all classifications were strong on the Stock exchange today in quiet trading. Speculative railroad bonds in the domestic list showed the best gains on the day, a fairly representative group mounting a point or more. The industrials and utilities were a shade lower on the average. Foreign loans showed some improvement and United States government bonds were mostly higher.

Although by far the most active dealings in the domestic corporation list appeared in the rails, certain sections of the utility group were by no means neglected, notably the obligations of International Telephone and Telegraph, Western Union and Postal Telegraph and Cable.

Rally Saturday.

The day's improvement resulted from a modest late rally. The list milled about in an indecisive manner most of the day, with only a few specialties attracting any attention. The extreme dullness of stocks apparently was a retarding factor, but little liquidation developed. News of particular interest to the market was meager. Transfers totaled only $10,738,000, par value, against $11,077,000 yesterday.

In the foreign group, German loans again pointed higher. A feature was the jump of 17⅞ points in Rhine-Main Danube corporation 7s due 1950, to a price of 67⅞ at the close.

Exchange Rumor Unconfirmed.

This issue is jointly guaranteed by the German government and the state of Bavaria. Rumors of an exchange offer for the bonds have not been substantiated, by interested bankers. Virtually all leading European loans were steady, some showing fractional gains on the day. Latin American loans were lightly traded.

Curb bonds were steady to strong in quiet dealings. Advances of small fractions to 4½ points were recorded in the domestic list.

NEW ISSUES.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Bancamerica-Blair corporation, George B. Gibbons & Co., Inc., Darby & Co., Graham, Parsons & Co., and Wm. Cavalier & Co. are offering $2,000,000 City of Los Angeles 4½ per cent water works bonds, due $50,000 annually, June 1, 1935-'74, inclusive.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., are offering an issue of $115,000 Town of Bristol, R. I., 3½ per cent funding bonds, due June 1, 1935-'58.

WALLACE VIEWS TARIF PLAN AS AID TO WHEAT

Washington, D. C., May 16.—Normal wheat exports from the United States totaling 125 to 150 million bushels annually in the not too distant future were predicted by Secretary Wallace today as likely to result from the administration's tarif adjustment program.

The secretary expressed the opinion that many European countries would soon come to realize that they have gone too far in the direction of agricultural self-containment. He mentioned "the terrible tension" which nationalistic agricultural tendencies of many countries had caused among their city populations due to high production costs among farmers. Foreign markets now closed to American wheat and other farm products would have to be reopened through granting of mutual tarif concessions, he said.

During the last year the United States shipped abroad only 4 or 5 million bushels of wheat, including flour, the secretary pointed out, if no account were taken of the 29 million bushels exported from the Pacific northwest to the orient with the aid of a government subsidy as an emergency measure.

Chicago Slot Machine Firm Is Barred from New York

New York, May 16.—(AP)—An injunction restraining the Mills Novelty Company of Chicago, owners and operators of slot machines, from bringing additional machines into New York state and from selling, licensing or otherwise dealing in the machines in this state was issued today by Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew. The court acted on application of the attorney general's office. Justice Carew denied a request that the restraining order also prohibit the company from moving their machines out of the state.

RISE IN FRESH PORK BOLSTERS PRICE OF HOGS

General Average Gains 5 Cents for Day.

Cool weather and further enhancement in fresh pork values continued to bolster hog prices yesterday. Competition in regular commercial hogs was rather brisk at the close, with the bulk of the crop selling at the highest prices since last Friday and only 5 cents under the highest marks of last week.

Buyers representing the government remained in the plainer classes of light weights and contributed little to the competition. Selected 210 to 224 pound light butchers topped the price list at $3.80, which was 10 cents above the practical top the preceding session. Late Tuesday afternoon shippers paid up to $3.80 for one load averaging 209 pounds, while the relief corporation refused to pay over $3.60 that day.

General Average Higher.

The latter interest was forced up to $3.70 for 180 to 210 pound averages yesterday and paid $3.75 for a small lot. The general average for the day, including government droves, at $3.60, indicated a 5 cent advance over Tuesday and was within 5 cents of the highest average since May 4.

The rise in the market is attributed to the recovery in pork rather than support of federal buying. Traders are convinced the FSRC has no intention of "forcing" prices up for the farmer. While the relief corporation pays relatively high prices for many lighter weight hogs lacking finish, which figure far above levels commercial buyers would pay, its buyers daily refuse to pay premium for top grades where quality warants it. Thus the only effect of government buying on the market has been to unbalance the price list.

Smaller interests were aggressive as fresh pork loins advanced to the highest levels since May 1. Top loins show a gain of 1 cent per pound over the close of last week.

All Cattle Strong.

All classes of cattle ruled strong to 25 cents higher with light weights leading the rise. Plainer classes were particularly brisk at the advance. Top steers sold at the highest levels since last Thursday, prime 1,242 pound averages reaching $9.35 late in the day. The majority of beef steers cashed within a range of $5.75 to $8.35, with a scattering of plain quality stock down to $4.50 and under. Some low grade stock ranged down to $2.50. Cows and hefers shared in the rise, with top 1,025 pound hefers selling at $7.25.

DECREASE IN LARD STOCKS HELPS TO ADVANCE PRICE

A liberal decrease in lard stocks during the last two weeks, combined with heavy shipments for export from Chicago and the advance in hogs, brought increased buying by cash and speculative interests yesterday. Prices advanced 2½ to 7½ cents on futures.

Cash lard was firmly held, although prices were not changed; regular was $6.15, loose $5.70, and leaf $5.75.

Bellies futures advanced 7½ to 17½ cents, September leading the upturn. Cash bellies were steady at $8. Prices:

JAPAN EXPANDS FOREIGN TRADE DESPITE CURBS

Seeks Domination in Far Eastern Commerce.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 17.—Under the stress of a national necessity which permitted no opposition and subordinated everything to a single objective, the Japanese last year pushed their foreign trade up to a grand total of nearly four billion yen, or the equivalent of $1,316,524,300 in American money. This represented an increase of 32½ per cent over the figure for 1932.

This means that Japan last year sold the other nations of the world goods valued at $644,023,000 and in the same period purchased merchandise from other countries to the value of $672,501,300 at a time when other nations were involved in a life and death struggle with the depression.

The Tokio Nichi-Nichi pointed out that Japan has now forged ahead of Great Britain as the leading cotton spinning nation and the leading exporter of cotton fabrics.

Beats China in Silk.

In silk, Japan is far ahead of China or any other silk producing country and in the production of artificial silk or rayon, Japan ranks next to the United States. In the export of rayon and rayon fabrics, Japan has passed the United States and now holds premier position. Japan is the leading buyer of Australian wool and her woolen goods, clever imitations of English patterns, are beginning to drive British goods out of far eastern markets.

While Japan does not possess any palatial ocean liners, her merchant fleet ranks third in the world's shipping and her tramps, heavily subsidized by the government, are the busiest on the seven seas. The editorial in the Tokio paper concluded with this paragraph:

"We may be faced with an emergency, but so are other countries. When all these facts are considered, why fear becoming isolated in the comity of nations? Some nations may place an embargo on our rubber shoes and knitted goods, but surely our all round contribution to the world is too large to be ignored entirely."

Regard Tarifs Complacently.

Thus do the Japanese regard with more or less complacency the fact that between twenty and thirty nations have erected trade barriers against the products of Nippon. They have confidence in their ability to keep on producing in ever increasing quantities, always keeping in mind the national trade slogan: "Cheaper and Better Goods than Our Competitors."

Statements by Japan's responsible industrial and financial leaders prove that Japan is determined to continue her drive for the control of world trade.

Manifest destiny, military necessity, a desire to achieve leadership or hegemony in far eastern economics and politics are cited as the driving forces behind Japan's industrial expansionist program. They are all closely linked with the military program.

Through a careful correlation of activities on the part of the government and the heads of the large industries which have close relations with the government, the Japanese have developed an industrial machine which they regard as unbeatable.

Week's Business Failures Lowest Since Fall of 1920

Business failures in the United States for the week ended May 10 dropped to 222, the lowest for any week since the fall of 1920. The total was 246 in the preceding week. There were 437 defaults in the corresponding week last year.

ITALY RENEWS ITS THREAT AGAINST AMERICAN GOODS

Seeks to Cut Large Export Deficit.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 16.—Threats of trade reprisals which will affect America's $50,000,000 cotton business with Italy, unless a reciprocity accord is reached whereby Italy can place more goods in the United States in return for the cotton purchases, were renewed today.

They appeared in the officially inspired newspaper " Iornale d'Italia," and obviously came direct from Premier Mussolini's headquarters. They appear also to be a reflection of the energetic measures which the Italian government is attempting to devise to rectify the trade deficit which had grown to 950,000,000 lire at the end of April. [The lire is worth 8.5 cents.]

"The United States furnisnes us with raw materials which we could buy elsewhere, notably cotton," says the journal. "For the importation of cotton, the Italian Cotton institute, which controls the purchases, may follow a policy of purchasing similar to that of other raw materials such as coffee, raw wool, oil, seeds and hemp, for which import licenses are required for the purpose of putting the trade between the United States and Italy on a better equlibrium."

The only other places where Italy could get cotton, however, would be India and Egypt, and with both of these countries Italy's trade balance is also heavily in deficit.

Anyway, it was indicated that direct negotiations for some kind of a reciprocity agreement between the United States and Italy will open shortly.

With its steady money values and its large need for raw materials, Premier Mussolini's government believes it has excellent cards in its hand to compel other countries to buy more of its products.

Meanwhile, Mussolini's plans for reducing food prices and costs generally to stimulate exports are not working quite smoothly. Retail dealers and many others are giving proof of their resourcefulness in evading orders.

MEN.

If you live on the South Side or South Side Suburbs, let me set you up in a profitable business of your own, backed up by our prosperous company.

I have been in this territory exactly seven months and have already set one hundred and forty-six men up in business for themselves, between Cadillac, Mich., and Mattoon, Ill., and still have thirty-four opportunities left.

I am in control of this territory of a business unique in character, merchandising an electrical unit that has no competition for which there is an ever increasing demand.

If on a personal interview you can satisfy me that you are honest, reliable and trustworthy, and really have a desire to succeed, willing to study and are teachable, you may be the very man I am looking for.

Our business is very profitable. Many of our associates earning as much as $50 on percentage basis in a single day, and after they become experienced handling our business receive a sizeable monthly income, not regulated by seasons, as ours is a year around business.

Selling experience not necessary, as if you are selected you are thoroughly trained at no expense to you. Some of our most successful associates never sold anything before joining us.

We stand all the expense of your business, such as rent, light, heat, telephone, help, etc., and in addition to giving you merchandise on open account, carry all of your time payment paper.

You do not invest one cent with us. We finance everything.

Our business is depression-proof, as same has increased every month of the last four years, with 1933 our busiest year. We have thousands of satisfied customers in this territory and are considered one of the country's outstanding organizations. There are no strings connected with the offer, and if you can meet the above requirements you will be granted a personal, confidential interview, which will quickly determine our mutual interests.

Apply Thursday between 11 and 2, Suite 404 Maryland Bldg., 841 E. 63d-st. [one block east of Cottage Grove], ask for E. T. LOVELL.

4 OR 5 MEN!

I should like to contact 4 or 5 men who have had at least 10 years' business experience, and who wish to establish themselves in a live business that will be permanent for at least 10 years, calling for no capital investment, and paying promptly on a generous percentage arrangement based on results. We furnish the merchandise and your place of business, not charging any overhead against you.

This superior electric unit is the product of many skilled engineers, here and abroad, who devoted years to bringing out something that has risen within a few years to the most pre-eminent place in its field on earth.

While you are learning this business your income may not be large. Mine wasn't, but in common with others who have been here from 1 to several years, I have steadily increased my earnings. You can do the same thing.

The men selected will live on the North or N. W. sides and be able to show good references, be neat and in good health. I will not consider boys or old men. If you are interested I wish you to give me about 2 hours of your time and if at the end of that time we get together I will have you in this business by next Monday. Call promptly at 2:00 p. m., Thurs., May 17, Room 215 at 1046 Wilson-av.

FONTANA FARMS
IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.
L. A. Zimmerman writes: "To work out in the open when one pleases, to be able to breathe the clear fresh air, and to drink cool, fresh mountain water, to plant everything and know IT WILL GROW, to be near the mountain playgrounds, to have all the advantages of the modern city and yet live in the country—this is the desire of most every man of the city, and the realization of all who live in FONTANA. Fontana surpasses all other similar agricultural sections because of its ideal weather for diversified farming, poultry and rabbits."
